ELEPHANT-SIZED SHOCK flashes across face of Charlene Wise of Arlington, Texas, Friday, when she unexpectedly became object of attentions of Sis Flagg IV, a three-month old Indian elephant imported to take part in an annual show. As Miss Wise was holding duck for a closer look, Sis decided to take a closer peek at Miss Wise's necklace. (AP Wirephoto).

DOCTORS STILL STRIKE

Belgium Hit By Epidemic

BRUSSELS (UPI)—A highly infectious children's disease was reported sweeping eastern Belgium today, as talks between the government and striking doctors appeared on the verge of collapse.

Observers said the skeleton medical staffs organized by the striking doctors would be swamped by even minor epidemics.

Reports from Liege and Luxbourg provinces said the infectious disease, not immediately identified, was reported in a dozen cases. Doctors warned parents not ao allow their children to return to school Monday when the Easter vacation ends.

But in an ominous warning from the government, Premier Theo Lefevre announced "the strike must end before we will re-open negotiations" on possible reconsideration of the nation's new health scheme, against which the doctors are protesting.

Doctors' representatives and government officials were to meet again today at Val Duchess Chateau outside Brussels—but only to discuss ways of reopening negotiations which broke down April 1, precipitating the strike.

Lefevre said angrily that "any normal group" would have stopped its strike and started negotiations at the point reached Friday after a seven-hour talk between the two parties.

"I hope this will not become known as the time of the assassins," Lefevre said as he entered the conference hall to begin the talks.

BRUSSELS — Sources close to the government said here tonight there was "good hope" that agreement would be reached later tonight which would end the strike of Belgium's 12,000 doctors.

WIRE BRIEFS

Jail Prisoners Riot

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—More than 200 prisoners rioted today in the Dade County jail, smashing windows, flooding some cells and corridors and hurling debris to the jail yard below. A dozen ringleaders were dragged, kicking and screaming, out of cells and placed in solitary confinement.

Montreal Raids

MONTREAL (CP) — Police anti-terrorist squads today continued a series of raids in an attempt to smash the underground Armee de Liberation du Quebec and questioned at least a dozen persons.

MacArthur Buried

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — With the measured dirge of cannon fire and the sad notes of taps, old soldier Douglas MacArthur was buried here today.

China Fair Guarded

TOKYO (UPI) — Red China opened the largest overseas trade fair in her history under heavy police guard in Tokyo today. Violence erupted almost immediately when a right-wing Japanese hurled two egg shells filled with black ink at a picture of Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai. He was arersted.

113 Die In Ship Fire

TEHERAN, Iran (UPI)—One hundred and thirteen persons drowned Friday night when fire broke out aboard a motor ship in the Persian Gulf, it was reported today. Only seven were rescued.

SCOTLAND WINS 1-0

GLASGOW (AP)—Scotland defeated England 1-0 in an international soccer match at Glasgow's Hampden Park Stadium today before a crowd of 134,000.

Alan Gilzean, Scotland's centre - forward, scored the winning goal in the 72nd minute.

The win gave Scotland a share with England in the British championship title. It also ended a six - game winning streak by England.

The game was played in drizzling rain.

The Scots completed three wins in a row over England—the first time they have done this since 1884.

ATTACKS PRESS

Lawyer Believes Oswald Innocent

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — New York lawyer Mark Lane, who has conducted his own investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy, Friday night accused the American press, radio and television of waging a deliberate campaign to delude the American people.

Lane, who represented the mother of Lee Harvey Oswald, said he is convinced Oswald had not fired the shots that killed Kennedy in Dallas Nov. 22.

The press campaign had included deliberate falsifications, he said, adding that "most of the overwhelming questions have not been answered by any official source."

The lawyer said he had a statement from the policeman who found a rifle in the building where Oswald was supposed to have fired the shots.

The rifle found there was a German Mauser, yet later official statements say it was an Italian carbine, he said. He said these two weapons are so different it would be difficult to make such a mistake.

A taxi driver who drove Oswald from the scene had been named by police, but Lane said his investigations of Dallas records showed no taxi driver of this name had ever driven a cab in Dallas.

SAYS PHOTOS VARY

Lane stated he had seen six different versions of a photograph showing Oswald holding a rifle and a revolver.

Scratches on the negative showing in the prints proved the six versions were from the same negative, Lane said. But the rifle held by Oswald had been retouched and close examination showed the different retouchers had inserted different type of rifles.

He said Newsweek magazine had obtained a hitherto unpublished and "sensational" statement from Dr. Malcolm Perry of Dallas Hospital, where the president was treated after being shot, in which the doctor altered his original testimony about Kennedy's throat wound.

Perry originally stated the wound in the president's throat was made by an entering bullet and later said it was an exit wound, the lawyer declared.

The doctor's statement indicated the change had been forced on him to match the official explanation that Oswald shot Kennedy from behind, Lane said.

2 Fliers Seen In Sea

HONOLULU (UPI) — The Coast Guard reported today that one of its planes had spotted two downed fliers alive in the water about 105 miles northeast of Hilo, Hawaii, and a cutter was being rushed to the scene to pick them up.

Top brass from three services wuz out t' greet Defence Minister Hellyer t'day—provin' his point about overlappin' manpower.

Hellyer Optimistic On Ship Contracts

New Program After July

By PETE LOUDON

New naval ship contracts will be let as soon as possible after July, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer said here today.

He said a study of anti-submarine weapons systems will be completed in July.

"As soon as possible after that we can expect to be back in the ship procurement business," the minister added.

COAST TO SHARE

Mr. Hellyer, here on a one-day visit to defence establishments, said he could see no reason why Victoria and Vancouver shipyards would not share in contracts let at that time.

The minister said he realized that cost factors are higher in west coast yards, but "I am sure you can get your prices in line and share in the business."

He said he could give no definite word on the type of vessels the maritime defence system would require. Additional special studies will be given to a suggested need for vessels for troop transport and supply, he added.

He suggested that such vessels might be combined with vessels suited to carrying helicopters.

FUTURE USE

The study now being conducted by the defence department includes future uses of submarines, surface vessels, aircraft and combinations of all three.

He thought the findings would contribute to defence spending of an estimated $4 billion in the next four years.

At the same time, he said current plans to integrate the three services and streamline military operations could save about $1 billion over a decade.

Mr. Hellyer said there has been a "tremendous response" to the unification plan which was gratifying to the government.

"The integration will streamline effectiveness, reduce reaction time and save on purchases of equipment," he stated.

UNIFORM DISTANT

But the day when all forces will wear one uniform is not yet in sight, he cautioned, despite an earlier report from Ottawa that this would occur in 1965. He said this was corrected in the Commons.

It might come about "sometime" he said, because when the services are integrated under a single command there will be need for cross-postings in the many trades that now overlap.

The minister was unable to give details on how quickly the integration will proceed. First there would be integration of the top headquarters staff at Ottawa.

"The biggest wastage of manpower (if you can call it that) is there," he said.

Asked whether a single service would mean merger of the army base at Chilliwack with the navy base here or the RCAF base at Sea Island, the minister refused to speculate.

"I would think in due course

MAKARIOS CONFERS IN ATHENS

ATHENS (UPI) — Greek Premier George Papandreou conferred for three and a half hours today with Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios and said after the meeting "complete agreement was established" on the Cyprus question.

Makarios flew in this morning to align strategy with the Greek government and discuss possible return of famed Greek Cypriot underground leader Gen. George Grivas to the embattled island.

Makarios said he expected to meet Grivas either later tonight or Sunday.

Greeks Attack In Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Greek-Cypriots today launched a series of attacks against Turkish-Cypriot military positions in what appeared to be a major effort to wipe out Turkish military resistance in Northeast Cyprus.

The number of casualties was not immediately reported. United Nations peace forces rushed to the area but fighting continued and UN officials predicted a major Greek-Cypriot attack on the Nicosia-Kyrenia Highway.

In Nicosia, thousands of Greek-Cypriot students swarmed through the capital streets with banners demanding that British troops leave Cyprus.

Neutral authorities feared a Greek Cypriot attack against the Nicosia-Kyrenia highway would embroil them in direct fighting with the 650 Turkish troops here under a Turco-Greek treaty abrogated last week by President Makarios. The Turkish army guards part of the highway.

STRATEGIC

The highway is particularly strategic because the Turkish Cypriots would like for it to serve as a boundary if they ever win the partition they have demanded. Makarios abrogated the treaty because the Turks refused to return to their barracks from their positions along the highway.

The heaviest Greek Cypriot attack was reported at the Turkish stronghold of St. Hilarion Castle, high in the mountains overlooking Kyrenia—the castle used by Walt Disney as a model for "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Reoprts from the scene said the Greeks were pouring heavy fire up the mountain toward the castle from positions to the north and the south.

Castro Escaped 'Hot Mike' Plot

HALIFAX, N.S. (UPI) — A plot to assassinate Fidel Castro during a television address to the Cuban nation was betrayed in its final hours, three Cuban defectors said Friday night.

Several television actors and technicians planned to electrocute the Cuban leader during a television speech at the University of Havana, March 13, the refugees said. The occasion marked the 1958 students' attack on the presidential palace.

Two leading TV personalities were executed and some 15 technicians and actors, including six women, were jailed after a fellow actor revealed the plan to police, the refugees added.

The three Cubans, former stevedores at Havana harbor, escaped from Cuba via ship recently and now are in immigration detention quarters here.

The refugees, fearing harm to their families in Cuba, agreed to speak only if their names were not used.

They recounted the alleged assassination attempt through an interpreter.

"The technicians were going to hook a high voltage cable to the microphone that Castro would use during his speech. When he grabbed the microphone, they would throw a switch and the current would kill Castro.

"But two days before the speech, police arrested the actors and technicians. There were no regular programs on the TV network (CMQ) for two days, only pictures. And Enrique Santiesteban (described as a TV master of ceremonies) and George Guerrero (a poetry reader) were killed. The others were put in jail.

"Ramon Veloz (described as a singer) was the one who betrayed the plan," the Cubans said.

The three are seeking political asylum in the United States.

Socred Urges 'Five-Party Government'

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit Leader Thompson said today a national government, formed of the best talent from all five party groups, is the only solution to the critical problems now facing the federal administration.

He said in an interview that such a step may also be the only way to save the country from complete political chaos.

Mr. Thompson said a five-party government, replacing the minority Liberal administration, would be made up of men convinced of "the absolute necessity to forget old labels and old formulas" and would rally the nation as it had never been rallied before.

NEW SERIES STARTS IN 'TIMES'

'Fathers of Confederation'

It is 100 years ago this year that Canadian leaders got together at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, to discuss the organization of Canada into a nation.

Three years later Confederation came about. The centenary of this event will be celebrated on a grand scale in 1967.

British Columbia, which had been establishing itself independently out on the Pacific Coast, did not join the nation until 1871, and claims roots going back long before.

But the men who met in Charlottetown are classed as "The Fathers of Confederation."

As a mark of respect to their vision in forging the nation, and as a reminder to the younger generation of the work done by those who have gone before, the Times will launch a special feature beginning next Tuesday.

It consists of a gifted artist's drawings of "The Fathers" with biographical descriptions of who they were and the parts they played.

There are 33 men involved. The feature will appear three times a week for the next 11 weeks, which covers the rest of the school term for those who are studying this milestone in Canada's development.

The articles will appear in a form that makes them suitable for students to use them in scrapbooks.

Hatching plans for the new Bank of B.C. is best done under a warm sun, our leader believes.

And what finer incubator than beaches of the Bahamas, where Premier Bennett's eternal confidant—and bank director—Einar Gunderson also lolled this week.

Gunderson

The premier went from the federal-provincial talks at Quebec to the Caribbean, where Mr. Gunderson also was basking.

Mr. Bennett left Nassau earlier this week to stop in Toronto and will stay until after the Stanley Cup playoff game tonight.

He has a decided preference for sun and azure skies to dispel post-sessional weariness, having spent holidays in Palm Springs, Hawaii and Arizona.

As our friend was "unimpaired," he got his licence back with a courteous "Thank you" and "Good night" from the man in blue.

A special show of his sculpture is now on view at the Art Gallery, Moss Street, along with Governor's Invitational Show from the State of Washington.

Mr. McCracken was due to attend the formal opening of the show last Tuesday evening and receive the lionizing that was his due. But he sent word at the last moment of his inability to be present.

The reason: His goat had produced kids, and the infants needed the artist's tender care.

Police Recover Niagara Loot

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said today at least $815,600 in bonds and other valuables were recovered in raids that brought the arrest of three men in connection with the robbery of a bank in Niagara Falls, Ont.

Police identified the man arrested Thursday as Henri-Joseph Lizotte, 46, of Montreal and those arrested Friday as Robert Simpson, 43, of Toronto and Joseph Kinisky, 39, of Hamilton, Ont.

The robbery took place at a branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce the weekend of March 22. Niagara Falls police estimated the loot afterwards as about $400,000.

Police said officers here raided an apartment is suburban Pont Viau Friday and recovered about $500,000 in bonds and securities, $9,000 in cash and $56,000 in travellers' cheques. Two occupants of the apartment were arrested.

Authorities said a raid Thursday night resulted in the recovery of $250,600 worth of bonds in a Montreal home. The third man arrested was found there watching television.

Det. Sgt. Donald Harris of the Niagara Falls police said the loot "could well amount to $1,000,000 when we've finished counting."

P. E. Tourville of the Montreal police said the investigation will be carried to the United States where some of the stolen travellers' cheques were cashed.

Bigots Invited To Sue

TORONTO (CP) — The vice-chairman of the Canadian Jewish Congress says those who object to being named publicly as having spread hate literature can take legal action if they want.

Lawyer Sydney Harris named a Toronto printing firm and 15 individuals Thursday, saying they had been involved in the circulation of anti-Jewish literature.

Most of the people he named reacted indignantly to the charges. Three indicated they were considering suing both Mr. Harris and a newspaper which published their names.

Meanwhile, Justice Minister Favreau said here Friday his department is giving "our most careful consideration" to three separate briefs asking for action against hate literature.

"Any legislation intended to curb and punish such shameful and resentful practices must, at the same time, be worded in such a way that it will not encroach upon or violate either the freedom of thought, of speech, of the press or even of association," he said in an interview.

Engine Trouble Grounds C-124 At Patricia Bay

A huge C-124 U.S. Air Force transport plane was temporarily grounded by engine trouble at Patricia Bay airport this morning.

Operating out of McChord near Tacoma, the plane was on a training mission. After landing here and taking off it developed trouble in its number four engine and returned for repair, crewmen stated.

The plane has been engaged in relief flights to the Alaska earthquake disaster area and is partly loaded with sewer pipe.

Graduation Ceremony at Uvic Will Have Own 'Personality'

By AB KENT

University of Victoria will award twice as many degrees next month as it did last year.

The 1964 class should be around 160, although the final number depends on examinations starting a week from today.

Congregation, preceded by a baccalaureate service in St. Andrew's Cathedral the night before, is set for May 25 at Gordon Head gymnasium.

Convocation speaker will be Mnsgr. Jacques Garneau of Canadian Universities Foundation, whose subject will be Knowledge and Understanding.

He is originally from Laval University, but has represented all Canadian universities via the foundation for a number of years.

NEW SIGNIFICANCE

For the first time, congregation will take on a special significance and character for University of Victoria, which was created only last July 1, folowing 1963 congregation.

Classics professor Dr. Peter Smith, who has been working on the program, said the ritual will be "not greatly distinctive from UBC", but we did want it to have some personality of its own."

This has been achieved largely in the wording used during the ceremony—it is hoped the chancellor will say "admitto te" instead of "I admit you" when he taps candidates with his cap in the medieval rite—and in academic dress, which will be brilliantly colorful.

Ritualistic flavor is handed down through the centuries and a touch of archaism such as the Latin words above will enhance the effect, it is felt.

TRADITIONAL

It is traditional, for instance, for the candidate for convocation to drop to one knee while being admitted.

But conscientious objectors will not be pressed.

It is hoped the lieutenant-governor will perform the first part of the ceremony, the formal installation of Judge J. B. Clearihue as chancellor.

Veteran faculty member Prof. R. T. Wallace, who is dean of administration, and acting president Dr. W. H. Hickman will play a role, but new president Dr. Malcoln Taylor will not be a part as he does not assume office until July 1.

Professor emeritus Jeffree Cunningham will get the first honorary doctor of laws degree and then the candidates for bachelor of arts, bachelor of science and bachelor of education will receive their diplomas.

DISTINCTIVE COLORS

These, too, will be distinctive, in university colors and having text in English rather than latin.

The president, in royal blue and the chancellor in purple-corded silk, will be outstanding in their new academic dress.

For the first time, all members of the board of governors will be in regalia, grey robes with blue and gold trim, except those who have their own academic qualifications and dress.

Candidates will wear standard black robes and mortarboards and have hoods of Aberdeen cut—scarlet for arts, gold for science and blue for education.

HMCS Naden band will play during the program.

Lengthy, Bitter Grind Predicted in Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — Political sources say the government is determined to grit its teeth in anticipation of a long, tough period in the Commons, possibly extending through most of the summer.

An early election, while gaining favor recently among Liberal MPs and some of the cabinet ministers, has been ruled out, informants say.

The Progressive Conservative Opposition, which has debated at length and in detail everything that has come before the House in the last two weeks, is said to be determined to follow the same course for the rest of the parliamentary session.

In the face of these tactics, the Liberal hierarchy is reported to have met to assess the government's course.

Suggestions of an early election were said to have been defeated on the argument that a federal election campaign would so inflame the problem of French-Canada's claim that Quebec secession would be the result.

Few Liberals will agree with the assessment of other Opposition parties that the government would be soundly defeated in a federal election at this time.

NOT AS OPTIMISTIC

But they do not appear to be as optimistic of their immediate chances at the polls as they were earlier in the session.

Among Conservatives the prevalent view is that an early election would produce sufficient gains of seats in Ontario and the Atlantic provinces to return them to power.

Barring some change of mood in the Commons and some arrangement to allocate debating time on legislative proposals, the Conservatives appear prepared to give every measure rough passage.

Victoria Girls Shy? 33 Want Title

Victoria Jaycees earlier this week complained about the shyness of Victoria girls to enter their Miss Victoria Pageant May 11-16 at Victoria Exhibition.

But the girls showed 'em. One week ago the Jaycees had eight contest entrants. Today they have 33, some of whom are pictured above and at left.

"I'm delighted with the overwhelming response the girls have given this contest — but there's still room for more," said pageant co-director Gerry Warren.

Midnight tonight is the deadline and any girl wishing to enter can do so by telephoning Terry Farmer at 383-2765.

Wee-est Circus Raises Big Top

The biggest small circus in the world—or perhaps the smallest big one—will visit Victoria next week.

Playing here Tuesday through Saturday will be Ernie's miniature circus, made up of 50,000 hand carved figurines.

It reproduces on a tiny scale the old-time "bigger and better" Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus—right down to magicians, trapeze artists, clowns, elephants, and pickpockets fleecing the crowd.

All the figurines were carved by owner Ernie Palmquist or his wife.

Three rings are in full performance under the little big top, and some of them go through the motions, powered by tiny motors.

Palmquist started his miniature circus about 20 years ago, switching his full-time attention from music.

(He wrote the 1935 hit, The Music goes 'Round and 'Round.)

The miniature circus will be on display on the main floor of the Woodward's department store at the Mayfair shopping centre.

Admission is free.

Canadian Among Four Ousted by Portugal

LISBON (AP)—Four lawyers, one of them a Canadian, who came to gather facts about Portugal's penal system, were told today to leave the country on the first available aircraft.

A government spokesman said the lawyers were accused of having meddled "in Portuguese internal matters and attempted to disturb public order."

The group included Norman Endicott of Toronto, Conrado Gomez of Mendoza, Argentina, Robert Treuhaft of San Francisco and Robert Kenny of Los Angeles.

Earlier today the group was forbidden by political police to hold a scheduled press conference in their Lisbon hotel.

A foreign ministry spokesman said the four entered Portugal as tourists and that they "abused the hospitality guaranteed to them as tourists."

The lawyers were in custody of the Portuguese political police at the airport and could not be reached for comment on the government statement and action.

In Toronto, Mr. Endicott's wife said her 38-year-old husband has been in Europe for several weeks. He visited relatives in England, holidayed in Rome and then went to a conference of the International Association of Democratic Lawyers in Budapest, Hungary. He then went to Paris and on to Lisbon.

He is the son of Rev. James G. Endicott, a United Church minister and former missionary in China who has been an outspoken partisan of Communist China and other leftist causes. The senior Mr. Endicott was long-time head of the Canadian Peace Congress.

BICULTURAL COMMISSIONERS RAPPED

'Less Talk, More Listening'

OTTAWA (CP)—A blistering criticism of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism was unleashed in the Commons Friday by spokesmen for all four opposition parties.

Chief targets in the 1½-hour assault were the commission's co-chairmen, Davidson Dunton of Ottawa and Andre Laurendeau of Montreal who were accused of doing too much talking and saying the wrong things.

The issue erupted shortly before the House finished its marathon debate on the final supplementary estimates for 1963-64.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker objected to the "periodic interpretations" being made by the commission co-chairmen.

"They are supposed to be listening to the views of Canadians," he said. "They go across the country. They make speeches everywhere and they interpret their powers and their authority. . . . I think a word might be spoken to these men."

It had become "a commission of peripatetic after-dinner speakers who, wherever they go, interpret what they have heard in the intervening days since the last speech or the last press conference. This is not the purpose for which this commission was set up.

'NOT A PARADE'

". . . This is not a circus parade where, in order to gratify whatever the purpose might be, the performers make speeches wherever they go."

H. A. Olson (SC—Medicine Hat) read newspaper reports quoting statements by the co-chairmen to the effect that provincialism could lead to the collapse of Canada and that the commission's functions had been widely misunderstood.

He said these and other remarks were "widening the division between the cultural groups of the nation."

"If this Parliament is allowing public funds to be used so that these gentlemen can go about the country making these sort of statements, it is time the government took another look at the personalities of the chairmen . . . and informed them that it is not their purpose to make this kind of statement, or alternately to replace these gentlemen."

Charles - Arthur Gauthier (Creditiste — Roberval) said the commission had turned out to be "a gold mine for certain people chosen by the party in power."

Its chairmen should wait and make a report to Parliament instead of offering daily commentaries "which may lead to misunderstandings."

'BRAKE THESE MEN'

"I can't agree that the chairmen should give their opinions every day, and the socialist ideas of one of these gentlemen are really dangerous," he added. "I would suggest to the government they put a brake on these men."

Frank Howard (NDP — Skeena) said the commission was designed to appeal to one particular province and is resented in other parts of Canada.

Jack Horner (PC — Acadia) said the commission should be finding out what the average Canadian thinks of biculturalism. Instead, it seemed to be telling Canadians what they should think about the question.

Mr. Howard also spoke of the "insatiable demands" of the Quebec government and suggested the rest of Canada give up trying to meet them "and proceed on the assumption that Canada will consist of nine provinces."

DOES NOT EXIST

He said it is useless to argue about biculturalism because such a thing does not exist. "You have a culture and it is not divisible."

Mr. Howard also said that if the federal government keeps yielding to Quebec demands it will lead to the collapse of Confederation anyhow.

The 39-year-old former British Columbia logger told the Commons that Quebec is becoming like a drug addict. The more it got, the more it wanted. Like a drug addict, it would quickly develop an appetite impossible to satisfy.

London Preview?

THE ELIGIBLE VOTERS IN the Greater London Council elections numbered about one-sixth of Great Britain's total electorate. The impressive Labor victory in yesterday's balloting, therefore, rates as much more than a straw vote in the national sphere, and is being viewed with full significance by all parties.

Labor Party officials, who won 64 of the 100 seats at stake, estimate a comparable return throughout the country in a national election would give them a 90-seat majority in the House of Commons. Recent national opinion polls have also been giving Labor an increasing lead.

But against this it is pointed out that London is not the whole country and the London result is not necessarily a reflection of rural and provincial thinking. It is also noted that less than half of the eligible voters turned out, and that in any case the concerns of council constituents are not synonymous with those of Britons who vote on national issues.

But even with these considerations, the Conservatives cannot avoid the stark fact that the government has not recovered from the loss of public support in the closing days of Mr. Macmillan's leadership and the criticism which followed Sir Alec Douglas-Home's assumption of the prime minister's office.

There has been no turn-of-the-tide event, no rallying of national sentiment, no splendid gesture to rouse the nation's interest and support. There have been, instead, a series of squabbles over relatively minor matters and a growing sense of frustration in both domestic and foreign affairs.

Sir Alec has six months at most to repair the situation, devise an outstanding policy and capture the imagination of the British voter. In the process he must capture the imagination of his own party and heal the serious dissension that has marked it during recent months in such matters as the "resale price maintenance" legislation.

If the general election is called in October as expected, it will be the first time in half a century that a British government has run its permitted full five years. To wait longer than four years is interpreted as a sign of weakness in a government, an unwillingness to face the voters until forced to do so by law. This might well be regarded as the Conservative government's reason too. It has six months to overcome the belief.

Politics and Pedagogues

RECENTLY APPOINTED MINister of Industrial Development, Trade and Commerce, Mr. Ralph Loffmark has not been in office long enough to show what he can do in a post which is of considerable importance to the future of British Columbia.

However, the tax law professor-turned-politician has spoken out sufficiently in public recently to cause uneasiness concerning some of his economic ideas.

Mr. Loffmark's shining belief in some of the murkier theories of Social Credit came through recently in two places—an interview published in a Toronto financial newspaper and an address he gave to the B.C. Insurance Agents' Association.

In the interview, he is quoted as saying that the value of a society's bank credit depends on the talent and skill of its people and bank credit is, therefore, a public resource like forests and mines. He told the insurance men's meeting that "If we're going to control our destiny in Canada we've got to control our sources of credit and I think this is one of the reasons for forming the Bank of British Columbia."

Ottawa, no doubt, will be interested in this hint from Mr. Loffmark that the government of British Columbia is making its entry into banking for the purpose of controlling sources of credit, a move which the Social Credit government of Alberta attempted 30 years ago before it was disabused of the notion by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The Senate banking committee, which must pass on the proposed bank, will also be interested to learn that the value of the bank's credit will be based on the talent and skill of the people of British Columbia. Important as these attributes are, they are not sufficient in themselves to underpin the credit granted by any bank under the Canadian system.

Mr. Loffmark, in his address to the insurance men, also made the statement that insurance company reserve funds, which are a major source of credit for Canadian industry, should be brought under Canadian control because they were funds designed not only to show an investment return but also to acquire control of industry.

Of all people, Mr. Loffmark should know that the Canadian laws regulating insurance companies prohibit them from gaining control of another company, and that the investment of insurance companies in equities as distinct from bonds is very small.

In the interview with the Toronto newspaper, Mr. Loffmark is credited with some other disturbing statements. Speaking of a western resentment of eastern financial control—although just how strong such feelings are is a moot point—Mr. Loffmark said: "I wouldn't call Easterners carpet-baggers exactly. The carpet-baggers moved to the south and took over. Here we have people who sit back east . . . and make decisions that affect B.C. people directly."

This is about on a par with the new cabinet minister's earlier remarks to a Vancouver audience in which he referred to "sharks from the East" although admitting he had "nothing against foreigners."

Tow-Aways to Free the Flow

THERE WILL BE NO CHEERS from the victims who from now on will have to pay fines and towing charges for cars they have left improperly parked on certain city streets. The disappearance of their automobiles, plus the penalties, will come as a disagreeable surprise.

At the same time the new procedure appears necessary if the flow of heavy traffic is to be hastened along well-travelled routes. One car parked at a curb can block a whole line of traffic behind it — and be the indirect cause of accidents if drivers trapped in the lane closest to the curb try to edge back into the next line of traffic.

Provided the streets where parking is prohibited either for a part of the day or the whole day are adequately marked, motorists will have little reason to complain that they have been unjustly penalized. The experience in other cities, as well as here, proves that parking fines by themselves are not effective.

A ticket on a windshield does not open the lane blocked by the parked car. Traffic is still "corked" behind the standing vehicle. It must be removed to permit the flow. The charge for towing it away becomes a sort of "corkage" which violators of the law must pay—unpleasant, but unavoidable.

An Investment In the Past

FORTY-SEVEN COUNTRIES under a UNESCO program will spend $36 millions to save the Egyptian temples and carvings at Abu Simbel from the rising waters of the Nile River.

There is a striking paradox here. The United Nations was threatened with bankruptcy because a number of members would not pay their shares of the Congo peace-keeping operation, or of the Suez operation before it, and many were in arrears with their normal annual dues. Peace, it seemed, was not worth an expenditure of funds, or at any rate it was something which "the others" could pay for. Yet now a huge sum is to be expended on the preservation of a group of stone carvings more than 3,000 years old.

It seems odd, yet there is very real logic in this. We cannot fully appreciate our present or make the most of our future if we do not venerate our past. It would have been tragic if the rising Nile waters — the result of the vast Aswan power and irrigation project — had buried for ever these portions of our priceless heritage from ancient Egypt. Our material civilization has not made us so great that we can afford to lose treasures from the cradle of mankind.

And so today — at the eleventh hour, when a cofferdam must be built to buy time from the advancing waters—mankind is recognizing its responsibility and its debt, and is hurrying to move the treasures to a place of safety. It may seem a foolish expenditure in a world where many still have not enough to eat, but it carries nobility and a sense of integrity. There may be hope for us yet.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

IF YOU are driving up-Island stop at the Chemainus River and wander downstream. You will find many things of interest.

There are groves of Black Cottonwoods on the small islands with trees more than one hundred feet tall. Now they are breaking into leaf and the perfume of Balm-of-Gilead is pleasing.

Along the banks the Trilliums are now in full bloom, with their three petals and three leaves.

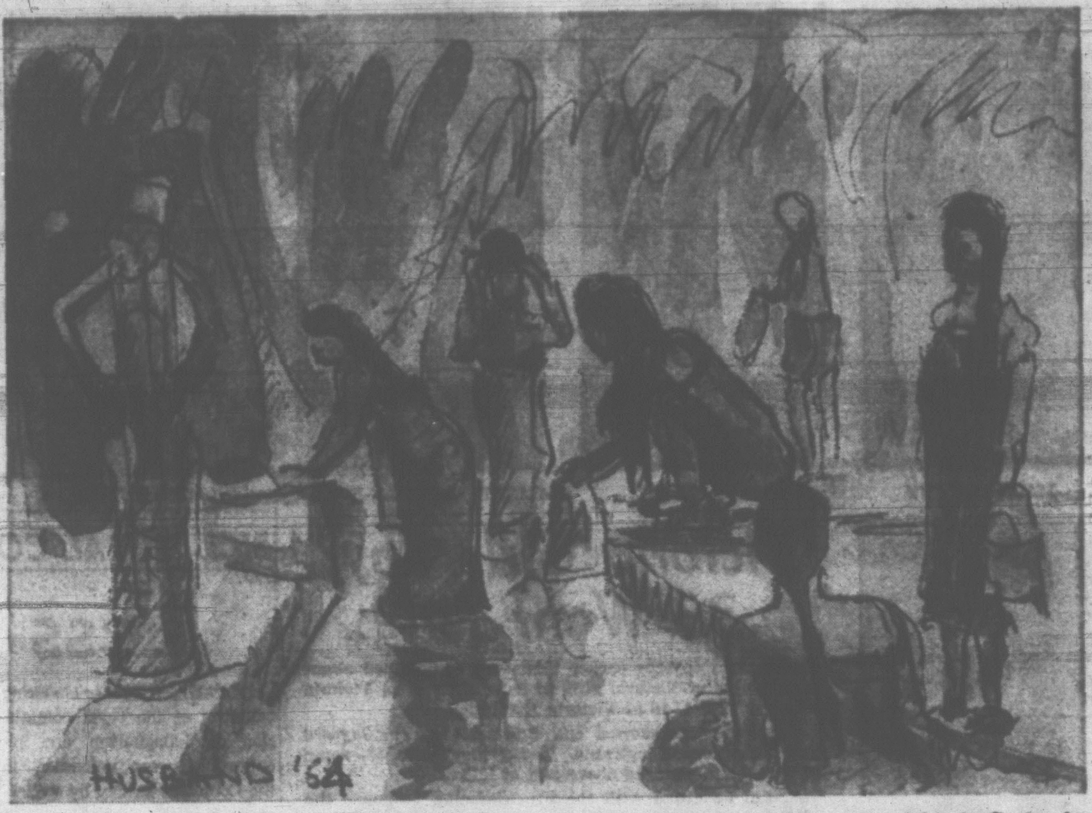
The Easter Lily or Erythronium has not come into bloom in this locality yet.

Amongst the sand that has drifted along the shallow banks the Coltsfoot is in profusion with its purplish many-headed flower. The leaves are just appearing.

Search among the stones along the old stream bed and you'll find many kinds, some that would make excellent specimens for cutting and polishing. In the sand you may find traces of gold—both fools gold and the real thing.

There are several land-locked pools along the river and in them are many hundreds of salmon fry which should be caught and returned to the running water.

If you search amongst the drift logs and look under the bark you can see many kinds of beetles making their galleries. Here they will deposit their eggs. Some of these animals are carrying on their bodies many tiny whitish-gray mites which seem to go along for the ride.



From Ceylon, Victoria student Vicky Husband writes: "One of the most picturesque sights in Ceylon is the daily bath in the open air. The women change with great agility from their colorful saris into simple sarongs for bathing, then proceed to pour water over themselves. The clothes are washed by the pounding method, which always leaves one surprised that there is anything left when they are finished. Watching the women among the palm trees and lush growth gives a sense of the tropical paradise so often described in travel books."

U.S. FAR EAST POLICY

By WALTER LIPPMANN

'Prehistoric, All Armor and Teeth but Almost no Brain'

THE Chinese-Soviet conflict has sharpened to the point where a suspension of diplomatic relations is a possibility. It is now plain, as some have been saying for some time, that the ideological debate is only the outward manifestation of the long-standing, pre-Communist collisions of interest between the Russians moving toward the Pacific and the Chinese moving north. There have already been a great many little fights in the Russian-Chinese borderlands.

Lippmann

Yet, while there will almost certainly be more of them, and even if the two governments suspend diplomatic relations, even if the tirades become more violent, if that is possible, it is not likely that all this is leading to war. China is not a nuclear power and it cannot attack Russia, and Russia is in no mood for war.

Neither country is likely to feel it can afford the costs of mobilizing large ground armies for a conventional war. A large Chinese-Russian war would open both China and Russia to great pressure from their non-Communist adversaries.

If we ask ourselves what should be our own attitude toward the conflict of the two great Communist states, we can begin by recognizing that we are now benefiting by the conflict itself, by the fact that communism is no longer a united antagonist of the non-Communist world.

The conflict has caused the Soviet Union to relax its pressure on Eastern Europe and Germany. Also, there are a number of signs which indicate that Red China may have become more prudent and circumspect in exercising pressure on Formosa and Southeast Asia than she would be if she had a free hand to exploit the opportunities.

Over and above this, there is a secondary question, which is whether we ought to give support to the Soviet Union because Red China is now the more active aggressor or, like General de Gaulle, do business with both and show no preference for either.

For us, the answer to this question is given. For we are in a state of open hostility with Red China, indeed legally in a state of "war," and we have to be on the side of the enemy of our enemy. But General de Gaulle is freer than we are, and he is able, as one might wish we, too, were able, to work both sides of the street.

Looking ahead, what is it possible to discern in the dim far distance? The eventual (in 10 or 20 years?) evolution of Marxist China into something like present-day Russia, that is to say, into a Communist country more concerned with its own development than with external expansion.

If this is a good guess, the first confirmation of it is likely to come in the form of a relaxation of Chinese pressure on the southern frontier. This relaxation might show itself, for example, in a let-up of the pressure on India and in an acceptance of the fact that the Soviet Union will not help Red China if it challenges the American position in Formosa and in the offshore islands.

Behind this acceptance of a reality might be the hope, which is not altogether unreasonable, that the successors of Chiang Kai-shek in Formosa will make their peace with Peking. There are also some faint signs that Peking may have understood that even if the civil war in Viet Nam is won by the Communists, the enormous presence of American sea and air power will remain to interfere with the conquest and occupation and exploitation of Indo-China.

American sea and air power is not one of those falling dominoes that so much is said about. If the signs can be read this way, it may not be too late for a political pacification on the southern frontiers of Red China.

The Russian-Chinese conflict opens certain opportunities in Eastern Asia. We, alas, are not free to take advantage of them. We must leave the initiative to friendly nations like France and Great Britain which have not tied themselves up in knots.

The truth is that we do not have and will not permit ourselves to have a Far Eastern policy. From South Korea to South Viet Nam, we are inhibited from having any policy except to seek no solution and to remain frozen where we are.

Considering the fact that we are by all odds the most powerful of the non-Communist countries, we look a lot like one of those prehistoric animals which had all armor and teeth, but had almost no brain.

THE WHITE PAPER IN REVIEW

By R. S. MALONE

Free the Militia of Responsibility for Civil Defence

THE subjects of militia training and civil defence were touched on only briefly and in general terms in the government's recent white paper on defence. One reason for this is undoubtedly that a special study of the militia is currently in progress and it will be some months before a report is received.

There are two specific recommendations which would be both welcomed and constructive if included in the forthcoming report on the militia:

(A) Restore to the militia a more realistic training program in keeping with its proper military role and towards the use of the more modern technical weapons. Remove from the militia its present "primary role" of national survival as a part of civil defence.

Active Rules

As the white paper accurately sets forth, the object or purpose of the militia is "to support the regular army" in a variety of active roles in an emergency. To fulfil this function it is absolutely essential that the militia offer proper incentives and interesting, realistic training programs to attract younger men for NCO and officer development.

The type of young men required will not give up their free evenings and summer vacations for a dull program of training in civilian first aid, fire drills, rescue and survival techniques and so forth as required in civil defence. Any civil defence function for the militia should be secondary and under the accepted principle of "Aid to the Civil Power." If needed.

Provincial Responsibility

(B) The second recommendation to be hoped for is that civil defence across Canada should be restored to the provincial civil authorities where it properly belongs. It should not become a function or direct responsibility of either the regular army or the militia.

This is not to say that the armed forces should not be available to the civil authorities to aid in civil defence as possible and as required or that the armed forces should not plan for such contingencies. On the contrary, both regular and local militia units should have emergency plans ready to put into instant operation in aid of local civil defence authorities, when called upon in matters of refugee control, evacuation, feeding, guarding and so forth.

Civil defence, as the name implies, is the organization of the country civilian resources, such as police and fire departments, hospitals, engineering services and such volunteer groups as the Red Cross, St. John Ambulance, service clubs and so forth. At the federal level, certainly, civil defence must have close co-ordination and planning with the nation's other defence services as well as proper liaison with local military, naval and air force headquarters.

While the armed forces assume any sort of over-all direction or responsibility for civil defence it can be safely accepted that the various civilian authorities and volunteer groups across the country will simply throw up their hands and gladly surrender the entire responsibility, quite improperly, to the armed forces.

Certain it is that as long as the militia is saddled with a priority role in civil defence, we can expect both a poor militia and a poor civil defence organization.

Sharing Research

The white paper also contained recognition of the importance of defence research and production sharing with allied countries and indicated that this will be further expanded. It has been said that modern war is now more a matter of mechanical production than of mere tactics. The more technical and mechanical our forces become the more dependent our defences are on industry and civilian research. It is for this reason that a civilian representative of scientific and industrial research should be a permanent member of any top defence council in Canada.

As illustrated by Cyprus, there is a growing need today for fast-moving, flexible forces of all arms prepared to extinguish sudden outbreaks of war and terror as rapidly as a fire brigade tackles a conflagration. It is in this role that Canada may well make her major contribution towards peace.

Air Transport

Towards this end the white paper forecasts a transition in the role of the RCAF. Greater emphasis will be placed on the air force capability of transporting and supporting peace-keeping personnel and other mobile forces. Conditions may arise, when to air-lift units in order to gain command on the land, the air force may first have to ensure command of the air and provide cover for the ground troops when landed. The days of long-range bombing for the RCAF are past and it is wise that this is now recognized.

Reference to the possible development of nuclear submarines for the navy makes for interesting speculation. It is still too early to comment on this possibility but it will be recalled that the fathers of U-boat warfare in Germany, early in First World War envisaged the submarine originally as an ideal weapon for defence rather than for offence, for a country with limited naval resources.

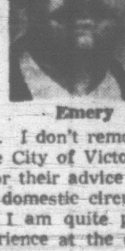
FROM MADRID

By TONY EMERY

U-Turns on the Avenida and Dusk in the Prado

SO FAR on this trip we have managed without difficulty to arrive in every major European city at the height of the rush hour. I cannot claim that this is the result of skilful planning: it is just something that seems to happen automatically, and our arrival in Madrid was no exception. This habit has one merit—I cannot for the life of me think of any others—and that is that one gets a very rapid grasp of the local traffic problems and the means employed to combat them. I don't remember now how much the City of Victoria pays foreign experts for their advice on how to cope with our domestic circulatory conundrums, but I am quite prepared to put my experience at the disposal of city hall for a quarter of the going rate.



Emery

My first piece of advice I am prepared to offer free of charge, and that is to send our city policemen one by one, or all at once, to watch the Madrid constabulary shift traffic. I have seen some smart work in this field in Paris and Copenhagen, London and Rotterdam, Geneva and Munich, Rome and Lisbon, but I have seen nothing to compare with the way that the Madrid police, working in pairs, moves the vast volume of traffic up the Avenida Jose Antonio at midday and between six and eight in the evening, the peak times when every Madrileno seems to be in a taxi or on the sidewalks of Madrid.

It is true that the main avenues of Madrid are wide and fairly straight, but no more so than Douglas Street, in proportion to the amount of traffic they carry—and I am permitted to do one thing on the Avenida Jose Antonio that would be frowned on at any time at the corner of Douglas and Yates, namely, make a U-turn at the height of the rush hour, with the smiling co-operation of the point-duty policeman. He points to his right boot and you motor up close enough to cast a shadow on its high gloss, and when he is ready to let you go on the opposite tack he flicks a finger—and you had better go quickly before he gives the nod to the taxis that are straining at the leash.

Part of the answer to the success with which Madrid copes with its traffic problem lies in the high proportion of professional drivers who are on the streets. We made several random counts of traffic (the things we do for city hall) while taking the waters on the sidewalk of an evening, and we arrived at a figure of something like sixty per cent, for the proportion of taxis to private cars.

But as Antony remarked to Cleopatra, we didn't come all this way to count the traffic, and my days in Madrid were spent in the Prado, one of the most famous galleries in the world. According to the "Complete Guide," which is one of my most cherished possessions for reasons unconnected with its utility, the Prado "is one of the most beautiful in the world, and if one finds a deficiency it can be accredited to the fact that the Prado was not meant to be a museum."

Originally this 18th century building housed a collection of "flora, fauna and inorganic matters," which may account for two, at least, of the deficiencies I found: namely, one, that you can't find the pictures very easily; and two, having found them, you are lucky if you can see them.

Let me substantiate my charges, for I would not have you think that I am prone to exaggerate. We will assume that you want to see the famous "black" paintings of Goya, a fair assumption since you are unlikely to see these anywhere else, and they are one of the things you have come here to see. (They only have 11 paintings by Goya, in addition to a vast number of drawings and sketches.) You have entered by Room 30 (Spanish altarpieces), and passed through the rotunda, 51, with a wince at Snayers' battle pieces and are in 52, among the Caracci, looking for 53, Goya drawings. What you are looking at, however, is the front door, which architect Villanueva put conveniently at the side, as is often the way with architects.

Backpedalling through 51 and 50 and 49 and 48 you turn sharp left, if you have a large-scale map, and find Room 53, Goya drawings. But you want Goya "black paintings," Room 56a, and you find it, quite simply, by going through 54 and 55 and 56 and 57 and two rooms without numbers and 57a—and there you are. What could be easier than that?

I'll tell you what, and that was to have seen the treasures from the Prado when they were exhibited in Geneva during the Spanish Civil War. The editor of this newspaper was crafty enough to do that, and I would like to thank him for paying his money on that far-off day at that Genevan wicket, for with the money thus gathered the Prado bought itself a late, marvellous self-portrait by Rembrandt, and have hung it sideways to the brilliant light in a shadowy corner in a way that makes Rembrandt's own attempts at chiaroscuro appear amateurish by comparison.

Not all the Prado pictures are hung in the dark, though. Some are cunningly placed between open windows (you shield your eyes with a newspaper to see these) and some, glassed, are hung in a dazzling light to form a bright mirror in which to check your necktie.

ON THE TIMES By ART STOTT

If They Don't Drop Out . . .

IF you read the better-class popular magazines carrying stories on present developments in juvenile delinquency—and which of them doesn't carry these articles?—you'll find a vast amount of common ground no matter on which geographical area the studies are based.

Stott

You'll be told about the development of localized gangs that are becoming less restricted in locality because they travel in cars. You'll have described to you the pyramiding degrees of violence they produce—from homicidal attack in big American cities to beatups in smaller centres such as Victoria.

You'll find explanations that here is a vicious expression of hostility against society by a type of young person who thinks society is the enemy.

And almost invariably your attention will be drawn to the fact that many of the juvenile delinquents are dropouts from school with no skills to fit them for jobs in an economy that continually shrinks the employment area for untrained teen-age boys.

* * *

On the face of it, the last point offers a pretty good argument to support action aimed at reducing the number of dropouts. In my opinion, you'll be far wide of the mark if you assume from this that giving youngsters courses to hold them longer in school will cure the juvenile delinquency evil. By itself it is not a total cure. Neither is any other single socially acceptable action.

But if education in a wide spectrum can give these young people interests which will create goals for them in fields that represent what we call good citizenship, then it will be doing a big job, even if it isn't a total cure.

Which brings us around to the diversity in education under way in British Columbia now and due for expansion in the next few years.

The educators tell you that all children are not able to benefit from academic work beyond a certain point. They add that if youngsters are kept running on an educational treadmill which leaves them getting nowhere, they'll be frustrated, disinterested in school, eventually hostile and finally, in some instances, anti-social.

This is an over-simplification of developments that can cause dropouts—that produce the youngster ill-equipped for a job or for the problems of life and thoroughly antagonistic to school.

To counteract such a trend, British Columbia has been trying to divert pupils, from beginning class upward, to the type of course which will suit them and which offers them some opportunity of achievement and the satisfaction it brings.

By 1965 the authorities here hope to have this "streaming" process advanced to include five new, or relatively new, courses in vocational study at Grade XI. This could help the youngsters who do badly in straight academic work, either because they are not apt at intellectual studies or because they are disinterested, to find something with an appeal.

* * *

A kid with no hope of getting through a university entrance course, for instance, might do well enough in industrial vocation, commercial vocational, vocational service, or vocational fine arts, music and drama, to acquire skill and fix an attainable objective for himself in life.

It might also, on the negative side, keep in school the youngster who is a pain in the neck to the school and everyone else and thus create a discipline problem.

One of the important studies that should accompany such courses is an analysis of the degree to which the new courses provide interests sufficiently absorbing to students to keep them from dropping out and to encourage them to find acceptable objectives in life.

This is the hope of those who have framed the courses—or at least one of the hopes. Maybe it's too optimistic. At the same time it's worth a try.

The plan is not, of course, the total answer to a problem which has no single, absolute answer. We'll still have delinquents for any of innumerable reasons and causes.

Our society, with its ambivalence between ethical theory and every-day practice, need expect no miracle.

Still it's interesting to note the efforts by educators in British Columbia to avoid dropouts in the early and middle teens—particularly interesting in a province which leads all others in Canada in its existing ability to hold children longer in school.

Gerald Waring ...REPORTING

OTTAWA—On the face of it, the decision of the Board of Maritime Trustees to permit Brother Leonard McLaughlin to succeed Brother Hal Banks to the presidency of the SIU of Canada is something of a shocker. After all, Bro. McLaughlin is one of 15 persons, including Bro. Banks, facing charges of conspiracy in connection with hoodlum activities.

"A clever, resourceful and entirely untruthful witness," was how Mr. Justice Norris, royal commissioner, described the executive vice-president of the Seafarers' International Union.

Mr. McLaughlin was "Banks' man Friday," Justice Norris said, carrying out the decisions and orders of the unscrupulous SIU boss without question.

Since the three government trustees took over control of the SIU last fall, Mr. McLaughlin has been their liaison with Mr. Banks. While the trustees may not respect him, they have used him to advantage.

* * *

Then came the discovery that the trustees' telephones were being tapped, and the not unrelated decision of the board to fire Mr. Banks. The SIU constitution provides that in the event of a vacancy in the union's presidency, the executive vice-president shall assume the duties of president. The trustees set aside the constitution by appointing a non-SIU man, Charles Turner, formerly an officer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks.

This did not find favor, to put it mildly, with the rank-and-file of the SIU. And there is something to be said for their point of view, for this was not that restoration of union democracy in the SIU that was one of the avowed aims of the board of trustees.

Then Paul Hall, president of the SIU of North America, journeyed to Montreal last week to confer with the trustees. And while he talked pretty tough for publication, in private meetings with the trustees he was sweet reason itself. He was mainly concerned, it appeared, not with the future of Mr. Banks, but with the SIU of North America retaining control of its Canadian subsidiary.

* * *

Mr. Hall made a deal with the trustees. As Labor Minister Allan MacEachen explained in the Commons, the trustees will not appoint Bro. McLaughlin to the SIU presidency, but "will allow the provision of the (SIU) constitution with respect to the succession of leadership to be put into effect."

In return, the trustees got Hall's promise that there will be no harrassment of Canadian ships in U.S. ports. And Hall specified that this undertaking would cover Canadian ships manned by crews belonging to the Canadian Maritime Union, the union that the SIU under Banks had been battling.

There will be some delay by the trustees in allowing Mr. McLaughlin to succeed to the SIU presidency. This will be a test of Mr. Hall's good faith. If there is no harrassment, Mr. McLaughlin's assumption of the duties of SIU president will be permitted.

But if Mr. Hall double-crosses the trustees either before or after Mr. McLaughlin takes up his new duties, the whole deal will be called off. And, in addition, for the deal to remain "on," Bro. McLaughlin will have to be just as co-operative with the trustees in their efforts to clean up the SIU as he apparently was with Mr. Banks in making the SIU a hoodlum-run union.

It will be an interesting experiment.

SYNOPSIS — Cool, moist air over the province this morning has resulted in a widespread cover of clouds with rather frequent showers on the coast and some showers likely over the interior during the day. Some improvement in the picture can be expected on the south coast and over the interior during the afternoon as the sun breaks through the cloud but no return to fine weather is yet in sight. Another fast-moving storm is already near the weather ship and should bring gales and rain to the north coast tonight and bring more cloud and rain to other areas as it passes eastward across the province Sunday.

GREAT IDEAS FROM GREAT BOOKS

Thinkers Differ On Income Tax

By MORTIMER J. ADLER

Dear Dr. Adler:

The restricted income of the American people is 36 per cent. The wage earner has only 64 per cent to spend as he chooses. What have the thinkers of past eras had to say about the purpose and forms of taxation that may help us today?

390 South Main Street,
Lewistown, Pa.

Dear Mr. Spahr:

April is the cruelest month for many of us, not because it breeds lilacs out of the dead land, as a poet has said, but because it is the time when we have to pay our income taxes. Most of us detest paying taxes anyway, whatever their form may be, and sometimes we even deny their necessity in a stable and free system of government.

This necessity was affirmed elegantly and cogently by Alexander Hamilton in 1787, when he was arguing for the adoption of the U.S. Constitution.

Money Vital

"Money," he wrote, "is, with property, considered as the vital principle of the body politic; as that which sustains its life and motion, and enables it to perform its most essential functions.

"A complete power, therefore, to procure a regular and adequate supply of it, as far as the resources of the community will permit, may be regarded as an indispensable ingredient in every constitution. From a deficiency in this particular, one of two evils must ensue, either the people must be subjected to continual plunder, as a substitute for a more eligible mode of supplying the public wants, or the government must sink into a fatal atrophy, and, in a short course of time, perish."

Most of us, on reflection, would prabobly agree that money is a vital need of government, and that taxes are the surest and safest way to get it. However, there is much dispute among us as to which expenditures are necessary and proper, and as to which modes of taxation are fairest.

Men who have considered this problem in the past have affirmed various principles that should guide us in levying taxes. One of these is the levying taxes. One of these is the principle of consent—"No taxation without representation."

Not only is taxation without representation tyranny, but it tends to be more onerous than taxes levies on those who are able to make their response felt at the polls. John Stuart Mill went even further and proposed that the legislators be chosen only from persons who themselves pay the taxes that they impose.

Any other system, he said, "amounts to allowing them to put their hands into other people's pockets for any purpose which they think fit to call a public one."

Be Well Aware

Mill also argued that everyone should be taxed in such a way that he is well aware of the fact that he is being taxed, and how much. Hence, he frowned on the indirect taxes that are included in the prices of articles of consumption—the so-called "hidden" taxes.

When a person pays taxes in this manner, he is hit but he does not feel it at the moment, and hence he is not as inclined to question the amount of government expenditures or the fairness of tax systems as when he is taxed directly—as in the income tax.

Hamilton, on the contrary, argued that indirect taxes, such as excise taxes and import duties, are the most convenient means of collecting taxes for the government, and are also proportionate to the taxpayer's ability to pay, since the poor buy far less than the rich.

Counter-Agent

He also contended that such taxes have a built-in counter-agent to excess, since if taxes are too high, people will buy less, revenue will be reduced, and the government will have to lower the taxes to bring in more revenue.

Most economists, however, from Adam Smith to the present day, have disagreed on this point with the first U.S. treasury secretary. Taxes on articles of consumption, they have pointed out, bear most heavily on the poorer classes, for whom it is no easy solution to give up part of the necessities of life when taxes are too high.

Hence, the consensus has been, on the grounds of humanity, justice and the good of the national economy, that a graduated income tax—which rises in rate with the level of income and of the ability to pay—is the most just and economically feasible form of taxation.

'A Good Prince'

Erasmus, a famous 15th century thinker, put the applicable principle here quite humanly. "A good prince," he said, "will tax as lightly as possible those commodities which are used by the poorest members of society; e.g., grain, bread, beer, wine, clothing, and all other staples without which human life could not exist."

You can win a 54-volume set of the Great Books of the Western World by writing a letter, not to exceed 150 words, incorporating a question of general interest for Dr. Adler to consider for inclusion in this column. Each week he will select as first prize winners the writers of the three best letters. He will use one of these letters as a basis for a future column and will answer it in terms of the intellectual heritage of the Great Books—443 works by 74 authors, spanning 30 centuries of thought. Address the letters to Dr. Mortimer J. Adler, in care of this newspaper.

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — Three-hundred and 96 persons were hanged in South Africa in 1960-63, Justice Minister Balthazar Vorster said here Friday. Of the 344 executed for murder 305 were blacks, he said. There were 26 executions for rape and 16 for robbery.

$1 Million 'Short'

FAIRFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The FBI says examiners have uncovered nearly $1,000,000 in irregularities in a small-town bank where a respected cashier has been charged with embezzlement. Bookkeeper and cashier, Lee Brown, 29, employed at the bank since he was 19, went into seclusion Thursday at his rural farm home after being freed by a U.S. commissioner in East St. Louis on $10,000 bond.

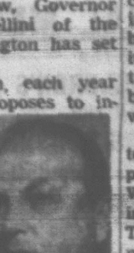
THE SEEING EYE

West Coast Renaissance?

By MONCRIEFF WILLIAMSON



Williamson

In inviting 31 of his state's artists to exhibit in the First Annual Governor's Invitational Art Show, Governor Albert D. Rosellini of the State of Washington has set a precedent.

From now on, each year the governor proposes to invite entries from neighboring states in rotation, and with one of the shrewdest moves in cultural diplomacy, British Columbia is included as a future exhibitor.

This first exhibition is now on view at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, having been seen earlier in the State Capitol Museum, Olympia. As the exhibition circuit is restricted to capital cities, Victorians find themselves in a privileged position and will flock to Moss Street to see for themselves what Governor Rosellini has set in motion.

I would be most surprised if this inter-state, cross-the-border exchange doesn't revitalize or bring into being a new spirit in Northwestern art.

Living in a province where art exists rather than flourishes, the British Columbia artists warmly welcome this governmental patronage from the south.

The organizer of this show is Mr. Robert Carpenter, director of the State Capitol Museum and his enthusiasm and promotional abilities have won him many new friends.

What is especially noteworthy in this pilot exhibition is the display of sculpture, especially the works by James Lee Hanson, Howard Duell and James W. Washington Jr.

Hanson's "Talos" and Washington's "Woodchuck Sunning" are works of considerable merit, while Duell's "Centaur" is an ingenious piece of mythology in 20th century garb, its one fault being that it is made of brass, but brass so unrecognizable in the guise of sheet metal that one wishes the natural beauty of brass was treated with more textural respect.

Aside from their general interest as a comprehensive display of the art produced in Washington, many of the paintings seem fairly pedestrian. Those that do succeed, however, make the exhibition well worth a visit and established professional painters such as Guy Anderson, Kenneth Callahan, Andrew Hofmeister set the standard expected of them.

Inevitably, the whole collection of paintings being such a mixed bag, I was inclined to pick my own personal choices from the dozen or so works which shouted the loudest.

A second and then a third tour of inspection reduced my list even further so that my final and most personally selected list emerged as follows.

Alden Mason's "A Day in Pompeii" was delightful as a happy blending of interesting color harmonics, well-balanced. "Village Summer," an expressionist study by Robert Feasely seemed to have many affinities in mood with the small study of "Gaspe" by Andrew Hofmeister, a particularly pleasing work.

Of the two large Guy Anderson canvasses, "Daedulus Comes to Camicus" gets nicely away from the literary theme in strong, bold, pictorial statement—a movement in flight above the sun drenched warmth of Sicily.

Another especially noteworthy painting is "The Source" by Kathleen Gamberling, nicely balanced in this instance by the "Mountain Landscape with Storm," by Neil Meitzler. Both these paintings merit your special attention.

The other day I was talking to a Toronto art edaler who said that when he visited Vancouver he saw 1,300 paintings, 700 by Jack Shadbolt and 600 by Gordon Smith.

Often when I see Seattle art I find myself looking at Mark Tobey or Morris Graves and even in this display their influence is inclined to appear when least expected.

I saw Tobey, his calligraphy, in the charming little paintings by Virginia Banks, "Heat Wave" and "Aquatic Playground," each study quite exquisite in the miniaturist manner and in their way, among the best exhibits on view.

"Zarth" by Art Hansen is another fine work of original vision and impact and I was equally pleased to see, for the first time, work by Bill Colby, whose woodcut "Extrusive Sky" shows much sensitivity in treatment.

My personal selection makes a short list, but if I were to add to it, it would be with "The Sheering Section" by Ruth Fluno who seems to know color as well as Philip McCracken knows wood.

SHOWS STRENGTH

For many people the Philip MacCracken sculptures are the dominant items on display, and I would have been quite content had he left his drawings at home. Graves is the obvious influence here, and fascinating though these drawings are, skilled in execution, it is in sculpture that this former pupil of Henry Moore shows his strength.

Ever since Picasso created his celebrated "Bull's Head" from the handlebars and seat of a bicycle, often art critics have been hard pressed to differentiate between gimmick and creative vision.

Michelangelo freeing the form from its stone prison is hardly to be compared with McCracken freeing his form from wood, because often as not McCracken adds to the wood with metal appendages or with polychrome or gilded surfaces.

He does with wood what many a painter fails to achieve with pigment. For example his "River Rock" is really a synthesis of abstract painting, yet it has a special sculpural quality of monumentality which one sees also in such items as "Snow Owl," carved in alabaster.

NOT TO BE MISSED

In general, his bird forms sculptured and then developed with leather, stone and metals are saved by this very monumentality, frontal in the Egyptian manner, and one realizes that one is looking at works of art, not pop art gimmicks, and that Philip MacCracken is a genuine sculptor of exceptional talent.

The First Annual Governor's Art Show is an event not to be missed, and while at the Art Gallery visitors will also see some recent accessions in prints and drawings from the National Gallery of Canada.

This is one of the better shows and it is my intention to comment upon it next weekend.

BOOKS and BOOKMEN

By DONALD STAINSBY

One of the most important books ever to be published in Canada is Peter C. Newman's portrait of John G. Diefenbaker, Renegade in Power. Politics don't enter into this assessment. Even the validity of the book doesn't matter. I don't care whether it was well-written or not.

Mr. Newman's book became a best-seller in Canada. Canadian's heard about it. They bought it and they read it. And this matters—very, very much.

For Canadians did not sit around and wait for the accolade of American or English readers and critics. No. This was a Canadian book about a Canadian phenomenon that Canadians bought and talked about on their own terms and the rest of the world go hang.

What it indicates is simply that Canadian readers are on the verge of deserving a Canadian literature. That they are on the verge, therefore, of getting one.

Our writers have for years recognized, the best ones, that there was a Canadian experience worth writing about on its own terms.

Hugh MacLennan, Ethel Wilson, Gabrielle Roy and a host of others have proven time and again that it is not necessary to write outside the national spirit or to falsify the national experience in order to gain acceptance abroad.

Now Newman has most dramatically gained acceptance at home. True, it is a journalistic book, but it is a part of literature for all that—good journalism always is. And it is a start.

Many, I know, consider nationalism in literature out of date or downright evil. This is fatuous thinking.

Without disputing the ultimate universality of art, I submit that there are experiences that can be felt, emotions that can be fully understood, songs that can be honestly sung, only within a limited society. Family jokes and family sorrows.

Who among us, for instance, can name the man the Hungarins, say, know as their national poet? Yet statues attest to Hungary's regard for the man who sang her song. The Hungarians couldn't care less that we don't know him from Janos Kadar. Nor should they.

We should, far more than we do, share this attitude. We should, that is, if our society—the nation Canada—has any validity. I happen to think it does. And if a time of national stress is necessary to spark a national poet—what better time for Canada than now?

Our national literature will never be more than a minor tributary to the great mainstream of English literature that flows now from the United States. We will be less than the British fork, probably more than the Deep South.

But we will exist, if we care to.

CONTACT DIFFICULTY

One of the problems, of course, is for the writer to reach his public. This is particularly difficult in Canada, blessed as we are with a greater flood of books than any other English-speaking country.

And on top of that—we ignore it at our peril—our own literature in French as well. How does the Canadian writer get a hearing? How does he touch his public?

Well, that is what I consider to be a big part of my job here. Not only to write about the Canadian writer's books but about himself. To goad him sometimes, to prod his readers. To help bridge the gap, close the vast distances.

To remind readers that, as Lawrence Burpee said 20 years ago: "Any Canadian who turns up his nose at a Canadian book because it is a Canadian book is a foule byrd."

One cannot deny it is just as silly to read a Canadian book simply because it is a Canadian book. There is too much else about to tolerate that.

The world is in change, and the work of young writers everywhere reflects it. This is part of the fascination in books today.

Just as one needs a familiar base from which to explore the unknown, one must know something of what is going on elsewhere in order to assess developments at home.

It is my great privilege to delve again into the world's vast book shelves and try to share what I find there. Everything will, of course, be refracted through my own prejudices and passions. It could not be otherwise.

Perhaps we'll have some good arguments along the way.

Today's India Has Risen From Ashes of Mutiny

THE SOUND OF FURY, by Richard Collier; an account of the Indian Mutiny; Collins, 1963; 384 pages, $6.50.

Reviewed by J. C. M. Ogelsby

The Indian Mutiny of 1857-58 has been, as it deserves to be, a much reported and studied event.

The centenary of the sepoy rising at Meerut in May of 1857 has been heralded by modern Indian historians as the expression of nascent nationalism striking at the British oppressor, and since 1957 there has been a spate of publications attempting to interpret the many aspects of the mutiny.

Professional historians are seeking to find the truth about the mutiny, and the truth may be eluding them. Richard Collier, on the other hand, is not seeking an axe to grind—he is trying to recreate the mutiny as seen by some of its participants. And he does a very good job of it, too, in a book that will appeal to anyone interested in being introduced or reintroduced to a very brutal affair.

Collier makes the sabres rattle and the Enfield rifles (with their greased cartridges that are the immediate cause of the rising) bark as the lives of British and Indian hang in the balance in the area of the rising.

His book is also a very British book, stiff-upper-lip and all that, whose heroes are worthy of being emulated in future battles. To appear fair, however, Indians worthy of recognition do creep into the account to help create some balance!

That only a few Indians, loyal or disloyal, participated in the mutiny is lost in the account, for the mutiny, after all shows that many times more Indians remained passive and neutral. In fact it was the spontaneity of the revolt and the consequent lack of co-ordination among the mutineers that enabled the British heroes to triumph.

The mutiny was a sad affair, but it was needed if British and Indian people were to continue to respect one another. It occurred at a time when the East India Company's government and forces in India were becoming a refuge for the weak and the indolent.

It brought about the end of company control and from 1858 to the time of independence Indians under British control served better and were better served.

Out of the sound of fury emerged modern India.

Linklater Hero Modern Orestes

A MAN OVER FORTY, by Eric Linklater; Toronto, The Macmillan Company of Canada; 312 pages; $4.25.

Reviewed by William Benzie

It is unlikely that this Linklater novel will become a popular favorite like Private Angelo or Poet's Pub. For the most part, A Man Over Forty is longwinded and dull.

Edward Ballintore, an English television personality, has a nervous breakdown on the air while being interviewed about his early life.

The novel follows Ballintore's spiritual and physical pursuits of peace of mind, but not until the last quarter of the book does the reader become aware of the allegory involved in Ballintore's search.

A Man Over Forty turns out to be based on the legend of Orestes, the ancient Greek who killed his mother because she and her lover had murdered his father. Ballintore has killed his foster-mother for similar reasons, and becomes a modern Orestes pursued by the Furies, phantoms of his guilty conscience.

This involves a prolonged globe-trotting holiday taking in Jamaica, Ireland and finally Greece where the hero mercifully finds peace in a monastery on Mount Athos.

As the plot trundles along with apparently little direction, the reader's attention is held only by the occasional flashes of Linklater's wit, a few echoes of his old satiric form and passages of fine natural description.

As a travelogue about Jamaica, Ireland and Greece, A Man Over Forty offers much that is interesting and original. As a novel from the pen of Linklater, it leaves the reader with an acute feeling of having been let down.

Scholarship Concert Bids Conductor Farewell

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Hans Gruber, formerly and for 15 years musical director and conductor of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, in relinquishing the position last fall commented that the orchestra, its musicians, their welfare . . . "in fact, Victoria generally," would ever lie close to his heart.

Many, many Victorians would reciprocate this feeling.

Through his dedication to serving the orchestra, his personality, his marriage to a charming and gifted Victoria girl, Hans Gruber became an integral, a colorful and a valued part of the community.

He and his family now will leave the city to take up residence in Toronto.

But on the eve of their departure, Mr. Gruber will be the central figure in an event which will pay homage to his years of service and devotion to music.

On Sunday, April 19, a Hans Gruber scholarship benefit concert will be presented at the Royal Theatre. It will be conducted by Otto-Werner Mueller and will feature an all-request program made up of the most popular numbers performed during the immediate past season.

Gruber . . . with orchestra

For this concert the conductor, concert master Arthur Polson and the entire orchestra personnel are providing their services without fee in order that the maximum amount of proceeds may go into the scholarship fund.

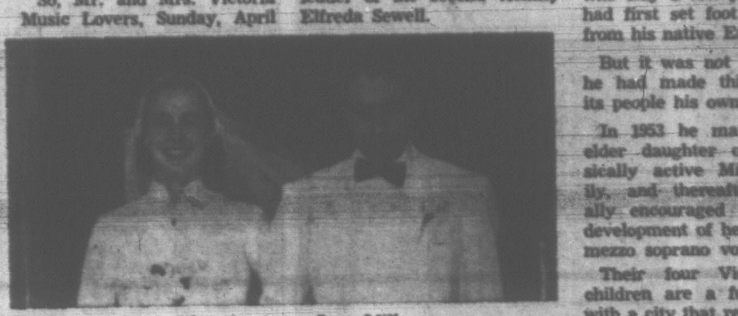
This is a fund that will provide scholarships in Mr. Gruber's name for students entering the new Victoria School of Music.

"Must" is not a tag to be attached to any event without great discrimination, but surely if attendance were ever to be based on obligation as well as inclination this is the occasion.

Every one of us who has enjoyed symphonic concerts over the past 15 years, who has felt pride in the achievements of the orchestra and is delighted with the present development, is under an obligation to Hans Gruber.

Without his talents, devotion and unremitting work on behalf of the orchestra, it is unlikely that we would have attracted so major a musical personality as Mr. Mueller to the city; or that establishment of a music school would have advanced beyond the dream; or that top orchestral musicians would be contracting to become resident players.

So, Mr. and Mrs. Victoria Music Lovers, Sunday, April 19, will be your opportunity to express your appreciation, while at the same time making contribution to the school of music.



Weds Victoria singer June Milburn.

All this and heaven—in the form of an outstanding program conducted by Mr. Mueller—as well.

The program incidentally, in its most requested number, Handel's Concert Grosso, will highlight the solo playing of concert master Arthur Polson, Hans Siegrist, the new first cellist from Montreal, and leader of the second violins, Elfreda Sewell.

And seated in the audience, having come from Toronto for the occasion, Mr. Gruber will have an opportunity to hear in perspective, the results of his 15 years in Victoria.

He came to this city as a very young man, in his early twenties, warmly recommended by Sir Ernest Macmillan, after serving as assistant conductor to the University of Toronto orchestra.

Every aspect must have been particularly strange and unfamiliar to a young man who only a few years before had first set foot in Canada from his native Europe.

But it was not long before he had made this city and its people his own.

In 1953 he married June, elder daughter of the musically active Milburn family, and thereafter continually encouraged her in the development of her attractive mezzo soprano voice.

Their four Victoria-born children are a further bond with a city that regrets to see them leave but is grateful for the heritage he leaves behind.

There are not too many ways of showing appreciation for such service as Mr. Gruber has given this community but if by this time next week, a "sold out" sign is on the symphony box office at Eaton's, Mr. Gruber himself would desire no more from those who will always be his fellow citizens.

'BOBINO' ENDS SEASON

Bastion Theatre Moves To New Location Soon

As the current season moves toward a close, there is little in the way of vacation time ahead for Bastion Theatre's Peter Mannering and Wolfgang Baba.

The production of the children's musical comedy, Bobino, is being held over at the Princess and Chambers Streets studio theatre for one or two more Saturday afternoon presentations.

But when it closes and goes to the Albernis for nine performances, the old church will end its seven months' theatrical career for good.

The building has been sold and Mr. Mannering will transfer his activities to the Duck Block at 1318 Broad Street on April 26. Here, next fall, the school sessions at least will continue with productions being undertaken solely on a tour basis, unless arrangements can be made for use of the ballroom in the building.

Tonight in Port Alberni, Shaw's comedy, Candida, will be given a final performance.

In the meantime, Mr. Mannering has been busy auditioning actors for Shakespeare's Richard III which he will direct for the University of Victoria Shakespeare Festival.

Rehearsals for this start May 1 with opening night set as July 16. Preliminary work has included the designing by Mr. Mannering of a complete set of costumes, script conferences and discussions on incidental music with Uvic's Dr. C. L. Lambertson.

Wolfgang Baba, actor, assistant director for many Bastion Theatre productions, master builder of sets and properties, has already started work in the prop department of the festival.

He will assist Mr. Mannering, direct construction work in connection with converting the Lansdowne auditorium for the festival, and in addition will appear in a principal part in The Alchemist, which, with Richard and Midsummer Night's Dream, will form the festival program.

NEIGHBORLY NUZZLE between Esquimo gal (Ann McLay) and Lancastrian friend (Bill Howard) is viewed with approval by Nichi and Kicha during a rehearsal of the St. Matthias' Little Theatre comedy, Friends and Neighbors, which opens April 20 for a week's run at St. Matthias' Hall.

Festival Tunes Up For Monday Start

An event in which, literally, thousands will participate, takes off for a 10-day run, Monday morning at 9.

Spreading itself over six centres and scrutinized by a panel of eight experts, the Greater Victoria Music Festival is an important pacer and standard-setter in the student and adult musical life of the city.

This year, based on availability of visiting adjudicators, the first week of the festival is principally devoted to school choral, instrumental and dance classes.

In addition, strings, brass, and woodwind solo and small ensemble classes are scheduled.

The first phase concludes Friday night with the official opening and schools honor performance, to be held at Central Junior High School.

Deputy Provincial Secretary L. J. Wallace will perform the opening ceremony and the program will consist of performances selected by the adjudicators from the week's classes.

Junior and adult vocal solo, choral and speech classes, piano, organ and accordion sessions will occupy the second week, Monday through Friday, with the honor performance concert for piano and vocal classes and the major competitions for Victoria City Medallion and Rose Bowl on Friday night, April 24.

There are altogether four special evening events, the other two being the dance honor performance next Wednesday at Central Junior and the speech arts finale April 23 at Christ Church Memorial Hall.

Membership cards at $3 admit the holder to all four special events as well as to all other day and evening sessions.

Monday at Central Junior, there will be dance classes adjudicated by Miss Alice Gates of Washington State University, during the morning and afternoon. In the evening school orchestra and bands will be adjudicated by Vilem Sokol and Walter C. Welke, also of Washington.

At Cridge Memorial Hall (Church of Our Lord, Blanshard and Humboldt), brass and woodwind solos and duets will occupy all-day sessions, and at St. Andrew's Hall it will be a day of school orchestras and string ensembles.

Sessions begin at 9 a.m., 1:30 and 7 p.m.

MIKADO REVIVED

An Old Favorite Gets a New Look

Abandoning the traditional style of Gilbert and Sullivan productions, stage director Tony Nicholson has adapted the idiom of the Japanese Kubuki theatre for the production of The Mikado by Victoria Operatic Society.

This unusual version will be presented at Oak Bay Junior High School for four nights, April 28 to May 1.

Musical direction is by Captain James M. Gayfer. Gwen Glew, assistant musical director, has trained the chorus.

In principal roles are Erika Kurth as Yum-Yum, Harry Elsdon as Nanki-Poo, Eleanor Duff as Katisha, Norman Tyrell as Ko-Ko, and Bert Mansfield as the Mikado.

Supporting this cast in secondry roles are Janet Senior, Gwenedd Hughes and newcomers Robert King and Barry Grimshaw.

Tickets will go on sale at Eaton's April 20.

WEEK ON MARKETS

COPPER SPARKS VOLUME

By IAN MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Copper was king on Canadian stock markets this week as speculation fever pushed daily volumes to their consistently highest levels since the boom of 1956—also inspired by copper.

Producers and potential producers of the metal have been active and strong since the price of copper was increased on world markets after three stable years, and rumors of a major copper strike in Northern Ontario have added fuel to the flames.

Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. is drilling near Timmins, but so far no report have been issued and there is no indication if the company has hit paydirt. However, stocks of mining companies with property in the area have rocketed, led by PCE Explorations which traded as high as 53 cents from 13 cents before closing Friday at 47 cents.

Other companies trading heavily as a result of the rumor included Jelex Mines Ltd., Paramaque Mines Ltd. and Bunker Hill Extension Mines Ltd.

VOLUME IS HIGH

The daily volume in Toronto has been well over the 7,000,000-share level and Friday 12,426,000 shares were traded, heaviest since July, 1958, at the height of the uranium boom. The record volume on the Toronto Exchange is 15,000,000 shares, also set in 1958, but the market that year did not remain at such consistently high peaks.

One phenomenon of the market which brokers find encouraging is that investors are not confining their purchases to the penny stocks—high priced industrials are also coming in for their share of the trading.

Steels, integrated oils, banks and papers all advanced on the industrial board with several highs being set, although an erratic tendency was evident, a reflection of the uncertainty of the New York market in the face of a threatened rail strike.

Senior mining issues were spotty with investors concentrating on the prospects and developing stocks. Brunswick Mining and Smelting was strong among junior issues, closing Friday at $10.13.

OILS MADE HIGHS

Several oil stocks made highs, but there was little excitement. American Leduc continued to register heavy turnover although easing on profit-taking.

Volume in Toronto was 46,680,857 shares compared with 31,191,347 last week. Value was $74,216,513 compared with $66,551,297.

Four-hundred and 97 industrial issues were traded. One-hundred and 99 advanced, 180 declined and 118 remained unchanged. Mining and oil issues traded were 442, of which 207 advanced, 170 declined and 65 remained unchanged.

Top Canadian Executives Tour Russia

TORONTO (CP) — Probably the most expensive plane-load of Canadian executive talent ever assembled will leave London airport April 30 for a 2½-week jaunt through Russia and Sweden.

The group is made up of 47 corporate executives, politicians and civil servants, who are not on any mission for any government, but are going "just to have a look at Russian business," one said.

The trip was organized by Toronto insurance executive E. T. Alberts, who organized a similar trip in 1958. The men plan to split into various groups according to individual interests and see examples of Russian industry first hand.

One highlight of the trip is a meeting with Premier Khrushchev May 13.

Among those making the trip will be:

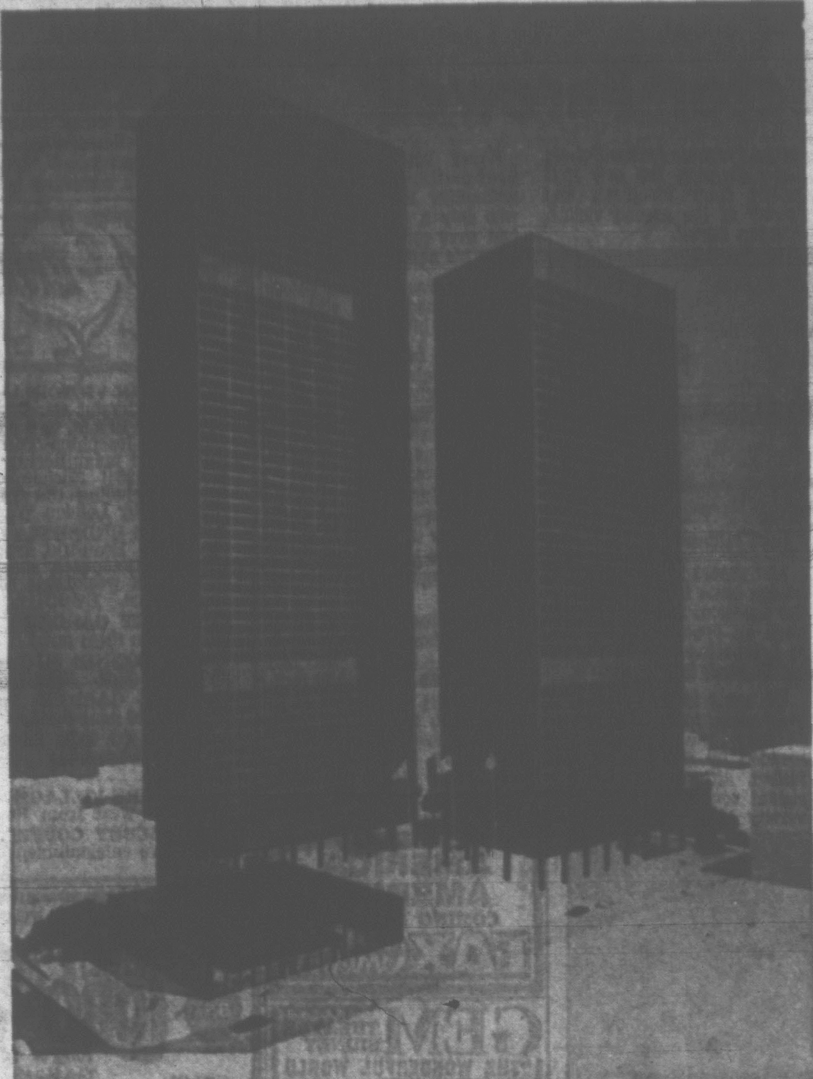
G. M. Bell, president, The Calgary Albertan, J. J. Denison, deputy general manager, Toronto-Dominion Bank, P. C. Garratt, chairman the de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd., D. S. Holbrook, president, Algoma Steel Corp., J. W. Kerr, chairman, Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., David Kinnear, vice-president, T. Eaton Co. Ltd., A. T. Lambert, chairman, Toronto-Dominion Bank, Walter Lattman, vice-president, Massey-Ferguson Ltd., G. R. McGregor, president, Trans-Canada Air Lines, MacKenzie McMurray, president, Dominion Bridge Co. Ltd., D. R. Mitchener, former speaker of the House of Commons; J. H. Moore, president, John Labatt Ltd.; R. D. Parker, vice-president, International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd.; Dr. Gordon M. Shrum, co-chairman, British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority; Prof. G. M. Volkoff, head of the department of physics, University of British Columbia.

Alberta Natural Gas Deliveries Increase

VANCOUVER (CP)—Alberta Natural Gas Co. delivered 9.3 per cent more natural gas to the United States in 1963 than it did in the previous year.

Deliveries via the company's 107-mile pipeline from southern Alberta to the U.S. border at Kingsgate, B.C., totalled 168,000,000,000 cubic feet in 1963. Deliveries in 1962 were 154,000,000,000, the annual meeting here was told Thursday.

The company reported a net profit of $1,024,000 last year. Earnings were $1.20 a share.



SITUATED in the financial heart of downtown Toronto, construction started this week on a new head office for the Toronto-Dominion Bank. Artist's drawing shows the potential $100,000,000 development by the bank and its associates, Camp Investments, Ltd., to be known as the Toronto Dominion Centre. Black steel, stainless steel sash and bronze tinted glass will make two main buildings outstanding new additions to skyline of Toronto. A street-level plaza will feature landscaped walkways and a pool. Beneath it will be a level of shops and restaurants, and two tiers of parking area.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Granduc Plans Finalized

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

A firm announcement of plans for putting the Granduc Mines Ltd. copper property into production is now expected by the end of this month — either when the annual report is issued next week or at the annual meeting in Vancouver on April 29.

Gordon Bell

Meanwhile it has been learned that a report of a Japanese group putting up part of the development capital in return for a copper concentrate purchase deal was unfounded.

American Smelting and Refining, it is understood, will take the copper concentrates and, it has been rumored, will provide some financing. Financial arrangements between Newmont Mining, the Granduc parent company, and American Smelting were completed recently in New York.

There had been negotiations earlier between Granduc and the Japanese group but they were broken off.

Plans expected to be confirmed this month will include construction of a plant to mill 7,500 tons daily along with construction of a tunnel more than 10 miles long to give access to tidewater as well as other installations expected to total altogether about $50 million.

The most recent report on the property, 27 miles north of Stewart and beyond the Leduc Glacier, is that reserves are in excess of 32 million tons of ore grading an average of 1.93 per cent copper.

Cariboo Gold Quartz Mines Ltd. shareholders have been told that the richest grade of ore in the history of the mine is now being encountered in three stopes in the Burnett-Mosquito Creek faults of the Wells-Barkerville gold belt.

The three stopes are producing gold running 1.3, 1.4 and 1.1 ounces of gold per ton respectively, president Royden Morris said in issuing the annual report.

The company had net profit of $3,762 in 1963 contrasting with a loss of $80,097 in 1962.

Ore reserves have been increased to a total of 87,860 tons grading .59 ounces per ton for an equivalent of 51,670 ounces of gold valued at about $2 million gross.

Howard Whitaker, chairman of Mead Corp. of Dayton, Ohio—a major shareholder in B.C. Forest Products — has confirmed that the big U.S. paper company is negotiating with Northwood Mills Ltd. for a share of the proposed Northwood pulp mill at Prince George.

Northwood president A. H. Zimmerman had earlier refused comment on the story that Mead was interested which was confirmed by Mr. Whitaker wehn he arrived in Vancouver for the annual meeting of B.C. Forest. Northwood is a subsidiary of Noranda Mines Ltd.

In addition to seeking an interest in the Northwood Mill, Mead is a partner with B.C. Forest in Alexandra Forest Industries Ltd. which proposed to build a pulp mill in the Peace River aera.

If the Mead-Northwood and Mead - Alexandra deals go through it will make the U.S. paper firm a major factor in the B.C. forest economy.

Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. Ltd. annual report shows consolidated net income for 1963 of $3,317,378 or $1.12 a share compared with the previous year's $2,285,380 or 77 cents a share—an increase of 45 per cent.

Dosco for the first time revealed consolidated sales in its annual report and reported they rose to $142,453,449 in 1963 from $139,832,014 in 1962. Export business accounted for nearly 24 per cent of total sales and despite heavy competition, Dosco products were shipped to 11 countries during the year.

Annual report of Canadian Allied Property Investments Ltd., the public company formed by Grosvenor-Laing to hold Victoria's Mayfair Shopping Centre Ltd. and Pleasant Ridge Estates Ltd. in Surrey, shows a net profit for 1963 of $14,108.

The year was the first one of full operation for the firm and the report states that substantial progress was made. Since rental income from Mayfair did not commence until last October and Pleasant Ridge has not yet been developed, the report states, 1963 net profit was not typical of a normal year of operation. Even so, it is stated, the result supports an optimistic view of the future.

TAX-PAID UNDISTRIBUTED INCOME

Mac-Powell to Pay Out $14 Million

Nearly $14 millions in tax-paid undistributed income of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. will be paid out to shareholders over the next three years as tax-free redeemable preference shares, company chairman Hon. J. V. Clyne announced today.

Mr. Clyne, in a letter to shareholders accompanying the annual report, said that the proposal to distribute $13,705,347—equivalent to about 65 cents per share — would be made at the annual meeting in Vancouver April 28.

If it is approved a stock dividend of one new preference share of $1 par value will be issued for each five ordinary shares to holders of record May 18. The new shares will be redeemed for cash and further preference shares will be issued "as the directors deem expedient" until all the undistributed income has been paid out.

Most the tax-paid income, Mr. Clyne said, originated at the time of the amalgamation between Bloedel, Stewart and Welch and H. R. MacMillan Export Company in 1951.

No alteration in the present rate of dividends on common share is contemplated, the letter stated, and it will remain at the present rate of 25 cents per quarter.

The annual report of Canada's largest forest industry firm showed net earnings for 1963 reached $36,660,068, an increase of $578,259 over 1962, and equivalent to $1.76 per share.

Sales and other income for the year amounted to $349,368,343, an increase of $18,699,300 over the previous year.

About $4 millions of the income increase was a result of additional freight included in offshore customers' billings compared with 1962 while sales by the company for the accounts of other firms rose by $5 millions. The balance of the increase in sales is attributable to gains in sales of MacMillan, Bloedel products.

Mr. Clyne commented that the company looks forward confidently to this year with the outlook for a strong pulp market and good demand for lumber and plywood.

COLLIERIES BID DEFINITE

VANCOUVER (CP)—The newly-formed Weldwood of Canada Ltd. Co. Friday notified Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd., that it will make a formal offer Wednesday to purchase all of that company's outstanding 1,559,000 common shares at $13 a share.

Weldwood was formed out of Western Plywood Company Ltd. and its associated Canadian companies, Western Plywood, Weldwood-Westply Ltd. and Hay and Company. All were Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. Plywood Company and the amalgamation under the new name was announced Thursday.

Weldwood, in its invitation to shareholders of Canadian Collieries, said it would reserve the right to withdraw the offer if fewer than 1,150,000 shares have been delivered by May 29, or to an extended date which cannot go beyond June 30.

In the announcement of the incorporation of Weldwood Thursday, it was stated that it was affected to simplify arrangements for the purchase of the resources of Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd.

Should the deal for control of Canadian Collieries go through it is intended to operate it as a corporate subsidiary of Weldwood and to retain its name, Weldwood spokesmen said.

$400 Million Bond Offer By Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Gordon announced Friday a new government financing program that will include a cash offering of $400,000,000 worth of bonds.

Full details of the program will be announced when the formal offering is made Monday.

The announcement said the proceeds of the offering will be used to redeem $360,000,000 of 4 per cent government bonds maturing May 1, and for general purposes.

The bonds will be offered in four maturities—one year two months, two years and 7½ months, five years and two months, and 26 years. The 26-year maturity will be limited to $75,000,000.

The Bank of Canada has agreed to buy $250,000,000 of the new five-year, two-month bonds in exchange for an equal amount of 3¾ per cent bonds maturing Sept. 1, 1965.

The announcement said this transaction would reduce the amount of the outstanding Sept. 1 maturity to $750,000,000, compared with an original issue of $1,267,000,000.

The financing announced Friday is the second step in a program designed to reduce the size of the 1965 maturity to "more manageable proportions."

Uranium Mine Will Close Down

TORONTO (CP) — George De Young, president of Rio Algom Mines, has confirmed that Milliken mine, a uranium producer at Elliot Lake, Ont., will close down this summer.

The mine now has about 550 workers.

Mr. De Young said the closing is necessary because the mine's contracts for uranium will end June 30.

DIEFENBAKER SAYS:

Eskimo Transfer 'Court Problem'

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Diefenbaker urged the government Friday to ask the Supreme Court of Canada to rule on whether the government can transfer control of Eskimo administration to Quebec.

However, he accepted a compromise under which Transport Minister Pickersgill promised to have the law officers of the Crown give a legal opinion on the Eskimo transfer.

Mr. Pickersgill also promised to bring the matter before the cabinet. If there is any doubt of the government's power, he said, then Parliament would be asked to remedy it.

The exchange highlighted a second—and final—day of debate on the proposed transfer, a subject opened by Mr. Diefenbaker Thursday when the House's study of supplementary estimates for 1963-64 reached the northern affairs department.

SIT OVERTIME

The estimates have been under scrutiny for 15 days. Early in the day, MPs agreed to a special three-hour overtime sitting Friday night in a bid to clean them up and get into legislative items.

Opposition members continued to hammer away at Northern Affairs Minister Laing on the Quebec Eskimo transfer, sought by the province since 1961 and under negotiation in recent months.

Mr. Laing reported there has been practically no progress in the negotiations.

Mr. Diefenbaker contended it would be unconstitutional and illegal for the government to make an agreement with Quebec for the administration of the affairs of some 2,500 Eskimos in northern Quebec.

REFER TO COURT

He said the agreement should not merely be subject to a vote of confidence in Parliament after it is signed and sealed, but should be referred to the Supreme Court for an opinion.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) supported Mr. Diefenbaker, saying it would be better to bring forward specific government legislation authorizing the agreement before it is entered into.

Mr. Pickersgill said that certainly would be given consideration.

Mr. Knowles asked for a promise that if the matter went to a vote of confidence, the government's Canada Pension Plan would not be put in the balance.

Mr. Pickersgill said he could not give such a commitment because "if the government is defeated, it's defeated."

But he said he agreed that if there is any doubt about the legality of such an agreement, it should be covered by specific legislation.

YEAR OFF WITH BRITT SELLERS' REST CURE

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Peter Sellers plans to take a year's vacation to recuperate from his heart attack, says his bride of two months.

Swedish actress Britt Eklund said Friday that as soon as Sellers can travel, they'll go to their home in Surrey, England, and then to Switzerland.

"He's fine," she told reporters, whom she met for the first time since Sellers was stricken with coronary thrombosis.

Sellers, 38, was taken off the critical list Friday.

Food Has Top Spot On Cooks' Night Out

Daffodils, tulips and even air-freighted orchids will take a back seat Tuesday night to fish, salad and dessert.

The occasion is the annual Culinary Arts Ball, at Victoria Curling Rink on Quadra.

The night of culinary delight runs through from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m.

It begins at the door when Miss Victoria, Merle Webb, presents women guests with 500 Vandal orchids flown in from Hawaii.

Amid surroundings of 1,200 daffodils and tulips, guests will be able to "tour" the display of decorated foods featured by the chefs of Victoria.

DINING, DANCING

And at 8 p.m., high spot of the evening, the time to partake of the gourmet goodies smorgasbord style.

At 9:30 p.m., the Skyliners orchestra will take over from organist Reg Stone for three and a half hours of dancing.

The event, sponsored by the Vancouver Island branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association, gives Victoria's top chefs a chance to display their skills—and win certificates as well.

Attending are restaurateurs from Victoria, Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland and others in the food industry.

Authentic Dugout Fun Fair Prize

DUNCAN — An authentic 11-foot nine-inch Indian dugout canoe will be first prize in a tombola at the annual Queen Margaret's School fun fair May 30.

The canoe, built by Saanich Indians, was presented by a member of the band, Mrs. Almer Campbell, to headmistress Miss Margaret Glide Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Campbell was accompanied by Cowichan Indian Michael Underwood and Quamichan Indian carver Simon Charlie. The latter had painted the canoe.

Tombola proceeds will be used for school furnishings.

Castro Wins Devotion of Youth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cuban Premier Castro has entrenched himself as an increasingly popular dictator by winning the devotion of the island's youth, attorney James Donovan, of New York, said Friday.

"He is directing everything for the youth, and they are fanatically devoted to Fidel," Donovan told the National Press Club.

Donovan was the attorney who dealt with Castro in arranging for the exchange of 1,300 prisoners taken at the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion in reutrn for $60,000,000 worth of U.S. medical supplies.

GAINS STRENGTH

He said Castro has been gaining in strength. But he added the support of Cuban youth was not because of the Communist system the dictator has imposed.

"The island of Cuba belongs to Castro," Donovan said, "and it is absurd to consider him a pawn of Khrushchev. The Cuban youth are not concerned about the party.

NOT INTERESTED

"And Castro is far greater devoted to Fidel than to Karl Marx."

Donovan said that from the time Castro took power in 1959 he has directed his program primarily toward the school-age children of Cuba.

"He is not interested in the older people, the fugitives, the exiles," Donovan said. "Remember Lenin once said, 'Give me the children of a country for four years, and I can assure its future'."

"Castro has had the youth of Cuba for almost six years", he said.

Donovan said Castro has been "brilliantly playing the United States against Soviet Russia and both of them against Red China" in a bid for greater power.

Without elaboration, he said the power play had been a "demonstrable success" for Castro.

Boxer Blames Bias

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson plans to sell his expensive suburban home because of alleged racial prejudice by his white neighbors. The Negro athlete put his 11-room, $140,000 home up for sale Friday and said he was looking for a new neighborhood "that would be good for my children."

Social Insurance Number Card
It's to help you

Your government is issuing Social Insurance Number Cards in place of the unemployment insurance numbers that most employed people have had until now. The new numbers will help government to use modern office methods for greater efficiency in handling unemployment insurance, and also other social benefits such as proposed pension plans.

For these reasons, you are invited to apply for a Social Insurance Number, even if you are not a contributor to the unemployment insurance plan.

WHAT YOU DO IF YOU ARE AN EMPLOYEE:
Your employer will give you an application form for a Social Insurance Number Card. You can help most by completing it quickly and accurately and returning the form to your employer.

WHAT YOU DO IF YOU ARE UNEMPLOYED:
If you are receiving unemployment insurance benefit you will be asked to apply for a Social Insurance Number Card, the next time you report, in person, or by mail. If you are a person who is usually employed but are not receiving benefit, you should call at the local office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission and register.

WHAT YOU DO IF YOU ARE AN EMPLOYER:
(a) If you are an employer registered with the Unemployment Insurance Commission—you will automatically receive registration forms. You will be asked to distribute them to your employees, have them completed, and returned to the local office of the Commission.

(b) If you are an employer who is not registered with the Unemployment Insurance Commission—please get in touch with your local Commission office and inform them how many employees you have. The Commission will then send you an application form for each of your employees to complete. When all forms have been completed, you will return them to the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

The new numbers are designed to help you. You can help by completing an application form quickly and accurately.

THE WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Feed the roses now they are actively in growth. A handful of a balanced fertilizer to each average sized bush raked in lightly; water if no rain is expected.

Tulips should be fed a bulb fertilizer while they are blooming. Scatter on soil around stems and water in without splashing flowers or leaves.

In soil which can be easily worked; sow all kinds of hardy annual seed. Withhold the heat lovers such as salvia, zinnia and African marigold.

Sow indoors celosiea, kochia and amaranthus—all semi-tropical. Give warmth, light and good soil.

Some of the annuals now growing in coldframes need growing tips removed to obtain bushier plants with stronger growths. This applies to snapdragons, schizanthus, sweet peas, carnations, asters.

Bare patches in lawns can be repaired by sowing grass seed into freshly added sandy compost.

Set asparagus plants into well prepared beds made up of well rotted manure and compost.

Sow seed of cucumber, marrow, squash indoors in peat pots or transplanting bands.

Q. All this controversy about narcissi and daffodils—which is correct, and why are both names used?

—Newcomer, Victoria.

A. Daffodil is a common name which has been given to one group of the genus narcissi and poeticus or Poet's narcissus. This last group is also sometimes called Phaesant Eye. Botanically, all are narcissi.

The name daffodil is perhaps used most often in referring to those with a trumpet as long as the perianth (petal) segments.

In much the same way the primrose, polyanthus and primula botanically are members of the genus primula.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Patience Chief Virtue For Grapevine Grower

Last week I left you to prepare a piece of ground for your outdoor grape and purchase a vine. The job for this weekend is to plant it and do the cutting back.

Jack

First, let us take a look at the vine itself. Remove the piece of sacking from the roots and shake the roots free. Extending upwards from the roots is a trunk or stub, the length of which may be a few inches or one foot, and at the top of the stub there will be from two to six growths made last year.

These growths have been pruned to about 12 inches in length. Some of them are very much alive and displaying growth buds just becoming active, while others may have died because they were not ripe enough to withstand the winter.

The vine is now to be planted in the centre of the two-foot-square which received the bonemeal in a hole wide enough to take the spread-out roots without any cramping or bending.

A properly planted vine should have soil to the top end of the stub, but with some varieties this would mean excavating into the subsoil, which is not recommended for any plant.

An alternative is to lean the plant sideways and this works out with some vines, but others with very long stubs have to be left sticking up in the air.

NINE INCHES DEEP

Probably the best line to follow is to remove the soil down to subsoil, loosen the subsoil and then replace about three inches of the soil-bonemeal mixture. Spread the roots on this and then fill in the hole, working the soil around the roots with the fingers and pressing it gently but firmly.

This should put the roots about nine inches below soil level, under average conditions, which is about right.

Before completing the filling in, I usually pour a pail of water into the hole when planting any tree or shrub, not because the soil is dry right now, but to drive out the air and settle the soil particles close to the roots.

Once the vine is well and truly planted the easiest part of grape growing is finished. At present all we have is a small root system and a few buds which have to be built into a healthy, vigorous vine that can produce and ripen up to 40 bunches of large, luscious grapes.

The most difficult part for the home gardener from now on will be to control impatience and be reconciled to the fact that good grapes can only come from a good vine which has always been treated according to its vigor.

SUIT YOUR FANCY

There is no law governing the way you train your vine. Commercial growers follow a system best suited to produce large crops with the minimum of work, but you can train yours as a fan or to a single stem with arms to one side or to both sides.

For a fan you will keep three of the pruned last-year growths, while for a straight stem all are removed excepting the one that is strongest or best positioned.

Whether we retain one or more growths, each growth is pruned back to leave only two growth buds beyond its point of origin.

These two buds will make growths as the season progresses, one of which is selected to form the trunk of the vine, the other, the weaker one, being rubbed out.

Under good conditions a single stem vine should make about four feet of growth the first season, but it will depend on the root system below ground. When the growth is less than four feet and the stem is thin, it shows that the roots can do no better this year.

So next spring you will cut the stem back to within two buds of the base and start again. Because of the increased root system made this year, the second-year stem is usually everything the vine grower could wish.

GROW ARMS

If the stem is strong enough this year the side arms are grown next year, or in the third year if a second stem has to be made.

These arms are usually 18 inches apart and are obtained by rubbing off all the buds on the main stems excepting those at the places where the arms are wanted.

Each arm will make a certain length of growth, and the following year they are pruned back a short distance to a strong bud which will extend them further. This is continued each year until the arms are as long as wanted.

In the meantime the commercial grower encourages other arms to form from buds on the present arms and near the main stem. These arms replace the older ones as they wear out.

While all this is going on, the older parts will produce lateral growths which carry flowers after making four to six leaves.

These flowers are potential grapes and only one bunch of flowers should be allowed to form on a lateral, and not more than 40 laterals to a vigorous, healthy, mature vine.

The number of laterals is controlled by rubbing out growth buds before they develop, and it is wise to practice this early in the life of a vine to prevent it producing beyond its capacity and coming to an early end.

The number of bunches to a lateral is controlled by nipping off the lateral at two leaves beyond the first flowers.

This rule of two leaves beyond is important. At the junction of leaf and lateral is a growth bud which will become active as soon as the lateral tip is pinched off.

There must always be at least one point of growth beyond any fruit otherwise no sap will be drawn to the fruit and it will not develop. This same rule applies to squash and other vine-type vegetable crops.

Leafs and Wings Start Cup Final At 5 p.m., CBC

Ed Sullivan Introduces Moscow Circus Sunday at 8 P.M. on Channels 6, 2, 7, 12

By RON SUDLOW

Stanley Cup playoff hockey between Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs will share the spotlight this weekend with the Moscow State Circus.

First game of the finals for Lord Stanley's $48 mug will take place tonight at 5 on Maple Leaf Garden ice. Game will be telecast in its entirety on Channels 6 and 2.

Other games this week will be Tuesday at 5 p.m. from Toronto and Thursday, also at 5 p.m., from Detroit.

Acts of the American touring version of the Moscow State Circus will comprise the entire Ed Sullivan Show Sunday at 8 p.m. on Channels 6, 2, 7 and 12.

This marks the second Sullivan program this season devoted entirely to the acts of the Moscow State Circus which is composed of 7,000 performers who tour the Soviet Union and other parts of Asia, Europe and the Americas.

On October 27, 1963, Sullivan presented the London company, taped at Wembly Stadium with totally different acts.

Featured on the program, taped in Minneapolis in November, will be the world-renowned clown, Oleg Popov.

Other acts include boxing bears, Cossack horsemen, gymnasts, wire walkers and teeter board tumblers.

Sunday at 1 p.m. on Channels 7 and 12 a telecast will cover the final four holes of the 28th Masters golf tournament from Augusta, Ga.

Medal play started Thursday with a field of 100 of the best professionals and amateurs in the world tackling the par-72, 6,980-yard course.

Winner will get $20,000 and the coveted Masters green jacket.

In case of a tie or rain-out, the final round of the tournament will be telecast Monday starting at 2 p.m. on the same channels.

There are two sides to every coin and CBC's 20/20 offers a look at Canadian humorist Eric Nicol as he is seen by himself and others Sunday at 3:30 p.m. on Channel 2.

Voicing their views on Nicol will be Torchy Anderson who hired him to write a daily column for the Vancouver Province; Times publisher Stuart Keate and Vancouver magistrate Lew Bewley who has known Nicol since their days at UBC.

Other highlights this weekend, in order of their appearance:

TONIGHT

7:15: Channels 6, 2: Juliette's guests are flautist Moe Koffman and singer Dorothy Harpell.

7:30: Channel 4: Getting together for tonight's Hootenanny are Bob Gibson, the Brothers Four, Stan Rubin and his Tigertown Five, operatic soprano Elaine Malbin and funnyman Charlie Manna.

8:30: Channel 4: Lawrence Welk salutes Oscar-winning tunes and those nominated for this year's awards.

Channel 7: Milton Berle stars in the Defenders drama "Die Laughing." A comedian attempts suicide and his wife has him committed to a mental institution.

9:30: Channel 4: Host of tonight's variety show from Hollywood Palace is Donald O'Connor. He will introduce comedians Jerry Van Dyke, Jack E. Leonard, songstress Fran Jeffries and impressionist Rich Little.

Channel 7: Phil Silvers becomes a surly with a fringe on top when he starts to think young and adds a toupee to his wardrobe.

10:00: Channel 2: Showcase offers songs by Eleanor Collins, accompanied by the Bobby Hales orchestra.

Also guesting will be comedian Shelley Berman.

SUNDAY

12:00: Channel 4: The documentary "1964" examines the role of the United States in the future of Western Man. Cameras illustrate strengths by focusing on technological advances and look at weaknesses such as unemployment, slums and old people's homes.

1:00: Channels 7, 12: Telecast of the final four holes of the Masters golf tournament.

2:30: Channels 7, 12: CBS Sports Spectacular takes a look at gymnastics and filmed highlights of the national Cutting Horse Championships, held in January at Ft. Worth, Texas.

3:30: Channel 2: 20/20 takes a look at humorist Eric Nicol.

4:30: Channel 5: Washington, D.C.'s Cherry Blossom Festival is a feature of Sunday.

5:00: Channel 8: Secretary of State Maurice Lamontagne discusses biculturalism on Scope. This program was postponed from last week.

6:00: Channel 5: Robin Hood will romp again through Sherwood Forest with his merry men for those of you who missed the NBC Children's Theatre version aired February 15.

Channel 8: Walt Disney uses film clips to trace the story of Hurricane Hannah.

6:30: Channel 2: Mike wants to get married but can't afford an apartment so he suggests that he and Sally live with his family on My Three Sons.

8:00: Channels 6, 2, 7, 12: Ed Sullivan introduces the acts of the Moscow State Circus.

9:00: Channels 6, 2, 5: Hoss orders a surprise package from a Chinese trading company and it turns out to be a beautiful woman labeled "wife" on this week's Bonanza.

Channels 7, 12: Celebrity Game debuts and panelists try to decide if women should ever be forced to pay alimony and if men should wear toupees. Guesting will be Morey Amsterdam, Arlene Dahl, Betty Hutton, Lee Marvin and Tommy Sands. Host is Carl Reiner.

9:30: Channels 7, 2: Made in America is also a new panel game where panelists attempt to guess the identity of millionaire guests. Hans Conreid hosts.

10:00: Channel 2: Lister Sinclair narrates a Horizon program titled "This Was a Man" dealing with the aspects of nature and human nature that influenced and inspired Shakespeare. Off-camera voices read some of his sonnets and excerpts from his plays.

Channel 5: Carny, starring fan dancer Sally Rand, will examine the American carnival business.

11:00: Channel 12: Temple Houston, a circuit-riding attorney in the Old West is seen for the first time on KVOS-TV.

FIVE HOPEFULS for Favorite Male Performer award in 1964 TV Guide Awards—Richard Chamberlain with bowl; and clockwise, Raymond Burr, David Janssen, Danny Kaye and Dick Van Dyke—will be present to await verdict of fifth annual viewer popularity poll on Bob Hope Show Friday at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 5. Hope's guests will be Tony Randall, Martha Raye and Jack Jones.

TUESDAY:

Doctor Kildare Scheduled For Ben Casey Operation

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — At last, Ben Casey and Dr. Kildare are co-starring in a television show.

Ordinarily that would be impossible because of network rivalry. However, the Dr. Kildare who appears on Ben's show is Lew Ayres.

Ayres was the first Kildare in a movie series which started in 1938. He made more than 10 of those films and also did a radio series based on the young doctor.

The story has since been converted into a popular television series with Richard Chamberlain playing the title role.

Ayres was hired by Casey's producers to play a role far removed from that of his old Kildare days. He portrays a hospital patient on the verge of death. That's a switch.

"It's a very interesting role," Ayres said. "The part has nothing to do with my being a doctor."

Ayres was never in the Kildare television series. He wonders if he would fit into the show, considering his identification with the movie character.

"There's been talk about my doing one of the shows," he said. "It's kind of a delicate situation. I wouldn't want to just breeze in there and do just anything. I think it (the part) would have to be well constructed to accommodate a double image."

Whatever role he played on a Kildare, it would be in the shaddow of Ayres' movie medic of the same name.

Lew was directed in his Casey episode by that series' star, Vince Edwards, who has been directing some of his own shows recently.

"I did one of them before," Casey said. "That was about two months ago. I'm going to do six episodes this year. I think you get more fulfilment that way. You've got to create your own concept of the show."

Some actors who also have directed themselves in a show complain that it's a difficult double chore. Vince doesn't think so.

"I know this thing down cold," Vince said. "It's no problem, just block it out (arrange the scene), walk through it (actors go through their paces) and shoot it.

EMCEE — Jack Lemmon has been named to host this year's Academy Awards telecast from Santa Monica, Calif., which will be seen Monday at 7 p.m. on Channels 6, 2 and 4. Guesting will be Sammy Davis Jr., Andy Williams, James Darren, Harve Presnell and Katyna Ranieri.

NOBODY THERE:

Oscar Show Half Taped Beforehand

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Monday is the night for the annual Academy Awards, and only about half the actors nominated for moviedom's big prize will be in Santa Monica Civil Auditorium when the program begins. Most of the favorites apparently will be among the missing.

But come what may, Dick Dunlap will be prepared. This is his fourth year of directing the big bash for television, and he has 12 cameras ready to catch the action.

"We'll start the show with a helicopter shot, coming in over the ocean right up to the auditorium as the cars are driving up," he said. "It should be effective. We'll have to pre-tape it at six because there won't be enough light an hour later."

TAPES ACTRESSES

Other parts of the show will be pre-taped due to the number of no-shows. Dunlap went to England recently to shoot some of the nominees who won't attend: Patrica Neal, who is eight months pregnant, and Rachel Roberts, wife of another nominee Rex Harrison.

"I taped three of the supporting actress nominees because they aren't familiar to most televison viewers," he added. They include Diane Cilento and Margaret Rutherford, who are making films in England, and Joyce Redman, who is in a play.

Nominees who have made acceptances are: Sidney Poitier, Richard Harris, Leslie Caron, Shirley Maclaine, Natalie Wood, Nick Adams, Bobby Darin, Lilia Skala and Edith Evans.

Producer George Sidney has lined up a case of presenters that will help fill the stellar gap: Julie Andrews, Steve McQueen, Edward G. Robinson, Frank Sinatra, Ann Baxter, Donna Reed, as well as ail of last year's winners—Ann Bancroft, Gregory Peck, Patty Duke and Ed Begley.

Oscars Awarded Monday

Bob Hope Presents TV Guide Awards Friday at 8:30 P.M.

Smoking and Health Again Explored On CBS Reports, Wednesday at 7:30

Highlighting week night television fare will be two shows honoring some of your favorite actors and actresses.

The 36th Acamedy Awards Presentations will be seen Monday at 7 p.m. on Channels 2, 4 and 6 and Bob Hope will present TV Guide popularity awards Friday at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 5.

FUN GIRLS out for a good time latch on to ace deputy sheriff Barney (Don Knotts) Fife and persuade him to take them on a tour of the Mayberry lockup on Monday's Andy Griffith Show telecast at 10 p.m. on Channel 12.

Hosting the Oscar presentations Monday will be Jack Lemmon. Some of the celebrities presenting awards will be Julie Andrews, Anne Baxter, Rita Hayworth, Rock Hudson, Shirley Jones, Steve McQueen, Sidney Poitier, Donna Reed, Edward G. Robinson and Frank Sinatra.

Nominated in major categories are: Best film, "America, America," "Cleopatra," "How the West Was Won," "Lilies of the Field," and "Tom Jones."

Best Actress: Leslie Caron ("The L-Shaped Room"), Shirley MacLaine ("Irma La Douce"), Patricia Neal ("Hud"), Rachel Roberts ("The Sporting Life") and Natalie Wood ("Love With the Proper Stranger").

Best Actor: Albert Finney ("Tom Jones"), Richard Harris ("The Sporting Life"), Rex Harrison ("Cleopatra"), Paul Newman ("Hud") and Sidney Poitier ("Lillies of the Field").

Singing tunes nominated for Oscars will be Andy Williams, Debbie Reynolds, James Darren, Harve Presnell and Katyna Ranieri.

Moviegoers wil take a back seat to TV fans Friday night when 15 minutes of Bob Hope's show will be devoted to honor winners of TV Guide's popularity poll conducted annually among Canadian and U.S. readers.

Among personalities nominated are Shirley Booth, Raymond Burr, Richard Chamberlain, Patty Duke, David Janssen, Mary Tyler Moore, Danny Kaye, Irene Ryan, Inger Stevens and Dick Van Dyke.

Tony Randall, Martha Raye and Jack Jones will join host Hope for a 45-minute comedy-variety portion.

The social, political and economic conflicts generated by the U.S. Surgeon General's report on smoking and health are probed in CBS Reports: "Cigarettes: A Collision of Interests," Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 7.

The collision of interests explored is the potential conflict between America's physical well-being on the one hand and its economic health on the other.

The broadcast focuses upon the proposed action by the U.S. government, now that a presidential commission has officially identified smoking as a "health hazard."

Other highlights of week night watching, in order of appearance:

MONDAY

6:00: Channel 2: British comic Arthur Haynes returns in his half-hour series.

7:00: Channels 2, 4, 6; Academy Awards telecast from Santa Monica, Calif.

Channel 7: Northwest Traveler visits Yellowstone National Park.

8:30: Channel 8: MacHale's crew begin digging under Binghampton's office when Ensign Parker has a vision treasure is buried there.

9:00: Channels 6, 2: Playdate offers "Alias Jones," a British comedy in which an undercover agent is shadowed by a sinister-looking bloke in a black cloak.

Starring are Douglas Rain, Ivor Barry and Earle Hyman.

9:30: Channel 7: Social workers try to get a bill through Congress which would reduce malpractice in obtaining government contracts on East Side West Side.

TUESDAY

6:00: Channel 2: "The Lost Men of Malaya" are documented on Adventure. Films show the life of the Templar peoples of the northern jungles.

8:00: Channel 7: Red Skelton's guest stars are Vincent Price and Bobby Rydell. In a sketch, Red enrolls in a school for thieves and plays a shipwrecked sailor in the Silent Spot.

8:30: Channels 6, 2: Lew Ayres, the original Dr. Kildare of movie fame, is a patient of Ben Casey.

He will portray a businessman who wants to enjoy life for a change but his medical chart indicates he has but a few hours to live.

10:00: Channel 5: Two contrasting comics, Imogene Coca and Bob Newhart are guests of Andy Williams in a special seen Friday on Channel 2. Bob will do his expectant father monologue and Imogene pirouettes through a dream ballet.

Channel 7: Comedian Norm Crosby and singer-comedienne Dorothy Loudon join Broadway musical comedy star Gwen Verdon in a potpourri of song, stepping and satire on Garry Moore's show.

WEDNESDAY

6:00: Channel 2: Hollywood and the Stars covers the filming of the $5,000,000 comedy, "What a Way to Go," with stars Shirley MacLaine, Paul Newman, Robert Mitchum, Dean Martin, Bob Cummings and Dick Van Dyke.

7:30: Channel 7: CBS Reports on cigarette smoking and the effect of the U.S. Surgeon General's report.

9:00: Channel 2: Christopher Plummer, whose brilliant Hamlet is a remembered highlight of Canada's Stratford Festival of 1957, returns to his role in a BBC-TV production of the Shakespearean tragedy seen on Festival.

The play was filmed on the battlements and rooms of Kronborg Castle at Elsinore, Denmark, and runs almost three hours.

Channel 7: An aging stock car driver in need of prize money competes against a man who races only to satisfy his pride on Suspense. Sebastian Cabot hosts.

9:00: Channel 5: In a rerun. Espionage tells the story of two Norwegian Resistance fighters who are tried for the wartime slaying of an elderly refugee couple.

10:00 Channels 7, 12: Mary Tyler Moore returns for her third guest-star appearance and The Youngfolk, a folksinging group, are featured on this week's Danny Kaye show.

In a sketch Mary and Danny argue about the pronunciation of the word "vase."

THURSDAY

7:00: Channel 4: In a 60-minute special, Keith Jackson looks at thoroughbred breeding in Washington State. Horses are seen racing, in shows and in jumping contests.

9:00: Channel 7: Perry Mason works on "The Case of the Antic Angel." An alcoholic goes back to his bottle—and fast—when he finds out his wife is still alive after five years.

8:30: Channel 5: An elderly man and a neglected girl find in each other the platonic love they desparately need on Dr. Kildare. Ed Begley, Kim Darby and Lola Albright are featured.

9:30: Channel 4: Jimmy Dean's guests are comedian Milt Kamen who will review the picture which wins the Academy Award Monday night.

10:00: Channel 2: International actress Patricia Collinge plays a wealthy woman who suspects her niece's greedy husband of four months has been forging cheques in her name on Alfred Hitchcock.

Channel 5: Clint "Cheyenne" Walker returns to TV after a two-year absence in "Portrait of an Unknown Man" on Suspense Theatre.

He plays a hermit who arouses suspicion in a nearby, quiet mining town.

FRIDAY

7:00: Channel 2: Bob Quintrell and panelists explain to viewers what can happen to people who move to a smaller community from the big city on the Seven o'Clock Show.

7:30: Channel 5: Rodeo clowns, wire walkers and horseback acrobats are featured on International Showtime's Bavarian Big Top taped in Europe.

8:00: Channels 6, 2: Gordie Tapp and the Country Hoedowners celebrate the 40th anniversary of the RCAF station at Downsview, Ontario.

8:30: Channel 5: Bob Hope presents TV Guide awards to video personalities.

9:30: Channels 6, 2: Telescope looks at "Deadpan" Buster Keaton in a visit to his California home. Buster will talk about his early show-biz days and comment on his visits to Canada.

10:00: Channel 4: Middleweight champ Joey Giardello meets Rocky Rivero in a 10-round non-title bout telecast from Cleveland.

ENGLISH MASS DRAWS NEAR IN THE U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Millions of U.S. Catholics today were a step closer to hearing large portions of mass in English instead of Latin.

The Roman Catholic hierarchy of the United States, meeting in secret, has formally approved plans for using English instead of Latin in parts of the mass and sacraments.

There was some speculation that the new rules might go into effect by Pentecost Sunday, May 17. Other sources said the change might be postponed until a new liturgical year begins with Advent next November.

NEWS OF CITY CHURCHES

Indian Festival At Metropolitan

An all-day Indian Mela or religious festival will be held in Metropolitan United Church Sunday, starting at 9:45 a.m. with the showing of missionary films in the church school.

At the 11 a.m. family service, Rev. F. E. H. James, DD, and Rev. E. Laura Butler will deliver a conversational sermon, "The Church's Mission in Southwest Asia."

Lunch at 12:30 p.m. in the Pendray Hall will be followed by missionary displays and films. There will be an Indian-style supper at 5:30 p.m. and at the evening service a pageant-drama by the young people of Metropolitan entitled "The Challenge of World Needs."

The Sanctuary Choir, conducted by Dr. James Gayfer, will sing O How Amiable (Maunder), Jesus Shall Reign (Drummond Wolff) and God Is a Spirit (Sterndale Bennett).

Eric Boothroyd's organ preludes will be Minuet and Trio and Die Frage, both by Wolstenholme.

* * *

Rev. W. J. Klempa, DD, will be inducted into the pastoral charge of Gorge Presbyterian Church Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

A graduate of Manitoba, Toronto and Edinburgh universities, with graduate study at Harvard and Goettingen, Germany, Dr. Klempa also served as part-time secretary of the Student Christian Movement at the University of Victoria.

Rev. Donald C. Smith, DD, of Port Alberni will preach the sermon; Rev. Allan Beaton of Sooke will give the charge to the minister and Rev. T. H. McAllister the charge to the congregation.

* * *

Major the Rev. W. W. Buxton will preach on "We Remember Vimy" in St. John's Anglican Church Sunday evening.

In the morning Canon George Biddle will talk on "The Day of the Earthquake."

* * *

"Free Religion in a Changing World" will be the subject of Rev. Marvin Evans at Victoria Unitarian Church Sunday evening. It is based on a sermon preached by Waldemar Argow at the 1963 UUA general assembly.

The Unitarian Church holds its Sunday evening services in the War Amputees Hall, 1610 Oak Bay Avenue, and a Sunday school and adult forum in the Optimist Building, 106 Superior Street, at 10:30 a.m.

* * *

Allan Husband will sing the anthem, Even Me (Warren), with the choir at First United Church Sunday at 11 a.m. At 9:30 a.m. the choir will sing Teach Me O Lord (Atwood), and in the evening Once To Every Man and Nation (Tony Bottell) and Come I Pray Thee (Anderson).

At the morning services, Rev. Robert J. D. Morris will begin a new series of sermons on Preparation for Pentecost and in the evening The Parables of Jesus.

* * *

The 155th Company, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, under the command of Major J. F. Rowe, will attend morning worship in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, with members and friends of the Vancouver Island branch, Black Watch Association.

Rev. J. L. W. McLean, DD, will preach on the subject "A Creed for Heroes."

* * *

Evensong at Christ Church Cathedral will be broadcast over CJVI when Rev. Roy A. Hoult will be the preacher.

Dean Brian Whitlow preaches at the morning service.

* * *

Pastor Jack Loughton will preach on the topic "Where are you pitching your tent?" in the Church of the Nazarene Sunday at 11 a.m.

At the 7 p.m. service his subject will be "Behold He Prayeth."

The Young People's Society will hold its annual meeting at 8:15 p.m. when reports of officers will be received and officers elected.

WRIGHT DARKHORSE THREAT . . . . . . IN TIMES ISLAND OPEN TOURNEY

Don't Be Surprised If Eric Keeps Marching Along

By ERNIE FEDORUK

On the strength of his marching performances in Inter-Club League play last year, a former army lieutenant brings the district golfers to "attention" today.

Eric Wright has to be tabbed as the dark-horse campaigner in this year's running of the Times Vancouver Island Open golf championships.

When the match-play scramble for The Times Trophy heads into the second round at Uplands this Sunday, Wright will be rated an underdog. That is mainly because his second-round rival, professional Norm Boden of Mount Brenton, boasts credentials that include triumps in the Island Open (1961) and the City Amateur (1956).

Wright, by his own admission, "has only won a couple of club championships."

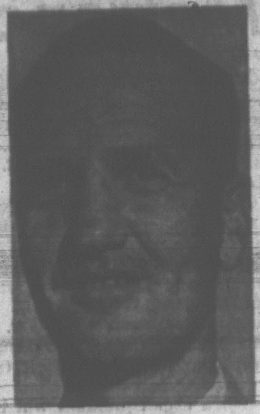
Yet there are some who won't regard a Wright victory as an "upset."

That would include the legion that followed the 47-year-old Uplands amateur's progress in the Inter-Club League. Wright was the man most responsible for bringing the Willie Park Driver to Uplands for the first time.

He missed the first two matches, then picked up 5½ points out of a possible six to spark the six-man Uplands team to victory. He won all four of his singles matches, defeating Dr. George Bigelow (at Oak Bay), Vic Painter, Dave Ewart and Roy Chappell.

It was Wright's dramatic, down-to-the-wire tussle with Chappell that won the Driver trophy. Victory depended on a 25-foot putt confronting Wright on the final green. He dropped it, and Uplands edged Gorge Vale by a half-point!

Wright is "one of Freddie Burns' boys." He was one of the promising young prospects that picked up the finer points of the game at the old Macauley Point course.



ERIC WRIGHT

An army career (1936-1962) interrupted his fairway progress. He played only on occasions while in the service.

When the native son returned to Victoria two years ago, his golfing enthusiasm was quickly revitalized. Quiet and personable, Eric now owns a four handicap.

Eric will be the first to admit he doesn't rank as a power-hitter. But he's consistently straight off the tees and his forte is an accurate iron game plus an exceptional putting touch.

A 76 in the qualifying round at Colwood, three strokes off the medal-winner's score, put him in a tie for fifth. Last week, he matched par all the way in defeating Danny Soberg, 5 and 4, at Gorge Vale.

Last, but not least, Wright's supporters point out one more important fact. Eric will have home course knowledge on his side against Boden on Sunday.

Wright and Boden are bracketed in the acknowledged "tough half" of the draw. In addition to Boden, former champions Ron MacLeod, Bill Wakeham and Art Donaldson are also located in the top half.

Only two past champions—Lauries Kerr and Carroll—are in the bottom half.

One of the feature matches Sunday sends Donaldson against power-hitting Dickie Munn, the 21-year-old Cedar Hill pro.

The complete list of pairings, along with their starting times, are listed below.

Hal Malone
LOOKS AT SPORTS

E. P. (for Edward Plunkett) as his friends call him, or "Mr. Taylor" as his employees address him, was willing to talk horses but not business.

Fine. He has so many things going for him a full interview would have lasted until the summer equinox. He doesn't exactly own Canada but when he writes a cheque the country tips a little.

This was at B.C. Forest Products' Friday morning. The brass, their executive craniums encased in hard hats in case somebody dropped a two-by-four from the rafters, slowly toured the plant with the chairman of the board.

BILL HARTACK

After Ian Barclay, the resident host, handled the introductions two separate incidents gave an insight into E.P. the man.

He handed a white hard hat and raincoat to Barclay and said with meaning, "Tell that fe[illegible]w 'thanks,' will you?" Barclay said he would. Taylor excused himself "for just a minute, please."

While he was away, Barclay said, "You should have seen him early this morning. He was jumping with delight. One of his horses won and paid $92."

The horse was Rustic Gentleman. Only three, he ran like one at Laurel and paid $92.80, largest price of the meeting. E.P. didn't have pfenning on him. Didn't even know he was running.

Authoritative turf experts believe that E.P. may make up the loss of income May 2 at Louisville, Kentucky.

On that day at Churchill Downs huge sums of money will be pressed into the hands of the owner of the fastest steed in the Kentucky Derby.

The betting line at Las Vegas has established Northern Dancer, a friend of Mr. Taylor's, as the 7-5 favorite. This does not mean they don't have to run the race. It does suggest that the Dancer's working parts are highly synchronized.

Glue Doesn't Always Hold In Derby

But favorites have a habit of coming unglued in the Derby as Mr. Taylor well knows. One in particular was Native Dancer, the sire of Natalma, Northern Dancer's mother.

Native Dancer won 20 out of 21 races for Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. But he lost the one his boss wanted most, the Derby, when jockey Eric Guerin moved too late to catch a nag named Dark Star. To this day, Vanderbilt has never been a close friend of jockeys in general and Mr. Guerin in particular.

There is a chance that E.P. may soon share Vanderbilt's opinion.

Northern Dancer has had the services in all his recent winning races of Willie Shoemaker, the peerless pilot. Only last Saturday they collaborated to win the Florida Derby. The victory was worth $76,500 to Mr. Taylor and $7,650 to Shoemaker for one minute, 50 and four-fifths seconds labor. Beats selling pencils.

The next day Shoemaker announced that he would not ride the Dancer in the Derby. His mount would be Hill Rise, the California comet regarded by some as the animal who may take the crackers out of Northern Dancer's mouth at Louisville.

Hartack—Big Pain In the Pancreas

Mr. Taylor was asked if he was concerned over Shoemaker's decision.

For a second his lips tightened. Then . . .

"Surprised would be more appropriate," he said. "I talked to Shoemaker after the race. He said he never had so easy a ride for so much money."

He chewed on Shoe's cashew for a few seconds. "No problem about a rider," he said. "Half a dozen of the best boys in the country would like to get on this horse. The one we settled on is quite acceptable."

The "one" is William "Don't-call-me-Willie" Hartack. Four times the nation's leading rider leaves only respect for his talent. But meeting him at Woodbine in Toronto in 1962 confirmed the conviction of many other authors that Hartack was the free world's biggest pain in the pancreas.

"You were a little severe on him in your column," E.P. said.

"He was fighting the world then," I said. "He thought everybody was wrong and Hartack was right."

"Times change," said E.P. "So do people. We think he has . . ."

You Could Have Had Him for $25,000

Shoemaker may have decided to take his services elsewhere when he studied the Derby chart. No Canadian-bred has sniffed the roses since Sir Barton knocked those Yankees into their mint juleps by winning in 1919.

But E.P.'s horses have a habit of winning. Be it beer, boards or bangtails the man doesn't take up with losers.

Victoria Park, a pigeon-toed yearling nobody wanted for the $14,000 price tag Taylor hung on him, finished third in the 1960 Derby. He was retired after earning pots worth $152,384.

How would he compare Victoria Park to Northern Dancer?

No hesitation. "The Dancer is better. Runs on any kind of going. Victoria Park never liked an off track. He caught one in the Derby or he might have been closer."

Northern Dancer, the four-legged money machine with career earnings of $261,000, never out of the dough . . . was he available at the annual Taylor yearling sale?

"Oh, yes," said E.P. "All the yearligs are tagged. I hold none back."

The appraisal on the Dancer?

"$25,000," E.P. said. "No takers."

Milwaukee Deals Reserve Catcher

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Braves traded reserve catcher Bob Uecker to St. Louis Cardinals Thursday for catcher Jim Coker, who played baseball last year with Toronto in the International League, and outfielder Gary Kolb.

Coker, 28, and Kolb, 24, were assigned to Denver.

GUESS WHAT HAPPENED?

Even if Arnold Palmer wasn't dancing jig, expressions of spectators would tell story of action of 15th green during Friday's second round of Masters golf tournament at Augusta, Ga. Arnie has just dropped long birdie putt and faces of fans display both awe and appreciation. Palmer birdied four of last five holes to take four-stroke lead. (AP Wirephoto).

Air Force Joins His Army And Arnie's Flying High

By JIM BECKER

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Now Arnie's army has an air force.

It buzzed the Augusta national golf course while Arnold Palmer had a commanding four-stroke lead after 36 holes of the Masters tournament.

Only a highly unlikely tail spin in the last two rounds can keep Palmer from an unprecedented fourth Masters victory.

Palmer, 34, mounted one of his fabled charges on the back nine of the 6,980-yard course. The golf millionaire ripped off four birdies on the last six holes and finished with a four-under-par 68.

Added to his opening-round 69, it gave him a halfway total of 137, four strokes ahead of Gary Player of South Africa.

Player, even with Palmer in the five-man traffic jam for the lead after the first round, had par 72 for 141.

Gene Littler, former U.S. Open champion, and Don January were tied for third at 142.

Tony Lema, who also had a 68 Friday, stood at 143, six shots behind Palmer, along with British Open champion Bob Charles, Dave Marr and Dow Finsterwald.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus finished with a 73 for 144, seven strokes back.

Eleven other players also had 144, including three-time winner Jimmy Demaret and amateur Billy Joe Patton.

The field was cut to the low 44 players and ties. It took 148 to make it.

Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., was the only Canadian to survive the cut. His opening-round 71 and a 77 Friday left him just inside the cutoff point at 148.

Canadians who didn't make it were Al Balding of Toronto, 75-75—150, Nick Weslock of the same city, 73-78—151, and Vancouver's Stan Leonard, 77-76—153.

Palmer had the customary aid of the surging army of fans on the ground Friday. He also got air support.

A two - engine plane circled the course trailing a streamer with big red letters reading: "Go, Arnie, go."

And Then There Was Downing Gray

"You have to admit one thing," said Downing Gray, "I did not step on one single rattlesnake."

Nor, it must be confessed, was he struck by lightning. And no runaway freight trains ran him down on the putting green.

But those are almost the only disasters that did not befall Gray, 25, an amateur golfer from Pensacola, Fla., who posted the worst opening-round score of the Masters golf tournament Thursday, a 15-over-par 87.

Gray's opening round was unusual for one other feature. He had one of the three eagles scored, a two-under-par three at the 15th hole.

Gray was coupled with defending champion Jack Nicklaus, who shot a one-under-par 71, just two strokes off the first-round lead.

Gray said "After I hit two balls into the water at the 12th, he (Nicklaus) said to me: 'You know, this must be the funniest golf round I've ever seen.'

"By that time I was starting to agree with him."

Gray said on the second hole "I hooked my tee shot down the hill into the trees. It stuck up about two feet off the ground in the fork of a tree and I took the penalty for an unplayable lie."

On the ninth hole "I went down the hill under the TV tower. I got the ball on the green and three - putted for a six."

Gray bumbled to a four-over par seven on the 12th.

"No. 13 was worse. My third shot landed in the rough grass. I chipped it out, and it rolled right back in. I took a practice swing. Then I realized I was still in the hazard. It's a two-stroke penalty to take a practice swing here.

"Actually I made a pretty good putt for an eight.

"On 18, I hit the ball under the TV tower again."

The heights Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus attain in golf will depend how long they can hold their enthusiasm for the game, Bob Jones said today.

"Sooner or later, in the life of all of us, it gets to be more drudgery and less fun," the immortal grand slammer added. "You get to a point that you say: 'Why should I knock myself out to win any more tournaments.' Then the zest is gone."

Jones, now 62 and crippled by a paralytic ailment, no longer is able to follow—even in a golf car—play in the Masters tournament, which he helped originate in 1934.

He sits in his little white cottage overlooking the 10th tee of the Augusta national course and watches the parade of players as they move down the fairway into the incoming nine.

Jones retired in 1930 at 28, winner of 13 major championships in the United States and Britain, after completing the only grand slam in history.

Howe Casts a Shadow On Oddsmakers' Choice

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs are favored to take their final series with Detroit Red Wings for the Stanley Cup but the odds would appear to be against the Leafs duplicating one feat they accomplished during the regular National Hockey League season.

That's blanking Gordie Howe, the great Detroit right winger.

Big Gordie served adequate notice during the Wings' semi-final series against Chicago Black Hawks that he is even better than usual when the chips are down. He picked up 11 points as the Wings won in seven games in one half of the two cliffhangers that brought the "underdogs" into the final for hockey's biggest trophy.

That made him the greatest point-getter in NHL playoff history—132 points to 126 for former Montreal Canadiens star Maurice Richard. Howe's six assists for the Wings, fourth-place finishers at season's end, put him on top in lifetime standings in that department with 79.

Tonight's game will be telecast in its entirety over channels 2 and 6, starting at 5 o'clock.

But the oddsmakers favor the Leafs, in third place after regular play, in the best-of-seven final that opens in Maple Leaf Gardens tonight.

For they not only held Howe scoreless during the season. They had a solid edge against the Wings both at home and away—a 4-2-1 margin on Olympia ice and a 4-1-2 margin at home.

Both In Relatively Good Health

The Wings and the Leafs, who took the other half of the semi-final by knocking out Montreal, first-place finishers during the season, both emerged in relatively good health. But the gruelling semi-finals left some marks.

After Thursday night's game in Chicago against the season runner-ups, it looked as though Detroit might lose the services of netminder Terry Sawchuk, who sat out the third period, and left winger Larry Jeffrey. But reports from the Wings hotel here were that both would be ready to go tonight.

Sawchuk left the game after being flattened by Reg Fleming's charge. Jeffrey also left in the third period, victim of a thumping check by Wayne Hillman, after suffering a mild concussion.

Both said they had headache reminders of the clashes but were ready. The Wings sent Roger Crozier, who filled in for Sawchuk in the third period, back to Pittsburgh Hornets of the American League. However, he'll be standing by tonight just in case.

"We have a few injuries," coach Sid Abel said, "but nothing to keep them out. I felt all along that the Hawks had the roughest team in the league. We had a rough series."

Bitter Verdict For Bulldogs

The Allan Cup champion Windsor Bulldogs have resigned themselves to a sudden and unexpected ending of their current season in the International Hockey League.

Bulldogs were scheduled to take on the Fort Wayne Komets tonight in the seventh game of their best-of-seven semifinal series. Windsor had tied the series 3-3 Wednesday with a 5-3 victory.

But IHL commissioner Andy Mulligan of Toledo announced Friday that he was forfeiting the game to Fort Wayne because Windsor used an ineligible player, Norm Ryder.

Thus, Fort Wayne wins the series, 4-2.

Windsor general manager Jim Kimmerly was bitter about Mulligan's decision. He said he wired Mulligan Wednesday afternoon asking for permission to use Ryder. He said he did not receive Mulligan's negative answer until the game was under way.

Further protest, says Kimmerly, would be "futile."

SELKE PROUD OF HABS . . . . . . FEW CHANGES PLANNED

Fewer Stars But More Honor

MONTREAL (CP)—Frank Selke Sr., managing director of the Montreal Canadiens, said Friday the club's rookie-laden lineup "brought more honor to us than some of our teams that won the Stanley Cup in the past.

"We didn't have as many great stars as in other years but they showed what team effort and great spirit can do," he said following the Canadiens' elimination from the Stanley Cup playoffs by the Toronto Maple Leafs.

"We are certainly very proud of this team," said the diminutive hockey executive, who has built eight National Hockey League champions and six cup winners in 18 seasons with Montreal.

"We won't talk about changes or anything else until just before the June meetings. But I feel that not too many changes are needed to make the Canadiens Stanley Cup contenders next season."

Selke said he felt the club's two-year rebuilding program, which resulted in a surprising NHL pennant this season, is well under way and pointed to the defensive corps as the focal point of this success.

"Jacques Laperriere will be great. Terry Harper is already a fine defenceman and I feel that J. C. Tremblay will really come into his own next season after his fine work in the playoffs."

He said the Canadiens might have won the cup if they had signed junior standouts Yvan Cournoyer and Andre Boudrias to pro contracts.

Fred and wife, Etta, who have nine grandchildren, are both enthusiastic bowlers and Etta hopes to win women's award before 28-week contest ends April 24.

'Just Bad Luck' Says Cut-Prone South American

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A 1½-inch cut made a dream come true for light heavyweight champion Willie Pastrano and ended one for Argentina's Gregorio Peralta.

It was the gash over Peralta's left eye that gained Pastrano a sixth - round technical knockout over the challenger in their 15-round title fight in Municipal Auditorium Friday.

The TKO may result in another New Orleans title scrap with Pastrano taking on Bobo Olson, the former middleweight ruler now engaged in a successful comeback campaign as a 175-pounder.

"I've always dreamed of winning a championship fight in New Orleans (his home town) and now I've done it," said Pastrano. "Now I'd like to fight here again, maybe against Bobo Olson or Harold Johnson, or whoever Angelo says."

"My dream is lost," moaned Peralta who had hoped to become the first South American to win the world's light heavyweight championship.

"I could have continued. I was getting stronger. The cut wasn't bothering me too much. It's just bad luck."

Charley Johnston, his American manager, was bitter.

"I've never seen a fight stopped like this for a cut like this," he said.

The gash was inflicted in the fourth round from what appeared to be a solid right. Pastrano said it was a counter punch, Peralta and Johnson claimed it was from a butt.

But, unfortunately for Peralta, he is cut prone and, because of his body-banging attack, wide open for punches to the head.

He suffered a seven - stitch cut over the same eye in his Jan. 24 victory over Californian Wayne Thornton. And he was cut in his upset victory over Pastrano in their non - title bout Sept. 20.

Pastrano, leading going into the fourth round of the spirited scrap, ripped open the gash early in the fourth and kept peppering it in the rest of the round and in the fifth.

ENDS THE FIGHT

Dr. A. J. Italiano, the ring physician, inspected the cut after the fourth and fifth rounds. After the fifth he told referee Pete Giarrusso to end it. Under Louisiana commission rules it was a sixth - round TKO.

Giarusso had it even in rounds, 2-2-1. The two judges had Pastrano ahead. Francis Kercheval had it 4-1 and Herman Detreix had it 3-1-1. The Associated Press gave Peralta the last three rounds and had him ahead, 3-2.

The defeat was Peralta's first in nearly four years and ended his unbeaten streak at 29. His record is 39-4-4. Pastrano, making the first defence of the title he won from Johnson last June 1, has a 62-12-8 record.

Promoter Bonnie Geigerman said a crowd of 4,200 contributed to a gross gate of $35,048. The television rights added $60,000 to the pot. Pastrano collected about $59,000—his largest purse ever. Peralta got $15,000.

STARS HAVE TROUBLE

Only Two Weeks Left to Earn Bowlerama Spots

Pin-spillers are heading for the wire in the Times Bowler-of-the-Week competition and there is still a bevy of stars without a berth in the Times Bowlerama that will name four "bowlers of the year."

Two more weeks remained in the 28-week contest when bowlers finished scattering pins Friday night. That means that only eight more berths in the Bowlerama are still up for grabs, two in each division —men's and women's tenpins, men's and women's fivepins.

All the 28 winners in each division will be eligible to compete for Bowler-of-the-Year titles in the Bowelarama, scheduled for Sunday, May 10. To each of the four Bowlerama champions will go a trophy and, if he or she is a Times subscriber, a cheque for $100.

Scores for weekly awards must be made in regular league play, which suggests that bowling aces who have not yet hit the weekly jackpot will be bearing down with every shot in league chores during the next two weeks.

TENPIN TROUBLES

But there is still a good chance that some of the spots will be collected by low-average bowlers who occasionally bounce up with strings of strikes. Week after week during the competiltion, average Joes and Jills have been pushing the big guns away from trophy territory.

Perhaps troubles for stars have been most noticeable in the men's tenpin division.

Among the trundling terrors who are still chasing a Bowler-of-the-Week award are this year's zone champion, Wilbur Webb, and runner-up Richie Loo, who were both expected to be among the early winners.

Wilbur and Richie have lots of company. Included in others who haven't managed to come up with a big series in the right week are kegling aces like Jim Mills, Chuck Bennett, Roy Begg, Gil Wong, Ken Munn, Jack Hobby, Len Parsons, Tom Nute, Roy Kerr and Cec Dixon.

That's quite an imposing list and with only two more men's tenpin berths available, most of those tenpin aces are going to be watching from the sidelines when the Bowler-of-the-Year trophies go on the line.

SOFTBALL WORKOUT

Dunsmuir men's softball team will work out Sunday at Central Park, starting at 2 p.m. Players interested in trying out for berths are invited to turn out.

Yanks 1-to-3, Dodgers 6-5 To Make It to Series Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Both the odds-makers and the experts forecast a second successive world series between Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees as the 20 major league clubs neared the starting gate for the opening of the 1964 season.

The Yankee managerial switch from Ralph Houk to Yogi Berra has made no difference to Las Vegas handicappers, who have installed the Yankees as 1-to-3 favorites. The Dodgers are 6 to 5.

The feeling is the Dodgers have too much pitching and speed for the rest of the National League while the Yankees have too much of everything for their American League rivals. If the Yankees win, it will mark their fifth straight flag, under three different managers.

Oddly enough, the only new managers are in the American League. Hank Bauer will make his debut as manager of Baltimore Orioles and George Strickland will fill in at Cleveland for Birdie Tebbetts, in hospital with a heart attack.

Of the trades made since the close of the 1963 season, the most interesting to watch may be the one in which San Francisco Giants swapped outfielder Felipe Alou, catcher Ed Bailey and relief pitcher Billy Hoeft to Milwaukee Braves for pitchers Bob Shaw and Bob Hendley and catcher Del Crandall.

MADE TWO BIG DEALS

Detroit Tigers, generally regarded as the most improved club in the American League, made two major deals in which they acquired outfielder Don Demeter from Philadelphia Phillies for pitcher Jim Bunning, and second baseman Jerry Lumpe, along with pitches Ed Rakow and Dave Wickersham, from Kansas City Athletics for outfielder Rocky Colavito.

As customary, Washington and Cincinnati Reds will get the jump on their rivals, staging their home openers Monday, a day in advance of the others.

ORDERS FROM CRONIN

'Pennant Porch' Must Come Down

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Joe Cronin, president of the American League, has ordered Kansas City Athletics to remove the new "pennant porch" fence in right field at Kansas City, it was learned today.

Cronin said the fence must come down or no American League games will be played in Municipal Stadium, it was reported.

Charles O. Finley, the Athletics owner, had the fence built this week to make the field conform to measurements of Yankee Stadium in New York.

Finley has contended the short right field fence in New York enabled the Yankees to dominate the league for years with their pull hitters.

The fence will be used today and Sunday in a pair of exhibition games between the Athletics' first league game at home is April 21 against Cleveland Indians.

Finley stuck the "pennant porch" label on the V-shaped fence he had built in right field. At the point of the V the fence is 296 feet from home plate, the same distance as the foul pole in Yankee Stadium. Its 44 inches in height also matches the fence in New York.

"We can't get the Yankees to conform to honest distances," Finley said, "so we'll conform to Yankee distances."

CARDINAL TKO'd IN ARMY FINALS

Ex-Victorian Top Scrapper

CAMP GAGETOWN, N.B. (CP)—A boxing team from the 1st Battalion of the Black Watch won honors for Eastern Command Friday night as the week-long army boxing championships ended on a strange note.

Eastern edged Central Command by one point, 39-38, when the final bout, an open heavyweight match between Central and Quebec commands ended in a "no contest."

There were no points awarded to either command when the referee stopped a fight between L.Cpl. Michael Woodward, 28, of Ansac, Alta., and L. Cpl. Jean-Paul Raymond, 30, of Gatineau Mills, Que.

They apparently tired themselves out in the first round and were not providing any action in the second when it was stopped.

The final standings showed Western Command in third spot with 27 points and Quebec fourth with 22 points.

Cpl. Harvey Reti, 26, formerly of Victoria, was named best open boxer of the tournament.

Reti won a unanimous decision over Pte. Raymond Martin, 20, of Saskville, N.B., fighting for Central Command, to take the open light welterweight crown.

Pte. Marcel Greyeyes, 22, of Marcelin, Sask. dropped Craftsman Thomas Steel, 21, of Victoria B.C. to the mat at 1:26 of the second round to pick up the win for Western Command and the class medal.

L. Cpl. Ed McKillop, 28, of Fredericton, pounded out a third round technical knockout over L. Cpl. Larry Cardinal, 28, another former Victorian, to win the open middleweight title.

Mrs. J. Flynn Captures Title

MRS. J. FLYNN
. . . repeat winner

By his own admission, the years and an attack of "shankitis" caught up to Paul Glaser on the Victoria Golf Club course Friday.

Glaser, 84 and a sentimental favorite, bowed out of the running for the Empress men's championship when he lost a 4 and 3 decision to Portland's Jim Snyder.

Glaser, Seattle veteran who knocked off two former champions earlier in the week, admitted that he "was tiring." A number of shanked shots also hurt his chances in Friday's semi-final.

FINAL TODAY

Snyder and Calgary's T. K. Summerell marched off this morning in the 18-hole windup bout. Summerell won his way into the final by defeating fellow-Calgarian F. H. Peacock, 5 and 4.

For the second time in three years, the women's championship rests with Mrs. John Flynn of Portland. Mrs. Flynn, matching men's par of 35 on the back nine, defeated Mrs. Dave Nurse of Seattle, two up, in a brilliantly-played final at Uplands.

Other women's finals:

First Flight—Mrs. W. M. Chisholm, Calgary, def Mrs. Helen Johnson, Calgary, 2 and 1.

Second Flight—Mrs. K. Spalding, Pasadena, Calif., def Mrs. C. W. Coffen, Portland, 4 and 3.

Third Flight—Mrs. Sarah Leahigh, Portland, def Mrs. H. E. Vaio, Victoria, at 19th hole.

Fourth Flight—Mrs. C. F. Ricketts, Victoria, def Mrs. J. Cornford, Calgary, 1 up.

Short-Staffed Bays Beaten By Vic High

Victoria High Titans captured first place in the Inter-High Senior Rugby League on Friday with an 8-5 victory over Oak Bay.

Playing on the Vic grounds, Titans collected two tries from Ian Lendrum and John Clemens. Brian White converted one.

Oak Bay's points came on Jim Crawford's try, converted by Harold Sutton.

Unfortunately, Oak Bay was handicapped by the absence of eight regulars.

Victory clinched a berth for Titans in the city championship next Friday.

Everton's Title Bid Wrecked by Wolves

LONDON (AP) — Centre - forward Ray Crawford scored two goals today and helped Wolverhampton Wanderers to a 3-3 tie against Everton—a result that made the English League soccer championship almost certain for Liverpool.

Everton was the team that had to grab every available point to challenge Liverpool.

Liverpool, without a match today, now leads the standings with 52 points from 37 matches. Everton has 50 points from 40 matches and Manchester United 49 points from 39. Chelsea is fourth with 48 points from 41 games.

The English League program calls for 42 matches. The winner of the English championship will go into the European Cup of national champions.

Bolton Wanderers, struggling to keep in the First Division, defeated Chelsea 1-0. A first-half goal from Brian Bromley did the trick for Bolton.

SURE OF PROMOTION

Leeds United played to a 3-0 victory at Swansea and made sure of promotion to the First Division next season. Sunderland played to a scoreless draw at Southampton and seem almost certain to join Leeds in the First Division next season.

Leeds has 60 points from 40 matches and Sunderland 58 from 40. Preston North End, who meet West Ham United in the English Cup final May 2, is third with 54 points from 40 games.

Sunderland is certain to be promoted unless they lose the remaining matches by a wide margin.

Seals Hang On To Tie Series

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A last- ditch rally by Los Angeles Blades fell short Friday night as San Francisco Seals held on for a 5-4 Western Hockey League playoff victory.

The San Francisco win before a crowd of 11,787—largest of the season here—evened the best-of-seven final at one game apiece.

The teams resume action Sunday night in San Francisco.

San Francisco scorers were Ed Panagabko, with two, Al Nicholson, Ray Cyr and Nick Mickoski. Los Angeles marksmen were Norm Johnson, Gord Vejprava, Willie O'Ree and Leo Labine.

Trailing 6-2 with less than four minutes to play, the Blades scored twice in less than two minutes to pull within one goal of the Seals.

Blades pulled goalie Jack Norris with 30 seconds to play, adding an extra forward, but the Seals beat back the attack.

Goalie Bob Perreault was brilliant for the Seals, kicking out 44 shots.

Penticton Leads First United Club

PENTICTON—Victoria First United is down but not out in the B.C. juvenile girls' basketball final.

Penticton, sparked by Judy Douglas' 21-point explosion, defeated Victoria 54-38 Friday night in the first of a two-game, total-point series for the B.C. crown.

Second game was to be played this afternoon.

First United played on even terms with Penticton in the last half after falling behind 36-18 at the half.

Jean Renfrew, Rita Roodbol, Linda Edge and Gail Streeton each scored seven points for First United.

Why hasn't the average Investor been able to invest in first mortgages?

Because no one had ever made it simple enough. Very few private investors have the amount of ready cash and experience required for buying "blue chip, gilt edged" first mortgages. That's why for hundreds of years, mortgage financing, the oldest and safest form of investment known has been monopolized by Banks, Trust and Insurance Companies and other large Financial Institutions. They invest a major portion of their funds in this market.

Now Earn 7½% SAFELY
Fully Secured and Guaranteed*

Through an investment plan originated by Trans-Canada Joint Mortgages, investors with as little as $500 can also profit from this lucrative market. They become joint owners of valuable first mortgages professionally selected and administered free of cost and thus obtain a worry-free 7½% on their investment. Their names are registered at the Government Land Registry Office as joint owners of a first mortgage.

A Trans-Canada mortgage investment can be withdrawn or may be used as collateral security. Let your savings build at 7½%. For growth, capital invested at 7½%, left to compound doubles in 9½ years—triples in 15. For income 7½% interest per year is paid quarterly. *Mortgage payments also guaranteed by entire net assets of the company.

Royalty Entertained At Tulip Showcase

When Europe's royalty gathered in the Netherlands two years ago to help Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary, there was never any question of how to entertain them.

Great Britain's Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, the King of Belgium and his Queen, the Shah of Iran and his wife, the King of Norway, Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxembourg, along with two dozen other rulers and princes and princesses, were placed aboard two ordinary blue-and-yellow Amsterdam sightseeing buses, whisked 15 miles out of town to the outskirts of the village of Lisse, and deposited at the gates of Keukenhof Gardens.

QUEEN ELIZABETH
. . . Keukenhof visitor

Keukenhof Gardens is the showcase for Holland's tulips and one of the most popular springtime tourist attractions in Europe.

More than 1,500 varieties of tulips, valued at more than $1,000,000 at retail prices, are on display at Keukenhof. There are also many beds of crocuses, daffodils and hyacinths.

The grounds were once part of the estate of lonely Countess Jacoba van Beyeren, who ruled a violent Holland after the death of her father, William the Sixth, in 1418. Centuries later, Nazi V-bombs were launched against England from sites amid its parklike acres.

Baby-sitting doesn't get in way of Macao girl's reading

TO REALLY ENJOY MACAO

Take Misconceptions When You Go

By DAVE STOCKAND

MACAO (CP)—If you tuck a misconception or two into your overnight bag, there is a tingle of excitement in catching the midnight boat from Hong Kong to Macao.

Intrigue is in the air at the dockside, its currents tugging at the collar of your imaginary trenchcoat, as passengers begin piling aboard the good ship Fat Shan.

The Fat Shan—the name fits as snugly as a shoulder holster. Surely she wouldn't dare venture out of port without Peter Lorre at the helm, Sidney Greenstreet squatting below as ballast.

For timid travellers who seek adventure in the fine print, the Yu On Shipping Company does its bit with a back-of-ticket notice:

"Passengers are requested not to carry in their persons or luggage any contraband arms and ammunition, prohibited goods, etc., without government licence or permits."

Fortunately for all concerned, imagination running to penny-dreadful extremes doesn't get much rein in a 40-mile trip taking just three hours.

In the daylight, with the Fat Shan tied up at journey's end, and the Portuguese province of Macao only a gangplank away, visions of cloak-and-dagger conspiracy deflate like a war surplus liferaft on a China coaster.

That grey-haired little old lady, the one who looks like she was waiting around for a Hitchcock audition, turns out to be an instructor in musical therapy at a Michigan State home for delinquent boys.

So—pitch out the intrigue or at least leave it to the professionals. There is still much left that is intriguing.

Macao is an eight-square-mile chip off southern Europe grafted onto the Asian continent; a sunlit pastel peninsula—plus two specks of island—which provides a spot of sleepy-eyed siesta charm in the anthill frenzy of the Orient.

An amble around at any hour is a rewarding experience.

By day you can admire the Mediterranean architecture, sample an amazing assortment of Portuguese wines for next to nothing, pick up Oriental objects of art if your bankroll allows, or browse through churches and temples—the latter with their smiling Buddhas, scowling Buddhas and even Marco Polo Buddhas.

By night, there are the gambling casinos which, along with an annual grand prix and a new track for greyhounds, allow Macao to call itself the Monte Carlo of the Far East.

PEEK AT CHINA

But the greatest tourist attraction of all comes free of charge—a peek at a piece of real estate as inaccessible to most as a summer cottage on the moon. It is the land mass of Communist China.

Here the westerner can get closer to China than anywhere else.

The tourists cluster a few hundred yards back from the arched Portos do Cerco, where China starts, and look along a roadway lined with banyan trees into a forbidden land.

Photographs aren't permitted and really there is nothing to see. Only a crumbling of hills and a Chinese sentry with binoculars watching the tourists who are watching him.

Yet it has a hypnotic fascination.

People shuffle around for a few minutes, seeing nothing but reluctant to leave. When they do go, a new tour group pops up to fill the vacuum.

TRUCKS LEAVE

Meanwhile, produce trucks which have brought in foodstuffs for Macao's population clang back across the border with a minimum of delay at the border checkpoints.

The Portuguese aren't concerned about the future. They depend on China for their food and their water but they also take into account China's need for a doorway to the West, no matter how narrow.

And, after all, they've been settled cozily here since 1557.

Liquor Law Changes Sought by Tourism

CALGARY (CP)—The directors of the Canadian Tourist Association announced Friday they will ask Canada's provinces to adopt "consistent and convenient" liquor regulations.

At a meeting in Calgary, the CTA executive committee adopted a 14-point brief which was to be sent to all provincial liquor commissions, recommending continued study and modification of some provincial laws.

Text of the brief was not released. Larry Ecroyd of Toronto, CTA executive director, said it was felt provincial authorities should see it before recommendations were made public.

A policy statement issued after the meeting said the CTA board, "concerned with furthering the development of Canada's $2,000,000,000 tourist industry, believes that consistent and convenient regulations for distribution, consumption of beer, wines and spirits across Canada will have a beneficial effect on tourism."

Earlier, Pierre Delagrave of Montreal, CTA president, said growth of the tourist industry with associated growth of service industries would combat unemployment in Canada.

He said because the tourist trade involves service industries only, development of tourism would definitely reduce unemployment.

The executive meeting here was the first to be held outside of Montreal and Toronto.

You Can View Midnight Sun And Get Paper to Prove It

The chance to witness one of nature's most fascinating wonders, in an unspoiled, far-off place that takes but a few hours' travel time, and to bring back concrete evidence of this great adventure is yours when you join a Polar Night Flight out of Helsinki.

The phenomenon is the Midnight Sun, casting many hues as it continues to shine above the horizon at midnight and beyond. The place is the Arctic Circle in Finnish Lapland, and the proof of your intrepidness is an Arctic Circle Crossing Certificate, awarded to all who sacrifice 10 hours of sleep to enjoy this novel travel experience.

The Polar Night Flight programs runs June 5 to Aug. 2.

Departure from Finnair's Town Terminal in Helsinki is 9:10 p.m.

An hour later you are airborne north on a flight that veers over the Eastern Lake District, Europe's largest lake system, to give you a thrilling view of typical Finnish scenery in the sunlit night while you relax with coffee and pastries.

In another hour and 10 minutes you stop down briefly at Kuopio, gateway to many of the lake district's resorts.

At 1 a.m. you land in Rovaniemi, capital of Finnish Lapland and just a stone's throw below the Arctic Circle, and continue by motorcoach to the Polar Hotel for supper in its Ounasvaara Cabinet, on the top floor, where you get an unobstructed view of the Midnight Sun, and the menu includes Arctic delicacies: smoked reindeer and mesimarja liqueur, made from rare Arctic berries.

RIGHT ON CIRCLE

Next, you proceed to the Arctic Circle Cottage, literally on the Circle.

The tiny cottage, built for a postwar visit by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, is now a post office and, for its size, probably the world's busiest one, because tourists delight in having their letters postmarked "Polar Circle."

This is where you get your Arctic Circle Crossing Certificate.

At 3:35 a.m. you head back for the Rovaniemi airport and, after another stop at Kuopio and morning coffee in the air, arrive in Helsinki at 7:05 a.m.

BEAUTIES gaze at beauties in Valley of the Sun playground region of Phoenix, Arizona.

AVOID THE HERDS

Beat Rush to Tiznit

Tangier, Casablanca and Marrakech, names which in this blase world still ring with the promise of adventure and excitement, are probably the only three cities of Morocco that Canadians would find any ease in identifying with the country.

Yet so quickly is tourism developing in Morocco that it may be but a few years before places like Taroudant, Tafraout and Tiznit in the southern part of the country become as well-known to the knowledgable traveller as Nassau, Montego Bay and Acupulco are today.

Plan It Now

If you are among those who would like to beat the rush, however—and already German and American hotel companies are showing interest in this magnificent region south of the 13,000-foot, snow-capped Grand or High Atlas Mountains—you probably should think about planning your visit within the next year or so.

In this connection, some information recently issued on the Taroudant-Tafraout-Tiznit area by British European Airways, whose planes fly the 1,120 miles from London to Tangier via Gibraltar in 5½ hours, may be of interest.

The easiest of the three places to get to is Taroudant. This is an old, walled town which lies in the valley of the Sous about 500 miles south-southwest of Tangier. You can make the trip by car in a day if you have no difficulty in driving 500 miles a day on Canadian or U.S. highways.

Lots of Water

Taroudant has two good hotels—one is very expensive—some smaller ones, a handsome minaret, a market on Sunday and owing to its plentiful water, wonderful flowers: roses, geraniums, hibiscus, tropical and English flowers, flowering at the same time. Lying by a swimming pool in this outdoor conservatory, you can see the snow-covered High Atlas to the north and the smaller pink Anti Atlas to the south.

On a map you will find a road from Taroudant to Tafraout. This is no road by Canadian standards, however, and unless you have a Land Rover, do not take it. Go back, almost to Agadir and go south to Tiznit (an excellent road) and then take the road running eastwards into the Anti Atlas.

The mountains are pink, powdered with white and green.

Southern Morocco's Dra Valley

Here and there are cubist villages, made of the local rock and mud, hanging precariously on to the hillsides. As you get to the pass—about 3,500 feet—you look back over the rolling mountains to Agadir and the sea.

Tafraout is not much lower than the pass—over 3,000 feet. It is in a fertile valley where barley and fruit trees grow under date palms, with almonds and olives. The valley is enclosed by pink hills of strange rock-formation.

The green valley, the pink hills and the blue sky are of fantastic beauty. It is a good place for walking (local excursions can be made in a tough car or on a mule) and is a prosperous place.

'Lawrence' Shot

Some distance east of Taroudant, if you are still in a venturesome mood, in the vicinity of Ouarzazate in the foothills of the Grand Atlas, you can visit the spot where parts of the motion picture "Lawrence of Arabia" were shot. This is country of great contrast—Biblical-looking desert, the green valley of the Dades, and the snow-covered peaks of the Grand Atlas to the north.

You don't have to stop at this, however. In such intriguing country you'll find it hard to resist going on to Tinherir where the view from the 4,700-foot-high government hotel is spectacular. To the north are the pink-brown mountains and behind them the nearly 10,000-foot white peaks.

Generally speaking, the accommodation is reasonably good in the still largely unexplored southern section of Morocco. Many of the small hotels in the region were built by the French since the last war, and since then a number have been improved and enlarged.

For travelling, though, you pretty well have to go by car. The railroads do not extend below Marrakech and Fez. You can always go by bus, of course—that is, if you don't mind having a live goat or hen as a seat companion.

Otherwise your best bet is to stay with the bigger cities until this newly discovered and completely unspoiled part of Morocco is developed to cater to the majority of us who like creature comforts with our travels.

Hawaiians Revive Old Festivities

Hawaii will stage a new Makahiki "welcome to winter" celebration in the Islands next fall.

The Makahiki, or harvest, festival will feature feasting, dancing and ancient pageantry in Honolulu, Nawiliwili, Lahaina and Hilo.

The age-old traditions of thanksgiving for the harvests of land and sea, and celebration of the annual return of the whales to Lahaina Roadstead off Maui, have been revived by island residents as a colorful prelude to Hawaii's balmy winter season.

The Hawaiian word "Makahiki" has its origin in an ancient festival which began in mid-October and lasted about four months, with sports and religious festivities and taboo on war.

Arrival of the Matson liner Lurline with her 760 passengers will be part of the celebration in each port. Lurline passengers will be special guests.

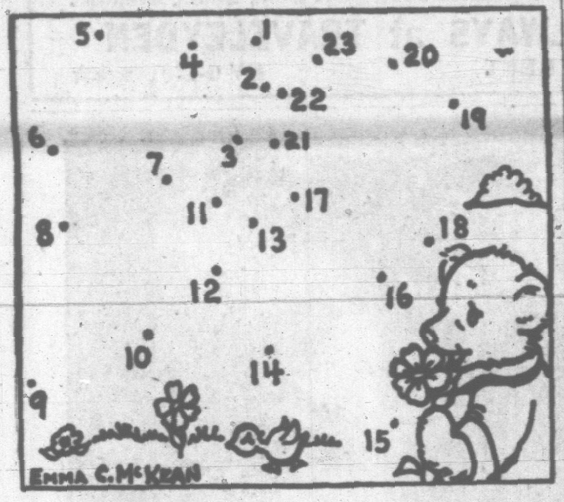
Draw a Picture, Then Look Up Subject

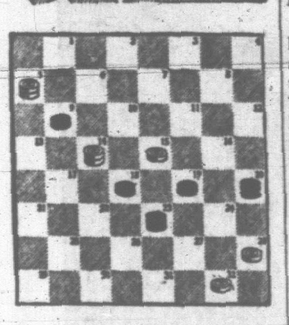


EMMA C. McKEAN

One day, as Beanie Bear ppicked some garden flowers, he saw something intereting fly through the air. He noticed that it never seemed to fly in a straight line. What was it that Beanie Bear saw?

To find out, simply draw a line from dot 1 to dot 2 to dot 3, and so on, until you have touched at all 23 numbered dots. When the missing figure's outline is completed, use colored pencils or crayons to add colors. Before applying hues, however, you may wish to consult a reference book for authentic coloring information. Once you've decided n which colors to use, apply them neatly.

IT'S YOUR MOVE



IT'S YOUR TURN TO WIN

Today's checker test: White checkers to move and win in three moves—that's right, just three moves. Can you meet the challenge?

As you see, both sides start out even-Stephen. That is to say, with forces of equal strength. But White has a power play up his sleeve that leaves Black with his back to the wall. Long-time champ Millard Hopper gives his solution below, if you need it.

After you've mastered the winning strategy, coax someone into a test on your checkerboard.

Solution: White 22-27, Black 23-32, White 14-23-16, Black 30-11-18, White 1-14-23.

SAME AS 2 AND 2, BUT DIFFERENT

A puzzlist has two numbers in mind. One is between seven and thirteen. Tthe other is composed of units and tenths and is between one and three. Added or multiplied, these numbers produce the same answer. What two numbers are they?

Answer: The numbers in mind are 11 and 1.1

IT'S IN THREE SHARES

Uncle Paul, visiting his three nephews in the East, distributed a certain number of silver dollars. To Peter he gave half the dollars plus one; George got half the remainder plus one; Henry received half the remainder plus one. How many silver dollars were there?

Answer: Fourteen silver dollars.

STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

The Post Office was ready on April 1 for the change in the second-class mail rate, having available new envelopes and a coil in the 3c denomination.

Some collectors expected that the color would have been changed to green, for this is generally accepted the world over as the color for a stamp which is intended for use on circulars, etc. But the envelopes and coil are still printed in the dull purple shade in which this value first appeared in ordinary sheet form.

Plate blocks of the $1 Totem stamp with the "G" overprint are all sold out at Ottawa, and by this time, possibly, the single stamps as well.

When the overprinted issues were dropped from use at the end of the year, all the government offices across the country were instructed to send back to Ottawa all remainders on hand.

Returns have been coming in ever since, in fact one federal department here only shipped in their parcel the other day.

The writer does not know what disposition is made of these stamps. They may be destroyed, or, possibly, handed over to the Philatelic Section to bolster up their stock.

* * *

The last monthly notices of the Greater Victoria Philatelic Society were purposely mailed on April 1—the "day of issue" of the new 3c envelopes, This was an unexpected bonus for the members for which Lester Small, the editor, was responsible.

The Bulletin, by the way, reminds us that on the 23rd, 24th and 25th, the Tri-Club Exhibition will be held at the Douglas Room of the Hudsons Bay Co.

This annual event is sponsored by the two philatelic societies, and the Victoria Numismatic Society.

All stamp and coin collectors should be sure to attend the show, for many fine and rare items will be displayed.

The general public is invited as well, of course.

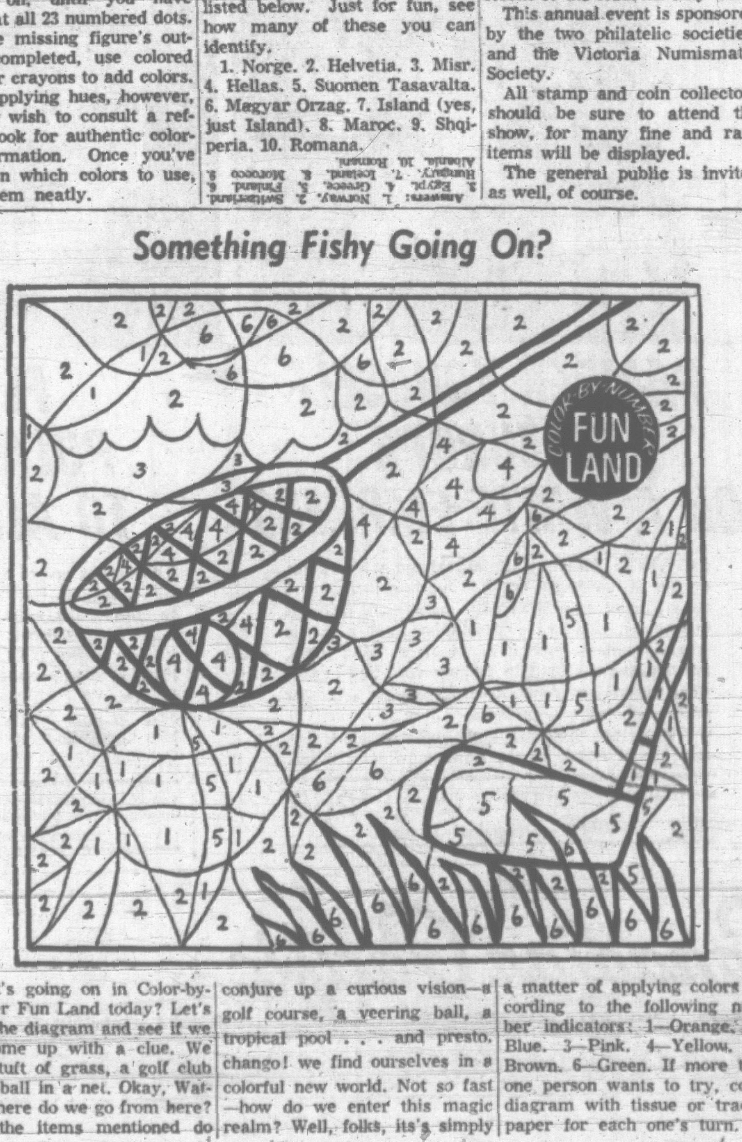
Something Fishy Going On?



What's going on in Color-by-Number Fun Land today? Let's study the diagram and see if we can come up with a clue. We see a tuft of grass, a golf club and a ball in a net. Okay, Watson, where do we go from here? Well, the items mentioned do conjure up a curious vision—a golf course, a veering ball, a tropical pool . . . and presto, chango! we find ourselves in a colorful new world. Not so fast—how do we enter this magic realm? Well, folks, its's simply a matter of applying colors according to the following number indicators: 1—Orange. 2—Blue. 3—Pink. 4—Yellow. 5—Brown. 6—Green. If more than one person wants to try, cover diagram with tissue or tracing paper for each one's turn.

DEBACLE BEGAN IN 1953

Soviet Farming Tottering Under Farm-Boy K's Lash

By RICHARD F. NEWCOMB
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In one of the great ironies of our time, Khrushchev the farm boy may go down in history as the man who ruined Soviet farming.

It wasn't only the great fiasco of the Virgin Lands. It was that in insisting on the Virgin Lands scheme, Khrushchev severely distorted farm production throughout the rest of the Soviet Union. Now his ignominy has been completed with the forced admission that Communist farmers must turn to capitalism. Not only to feed the Communists this year and more years to come, but capitalist methods must be copied if the Communist world is ever to feed itself.

The debacle began in 1953. Against the advice of experts, Khrushchev ordered a vast area of Siberia and Kazakhstan — nearly 100 million acres — turned to the plow. Khrushchev saw waving grain stretching over hundreds of miles of steppes, providing enough to feed the Soviet millions and make the U.S.S.R. a powerful world trader.

By 1956, production had soared to 23.8 million tons of grain. Then it began to fall. By 1958 it was down to 15 million tons, by 1962 it was only eight million. Then came a terrible winter and the great drought of 1963. Last month, Agriculture Minister Ivan Volochenko admitted what the world had long suspected. Huge areas of the Virgin Lands are turning into a dust bowl.

"Wind and water erosion is inflicting tremendous damage on agriculture," he told 6,000 farm leaders summoned to Moscow for the latest crisis meeting. More than 10 million acres are already affected in Siberia and Kazakhstan, and nearly 20 million acres will have to be "shallow-plowed" this year, to keep them from blowing away.

FIRED FOUR

In the last four years Khrushchev has fired four farm czars in Kazakhstan, but even that couldn't save the Virgin Lands scheme. Last month it was officially buried.

But that is only part of the story. While Khrushchev concentrated on the Virgin Lands, more than 8 million acres of land in the Ukraine was taken out of grain. This was land that produced four times as much grain per acre as the Virgin Lands ever did.

Now this area cannot even raise vegetables, or if it does they never get to market. Last fall at Volgograd (once Stalingrad), Khrushchev ridiculed local cabbages, said they were so small he could put them in his pocket. Not far away, citizens rioted. They could not buy tomatoes, eggplant or peppers in Odessa, though bumper crops were rotting in the fields outside the city.

In White Russia and the Baltic states, Khrushchev ordered the farmers to stop growing clover, alfalfa and timothy, and get busy on corn, peas, beans and sugar beets. An American expert, visiting the farmers around Leningrad, reported they had "all gone to pieces." Soviet farming was 100 years behind the United States, he said.

There was a cigarette shortage in Moscow last fall. Tobacco (imported) was lying in the ports while rail cars were transporting vegetables. But vegetables were rotting in the cars on the outskirts of Moscow, and 25,000 persons turned out on a holiday to rescue what they could.

The old custom of free bread in restaurants has been abolished, and it is now a crime to feed bread to animals. People were warned to save every possible kilogram of potatoes, vegetables and fruit.

The Soviet Union then entered a new business—exporting gold by the ton to pay for millions of tons of food. Something is wrong with the Soviet system of agriculture. Production is not growing fast enough to keep up with the population.

FIELD, FACTORY

The breakdown is complete, from the fields all the way back to the factories. The peasants shirk the state farms, because they make out better working their small private plots. Khrushchev alternately woos them and threatens them, promising a better life for more work, or punishment for less. In the last five years, production has steadily fallen.

As the grain rots in the field, the machinery to save it stands idle. It is either broken or there is no one to drive it. The factories made new machines instead of spare parts. But in Kazakhstan last fall they stopped the trains and begged the passengers to get out and help with the harvest. Recruiting parties went as far as the Crimea, a thousand miles away, looking for workers. Pravda said it was necessary to send in 100,000 machine operators. On one state farm, only 17 operators could be found for 77 combines. The rains came, and the grain rotted. Even grain already cut lay on the ground and spoiled; no trucks to move it. It was disaster, and the weather was only part of it.

NEW PANACEA

Khrushchev's latest panacea is fertilizer and pesticides. He proposed to spend $50 billion on this in the next seven years. The peasants still waste what little fertilizer they have.

The future looks grim. Plowing last fall for this spring's wheat was far behind schedule, and it was another bad winter for the young wheat in the ground.

Canada looks forward to feeding the Communist world for years to come. Mitchell Sharp, the trade minister, says the Communist bloc will be "permanent importers" of grain on a substantial scale.

Interest Costs Borne By Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government will shoulder a difference in interest costs involved in United States payment of $274,800,000 for the Columbia River project to British Columbia Oct. 1.

External Affairs Minister Martin, after giving that information to Colin Cameron (NDP—Nanaimo - Cowichan - the Islands) in a series of questions, agreed Friday to provide a report on just what this will cost. The details were not settled.

PAY FOR DAMS

But he insisted that this federal responsibility is a normal part of foreign exchange transactions.

Under the Columbia power and flood - control project, B.C. is paying expenses for three storage dams and collecting all the revenues. An agreement stipulates that the federal government will not bear any of the project cost.

The federal financial cost was questioned as the external affairs committee ended its first week of study of the project.

Mr. Cameron said he was not objecting because the Canadian government will bear part of the interest burden in accepting U.S. funds and then paying the money to B.C. But he wanted the procedure set out clearly.

Increased Profits

EDMONTON (CP) — Net profit of $1,055,475, equal to 66 cents a share, has been reported by Trans-Prairie Pipelines Ltd., for the year ended Dec. 31, 1963. The net profit in 1962 was $751,935, equal to 51 cents a common share.

Income from operations totalled $2,992,509 compared with $2,524,873 in 1962.

ATTACKED AT VANCOUVER MEETING

'Blind in Fear of CNIB'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Blind businessman Robert Birch said Thursday hundreds of blind persons live in fear of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

He was speaking at a public meeting of 600, attended mainly by blind people, to protest an amendment to the provincial blind act.

The amendment makes nonapproved appeals for funds for the blind illegal, but its critics say it could also interfere with the freedom of blind individuals by allowing a three-man board to control their economic lives.

All appeals to help the blind must be approved by the board and blind people interpret this to mean they must get the board's approval before they can sell anything, including their homes.

About 100 persons stood up when Mr. Birch asked blind people in the audience to stand if what he said about fear of the CNIB was true.

Mr. Birch, who sells artificial flowers, said the act is discriminatory and could cost him his business.

The act was passed at the last session of the legislature at the request of the Canadian Counsel of the Blind, an organization affiliated with the CNIB.

Social Credit MLA Bert Price of Vancouver Burrard defended the act but drew only hoots and catcalls.

there would be some consolidation," he said.

But he thought this would require mature judgment by "professionals."

Mr. Hellyer, a 40-year-old ex-private, doesn't class himself in this category. He said his best advantage in his post is the fact that he has no preconceived notions about defence matters. The fact that he served in the ranks doesn't play "too important" a part in his approach to service reform, he said.

STILL RECRUIT

The minister said the three services will continue recruiting now and in the future despite the unification plans although there will be some reduction in the forces.

"The total intake may be altered but we'll keep taking people in," he said.

Mr. Hellyer said his visit today was to be taken up with two addresses to groups of officers and senior non-coms of the three services here.

"I want to share with them some of the background thinking (with respect to his defence white paper) so they'll know more of the considerations than it is possible to put in a formal document."

The meetings were to be out-of-bounds to press and public.

He was met at the naval air station by Rear Admiral W. M. Landymore and delegations of army and air force officers. The minister was to return to Vancouver today.

His only comment on non-military matters dealt with the separatist movement in Quebec.

"It is a problem of keeping the country together. But I am sure it can be resolved with patience and understanding," he said.

ONTARIO BORN

The defence minister, born near Waterford, Ont., on a small farm, studied aeuronautical engineering, was a home builder and served in the RCAF but was transferred to the artillery when the RCAF no longer needed pilot trainees. After the war he entered the ladies' wear business.

He was elected MP for Toronto Davenport in 1949 when he was 25 and earned a cabinet post at 33.

Married, with three children, his spare time interests include gardening and music.

PUBLICITY COSTS

Advertising and publicity costs in Sweden totalled $225,000,000 in 1961, or 1.9 per cent of the net national product.

Proposed Quebec Pension Aids Low-Income Groups

By VIC WILCZUR
United Press International

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Wage earners in the low-income groups stand to benefit more from Quebec's proposed pension plan than the Canada pension plan, Premier Jean Lesage said, as he outlined details Friday.

Unlike the federal plan, workers earning less than $1,000 a year in Quebec will not have to contribute to the pension scheme. It is estimated that seven per cent of Quebec's 5,400,000 citizens earn less than $1,000 a year.

While most of them are farmers, they all will be eligible to collect their universal old-age pension.

Contributions to the Quebec plan will be set at four per cent compared to two per cent for the federal plan (until 1979 when it will be higher). The Quebec plan will bring a higher remuneration than the federal one, namely 25 per cent instead of 20 per cent.

Under the Quebec plan the province's 1,800,000 salaried and self-employed workers will have to contribute to the pension fund while under the federal scheme, support will be optional for self-employed workers.

The target date for implementation of the plan is Jan. 1, 1966. The pension fund on that date is set at $125 million and actuarial figures set it at $8 billion by 1996.

Contributions will be based on salary after the first $1,000 up to a limit of $6,000, and will stop there.

There is no deduction under the federal plan. Everyone must pay up to a maximum salary of $4,500.

The four per cent contribution rate will be shared by employees and employer.

Thus a worker earning $6,000 a year—with $1,000 deducted—will mean a contribution of $200 a year. Even if a worker earns $50,000 a year, the four per cent contribution rate will only be taken from the maximum $6,000 figure.

Under the Quebec plan, employees who continue working after the age of 65 won't have to contribute after that age limit while they will have to keep doing so under the federal scheme.

100 Helping Fund Canvass

Nearly 100 canvassers set out from Nanaimo city hall today to cover school district 68 in aid of Alberni and West Coast Disaster Fund.

At the same time, Mayor Pete Maffeo announced a council contribution of $2,500 to start the local fund.

And meanwhile in Victoria, Ald. Robert Baird, chairman of the local fund campaign committee, said $25,000 is sought from residents through voluntary contributions matching the $25,000 voted by council.

He said it may be hard to determine how much Victoria residents send in aid because no record is being kept of donations made through the chartered banks.

DISPLACED PERSONS

Mayor Maffeo, co-ordinator of the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities campaign for disaster relief, said the biggest problem in the Albernis now is keeping roofs over the heads of displaced persons.

The community has shown its "stout hearts" in living under crowded conditions, he said.

He turned over to 90 school girls and boys — Order of De Molay and Job's Daughters — the task of fund-collecting in the school district.

$250,000 TARGET

Island municipalities are aiming at $250,000 for disaster relief.

Qualicum Beach council voted $750 and Qualicum school district 69 will try to raise another $4,000.

The Indian fishing village of Hot Springs Cove, almost wiped off the beach by tidal waves, requests volunteer carpenters and laborers to aid in rehabilitation of the community.

Central Junior Secondary School has collected $63 of a $100 goal; Seventh Day Adventists have given $400, and other local groups are rallying behind the fund.

Victoria Plant Safety Winner

The plywood division of B.C. Forest Products, Ltd., in Victoria has won a five-year cumulative safety award presented by the Forests Products Safety Conference, now in session at the Empress Hotel.

The plywood division showed only 2.70 accidents per million man-hours in its operations here. B.C. Forest Products' Cowichan veneer division won the 1963 safety award for veneer plants with no accidents.

The awards were presented at the annual banquet of the Forest Products Safety Conference Friday night.

The Burnaby operation of Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. (formerly Sidney Roofing Ltd.) received a special award for no accidents in both division classes and overall cumulative sections.

OTHER AWARDS

Other awards for Island operations went to MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., Port Alberni, for sawmill over 750,000 man-hours, frequency rate of 1.20.

Tahsis Co., Port Alberni, sawmill under 250,000 man-hours, no accidents.

Western Forest Industries, Cowichan Lake, shingle mill class, frequency rate of 13.89.

MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., Somass shingle mill, frequency rate of 13.89.

The Tahsis Co. and Northwest Cedar Products Ltd., Port Alberni, also received special awards for zero frequency in the sawmill and pole yard divisions in 1963.

The report of the safety award judges showed there were no disabling accidents during the year's operation.

Bert Curtis, assistant director of the UBC extension department, addressed 300 delegates attending the Firest Products Safety Conference Friday.

He said there is no problem in the world which cannot be solved by learning and listed six key points supervisors should consider when teaching workers how to do their job safely—perception, communication, knowledge of results, getting response, transferring information and remembering.

Mr. Curtis complimented the forest products industry on their success in reducing job accidents but said it still had "a long way to go."

1,000 TO GET DOOR-TO-DOOR MAIL SERVICE

Regular mail delivery at home will start next month for about 1,000 households in the Glen Lake-Esquimalt Lagoon area.

Jeep-type mailmobiles will be used for the deliveries, says Victoria postmaster Allan Davies.

Daily delivery of letters, parcels, and any special delivery mail will start before the end of May, he says.

Lagoon and Glen Lake sub-post offices will be replaced by full post office services, and about 15 letter-drop boxes will be installed in the area.

Vocational Instructors Win Raises

The provincial government has approved raises totalling some $200,000 for staffs of five regional vocational schools.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said Friday the new salary scales were decided upon on the basis of an extensive study by the education department and the Civil Service Commission.

Mr. Peterson said the increases, provided by cabinet order-in-council, range from $40 to $100 a month, with the biggest increments for senior instructors.

They bring salaries of instructors to between $470 and $750 a month, depending on category and experience. Principals will earn between $800 and $900 a month — compared with the previous $730 to $850 —depending on the size of school.

Mr. Peterson said the increases "took into consideration salaries at public schools and the vocational institute in Vancouver, as well as four briefs from interested associations."

The new salary scales, retroactive to April 1, affect staffs at schools in Nanaimo, Burnaby, Prince George, Nelson and Kelowna. They cover all but clerical and janitorial employees.

'Credit Unions Must Dump Sacred Cows'

RED DEER (CP) — Basic fundamentals of the credit union movement must be re-examined and some "sacred cows" discarded if credit unions are to survive, A. R. Glen of Nanaimo, president of the National Association of Canadian Credit Unions, said Friday.

He told the Credit Union League of Alberta annual meeting that credit unions are facing fierce competition from other financial institutions which are providing many services that had been exclusive to credit unions.

Mr. Glen suggested credit unions place more emphasis on deposits and less on shares. Cheque handling services also should be stressed and more emphasis should be placed on long-term loans.

He said there was a need for an increase in personal services and more emphasis on mortgages.

He said costs of doing business show the need for streamlining services. It must mechanize, increase services or even amalgamate in order to survive.

SOOKE TEACHER WOULD HONOR LEADER OF 1864 EXPEDITION

Art Exhibition Proposed for Gold Rush Anniversary

By HUMPHRY DAVY

SOOKE — An art teacher here wants to organize an art exhibition to mark the 100th anniversary of the Robert Brown expedition which led to the discovery of gold on the Leach River, 15 miles north of Sooke.

Mrs. Bea Barnett said she will see if she can organize such a show for this summer.

It would feature paintings of Sooke and district, especially of the Sooke River, first explored by Brown's party in 1864, she said.

The discovery of gold on the Leach did much to boost the prosperity of Victoria.

An art teacher at Prince Albert, Saskatchewan for 20 years, Mrs. Barnett came to Sooke four years ago. She takes an active part in community affairs.

"There's a big interest in art in this district," she said. "Some of our artists are well known in Victoria. We usually hold an exhibition once a year."

Mrs. Barnett also teaches copper work, metal etching, fabric painting and other crafts.

Sooke may have to consider expanding its library facilities within the next two years due to a steady increase of readers, according to Mrs. Maude Adams, librarian.

Since the library was started in September 1963, the institution has loaned out about 1,500 books a month.

Membership now exceeds 500, she said.

"Each week we get new members," she said. "The way things are going, the present accommodations will be too small in two years."

The library is in one room, and is open 15 hours a week. It forms part of the Vancouver Island Regional Library.

Mrs. Adams said the district has a bookmobile service, but most residents seem to prefer the library.

Mrs. Adams said many chil- from their own school libraries which she described as "well equipped to take care of the needs of young people."

Work has started on construction of four additional classrooms and administrative offies at the Edward Milne High School.

The $78,000 project will be completed this fall.

The present administrative offices are in old army buildings.

Meanwhile, the Parent-Teacher Council with the help of businesses and industry, has done much to improve and landscape the school grounds.

SOOKE YOUTH TO WAIT UNTIL HE'S 21

ANSWERS 'VAGUE' ON ANTI-JEWISH ACTIVITY

Small Cog in Hate Pamphlet Wheel 'Giving Up for Now'

By RAY SINCLAIR

A Sooke high school boy named by the Canadian Jewish Congress as a distributor of hate literature has told the Times he gave it up three months ago.

The Congress named 15 Canadians in the continent-wide movement, linked through the mails by outpourings of rabid anti-Semitic pamphlets.

When I met the ex-leader of a Sooke group, he said:

"I was just a small cog in the wheel.

"I've given it up for now. I'll wait until I'm 21 and take it from there."

A 17-year-old, he's fair, handsome and not unpopular with his fellow students at Belmont High School.

He is shy, doesn't have a girl friend, and with better-than-average marks, has never failed a grade.

Six months ago he was approached in the downtown area and was asked, during a conversation, whether he was "against communism."

He said: "I was given an address, and sent a magazine.

"Then I got a letter saying that if I was interested in anti-communism I should form a group."

This was in mid-November.

He interested "a few guys"; then came the "bad press," in Toronto.

"I was told not to do anything that would get any bad publicity . . . it was doing us more harm than good."

The pamphlets he was to distribute came first from the U.S., then from Ontario and Quebec. At first it was all anti-communist.

"The Jewish part was different," he said. "They contacted me. They must have got my address. I don't know what the connection is.

"The strictly anti-communist stuff was more John Birch kind of literature."

A mysterious Colonel Fry, he said, appears to be one of the head people behind the anti-Jewish activity.

"The last I heard, he was in Vancouver trying to meet group leaders."

Mail addressed to the juvenile group leader was usually personal, not form letters.

What about contact with his "superiors?"

"I have asked them outright questions," he said.

"They're always very vague. I've never had an answer."

The link-up then is almost entirely through the mail. The juvenile knows of "several" Victoria groups, of which he says the 'Victoria Patriots' is the biggest.

The Times recently called on this group to come forward after a brief correspondence with it. There was no word.

The young Sooke leader used to meet members of other groups in private homes, he said.

What is the aim of the subversion?

"A national political party, when there's enough support from members."

The main platform is anti-communism, because "it's the one that gets most support so naturally they push it most."

In economics, he said, "They support Social Credit policy."

The party, he said, is against integration of Negroes, and the "power seeking" of Jews. If ever in power in the country, the party would investigate all Jews to determine which had "made their money by devious means."

He had tried some concentrated campaigning at school.

"When it came to acting on it, very few would act," he said. "Some were interested—you could see it."

The campaigning led to discovery when a student handed a pamphlet to a master.

The group was disciplined and disbanded.

"I wrote and said I couldn't lead a group any more. I wanted to stay at school. They said they respected my wish to be educated."

The pamphlets and the personal letters have stopped.

The Belmont High School group is defunct.

Remember a movie hit of a couple of years ago called 'Auntie Mame'? Well, we enjoyed it too, but while I watched its enchantingly disorganized lead character flit from one confusion to the next, a small memory came tapping.

Auntie Mamie reminded me of someone.

I failed to solve the puzzle, though, and forgot about it until one day this week when Win and I waited at Pat Bay as a Viscount from Seattle unloaded.

The passengers, young and old, male and female, alighted without fuss or disorder from their winged ark.

"They aren't on board," Win said. "I can't understand it!"

At this moment, a minor explosion seemed to occur within the Viscount. A tall and lovely lady materialized in the doorway. Bumped from behind by another of the same, she stumbled forward onto the landing stage with smart hat slightly awry. After a delay, later explained as due to a lost shoe, a third handsome matron joined them.

They descended to Canadian blacktop, where they ignored the customs and immigration gate. With waves, smiles and a dulcet "Hoo-hoo!" they veered toward us, a trio of undeclared entrants.

At this point — while a stewardess hurried to head Win's three California sisters off and we flapped them toward the immigration portal — the answer which had escaped me in that movie arrived.

Here, in three separate charming but perpetually disorganized packages, was the very prototype of Auntie Mame!

* * *

We waited nervously for her—them, I mean—to run the customs gauntlet.

"Seeing them," I said, "reminds me of the time we were driving somewhere and you smelled smoke."

"Yes," Win said, trying to peer around the men in blue, "and we stopped and the girls got out and started shaking their fur jackets. Only it was your hat."

"Which one parked the cigarette in it?" I asked.

"Mildred. Or maybe it was Hazel . . . Oh, here comes Gladys!"

I reached for a suitcase, pecked a cheek, then got out of the way while sister welcomed sister.

A blonde voice spoke from slightly below my ear: "Pardon me, but I believe that's my suitcase."

"Sorry," I said, "it belongs to this lady. She just cleared it through customs."

"It's still my case, the blonde insisted. "Look. The check stub matches!"

By this time we were sharing the handle in a polite tug-of-war.

Our audience included three nuns and a small boy going "zooom" with a toy aircraft, also a guy seven feet tall and an axe-handle across the shoulders, who was scowling at me.

Win, back turned, was greeting sister number two. Number one was now in discussion with an airline official who kept passing his hand through his hair in a distracted manner.

The man mountain was edging in and the small boy had twice banged me with the plane, which had a sharp point, when sister number three escaped a bemused inspector.

She said, blue-rinsed and California swish, "But that's not Gladys' suitcase!"

Gladys returned. "Why," she told me, "you've got the wrong case. That's mine, with the customs people." And to the blonde, "The strangest thing . . . I was able to lock your case with my key. I did have to strain a little."

"Well I hope your's unlocks it," said the victim plaintively as they stepped into the excisemen's den for another go-round, "because I lost my key a year ago."

That was several days past. Some other little contretemps have occurred since then, but I'm out of space, and still pretty shaky.

As I write this, Auntie Mame in her three components is airborne again, winging happily toward California.

There, through a slight telephonic shemozzle three eager husbands are preparing to meet the wrong flight.

Millin's dilemma: give up, or call it a hole in one?

Reporter Tries Short (Car) Cut But Still Ousted From Roadeo

By LESLIE MILLIN

Crime nearly pays.

I cheated on the Jaycees Teen-age Safe Driving Roadeo and almost got away with it.

Not that it did much good.

Eighteen legitimate teen-age safe drivers stood by shaking their heads as I cheated my way through the car-handling course to an 83 per cent score and a disqualification.

Run on the wet parking lot of the Esquimalt Sports Centre this morning, the roadeo puts a lot of emphasis on smooth driving, precise handling and courtesy.

It's designed for large family sedans, without power brakes or steering.

Included are a serpentine course, a parallel parking test, a smooth stopping test, and a fiendish little exam testing a driver's ability to put a wheel just where he wants it.

Around this circuit — intended for 17-foot cars with 110-inch wheelbases and 40-foot running circles — went the press car, which is 12 feet long, has a 90-inch wheelbase and a 24-foot turning circle.

And it was a struggle, even with that much illegal advantage.

No officials were killed, but my driving confidence was seriously wounded.

On a parallel parking test, the closest my car got to the curb was seven inches.

ON SHORT SIDE

On the stopping-smoothly-at-a-line test, my car was eight inches short.

Going forward through the serpentine was no problem—but in reverse the car got confused and went out the wrong exit.

And—curiously enough—the car's wheels seemed to know where to go forward, but on backing up they knocked over a whole line of little markers.

It was all the car's fault, of course.

The driver lost points only for disobeying tthe rules at almost every turn.

Well, when the whole sordid mess was over the judge added up the score sheet and awarded a mark of 83 per cent.

The 18 other drivers tried not to snicker too hard.

And just as I was thinking ahead—to the provincial finals in Burnaby in June, and the nationals in Toronto—they disqualified me.

I flunked the physical.

I'm not a teen-ager.

BYLAW CHANGES URGED

Greater Victoria school board will hold a special meeting Monday to deal with modifications to its upcoming three-year building program outlined in referendum No. 6.

The bylaw, after weeks of fine-tooth consideration by the education department, was returned to school board officials Friday.

School trustees agreed not to comment on the bylaw until the board as a whole had had an opportunity to review the suggested amendments.

The total amount was also withheld until the borrowing bylaw is put into its final form.

Delays, partly occasioned by the volume of similar bylaws from other districts being processed by the education department, will mean a much later ratepayer vote.

Earliest date for voting on the referendum in the Greater Victoria municipalities could hardly be before mid-May.

Referendum No. 5, now nearly expired, was for about $5,000,000. Only two major projects under that authority remain to be done.

They will still leave a shortage of classroom facilities in this area next fall.

Uvic Board Ready To Battle Ottawa On Ocean Institute

By AB KENT

University of Victoria development board will take "strong action" to try to hold the federal government to its original plans for an oceanographic institute on Gordon Head campus.

The promise came today from chairman Harold B. Elworthy, a member of Uvic board of governors, when confronted with a student council statement expressing shock that the government had reversed its intentions of last fall.

The Alma Mater Society asked the board of governors to take "strong action on the matter." It assured the board that student leaders would support it in "whatever action is taken to assure that the oceanography institute is built on the University of Victoria campus."

'GET TO BOTTOM'

The $2,000,000 research installation was to rise on the new campus as an adjunct to other university development and co-operate in teaching and research in its laboratories and the university library.

Mr. Elworthy said officials would try to "get to the bottom and find out why the change."

The federal government already owns property adjoining the campus and a tentative quarter of the university property had been earmarked for research development.

Notice of the change in federal plans was given Thursday by Mines Minister William Benidickson, who said two other Victoria waterfront locations for the institute were being considered.

INCONVENIENT

He explained it would be inconvenient for the centre to rise on the campus when a research vessel, also due for construction, would be moored at some distance from Gordon Head.

Board of governors chairman Judge J. B. Clearihue, Uvic chancellor, said, "We can only make representations to the federal government, we can't tell them what to do."

He said he was concerned by the new situation and pledged his board's support to any other representations that may be made on behalf of students.

The AMS statement said students disagree with Mr. Benidickson's explanation, pointing out the contribution that Uvic could make would outweigh any inconvenience.

"The loss of the institute is a serious blow to the growth and development of the university. The students feel most strongly that having the institute on the university campus would be of mutual benefit to the university and the institute," the student statement said.

Mr. Benidickson and Victoria MP David Groos are both asked for a further explanation.

$375,000 IN CONTRACTS

Big Loss Feared On Water Piping

A prolonged strike in the "big three" shipyards could bring Victoria Machinery Depot losses of $375,000 on water piping alone.

The monthly meeting of Greater Vancouver Water District was told Friday night that laying of pipes for an increased water supply to the Pitt River-Pitt Meadows-Maple Ridge areas is being delayed by the nine-week strike.

The GVWD has a $100,000 contract with VMD for the pipes, 1,000 feet of which are supposed to be delivered by June.

VMD president Harold Husband said today the yard has the steel for the pipes, and could deliver the 1,000 feet within two weeks of returning to work.

MAY LOSE CONTRACT

However, he said, there is the danger that the contract may be taken away if the strike continues.

"One contract has been cancelled already—by Edmonton," he said.

They had a $95,000 contract with VMD for pipes.

"We were low bidders on contracts in Calgary, for $90,000 worth of pipes, and Burnaby, for $90,000 worth," Mr. Husband said.

"We didn't get them because of the strike."

He said: "These contracts represent a very serious loss to the city, and in money gone out of the city."

Representatives of the 22 striking unions are scheduled to meet in Victoria Tuesday at 10 a.m. to discuss a top-secret proposal by Deputy Labor Minister William Sands.

BLANSHARD-ROSE IMPROVEMENTS SLATED

New Artery Challenges Douglas St.

By JOHN MIKA

Appearance of Arenaway is changing and more is to come later this year that will transform the Blanshard - Rose Street route into a major artery rivalling Douglas Street.

Workmen Friday were clearing away debris from a demolished house on the northwest side — kitty-corner from the arena — while trucks and graders spread fill on top of the high rocky area north of the arena.

The fill is for development of a 180-car parking lot surrounding the arena building which will be in use at next month's Jaycee fair.

But city action in purchasing and tearing down the house—part of a block-long bottleneck in Blanshard Street—is even more significant because it signals the start of the last lap in making Blanshard a major traffic route.

Negotiations will begin soon for acquisition of a narrow strip along Blanshard, between the arena and the one-way terminal at Queens.

Plans call for tearing out the Arenaway centre strip and widening Blanshard at that point to handle six lanes of traffic.

At the other end, a curving extension of Blanshard will be pushed through north of Hillside to merge with Rose Street immediately south of S. J. Willis Junior High School. Rose Street will be widened at that point to take six lanes too.

This will enable the city to send three lanes of traffic northbound on Blanshard all the way from the Law Courts Building to the city limits at Tolmie, using the widened Rose Street at the north end.

Thre lanes of southbound traffic will go from Tolmie to the Law Courts using Rose-Blanshard.

The plan will leave an island of buildings splitting the north and southbound lanes, between Market and Queens, which will require one-way for this distance.

Cost of the plan, included in this year's budget, is expected to be upwards of $120,000 but a considerable portion will come from government funds.

DEMOLITION of old house at north end of Arenaway will provide space for Arena parking and signal start of final drive to make Blanshard major north-south traffic route with six lanes. (Times Photo).

The marriage of Miss Vivi Mandrup Petersen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Volmer Mandrup Petersen, to Mr. Thomas Andew Wyatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Wyatt, is to take place on Monday, May 11, at 6 p.m., in Grace Lutheran Church with Rev. W. A. Williams officiating. (Mr. Wyatt's photo by Chapman Photography.)

Parties for Recent Bride

A series of parties honored Mrs. George Piercey, the former Lynne Geoghegan, prior to her recent marriage.

Gifts were in a decorated basket when Mrs. J. Comeau and her mother, Mrs. R. E. Bradshaw entertained at a surprise shower in their Old Esquimalt Road home. Corsages were presented to the bride and her mother, Mrs. E. Geoghegan.

Also invited were Mrs. A. Cameron, Mrs. E. De Costa, Miss V. Ross, Mrs. R. R. Bradshaw, Mrs. F. Mallory, Mrs. G. Bell, Mrs. F. Wood, Mrs. J. Wright, Mrs. B. Geoghegan, Mrs. H. Ross and Miss P. Taylor.

Bingo and refreshments rounded out the evening.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Bruce Geoghegan arranged gifts in a pink wishing well when she gave a shower in her Kamloops Avenue home. Yellow carnations and freesia were presented to the honor guest and a pink and white corsage to her mother.

A pink and green shower cake centred the refreshment table. Games were played.

Guests included Mrs. D. Dakers, Mrs. Martindale, Mrs. E. Martin, Mrs. R. Bradshaw, Mrs. Comeau, Mrs. G. Gandy, Miss B. Gandy, Mrs. W. Adye, Mrs. R. Lange, Mrs. F. Barron, Mrs. M. Wright, Mrs. K. Carr, Miss M. Carr and Miss S. Martin.

Following the wedding rehearsal, bride's parents entertained the bridal party in their home on Old Esquimalt Road.

Joining the hosts and the bridal couple were Mr. and Mrs. J. Comeau, Mr. and Mrs. T. West, Dal Wright and Wes Braham.

Veterans Need Pocket Books

A plea for western and mystery pocket books was made when the Women's Auxiliary to the Veterans' Hospital met with Mrs. H. F. Jarvis presiding. Books are needed for the hospital's library.

It was reported that 600 books, including paperbacks, had been distributed during the past month.

Mrs. H. Finbow announced $114.15 spent on patients' comforts that included greeting cards, cigarettes and seven birthday presents.

Other reports showed that 260 patients had been visited during the past month. It was decided to hold two birthday parties on April 25, one in the pavilion and one in medical 1 ward. Entertainment will feature young talent.

It was also announced that members will attend a service in the veterans' chapel on Sunday, May 10.

Mrs. E. L. Bedford was welcomed as a new member.

Mr. and Mrs. William John Nesbitt were married in Metropolitan United Church in mid-February. Bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Rabey and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Nesbitt, all of Victoria. Dr. F. E. H. James officiated at the ceremony.

Miss Dianne Lorraine Wickens and Mr. Leslie William Sirokai were married in St. Paul's Church, Esquimalt, in late March. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. David N. Wickens of Victoria and Mr. and Mrs. Bertalan Sirokai of Budapest. —(Norman Tovey photo.)

Capt. and Mrs. Victor K. Dailyde, who were married in Dartmouth, N.S., in February, are now making their home there. The bride, Sharon Lee, is a daughter of Lt. Cmdr. (R) and Mrs. Allan R. Heater of Dartmouth, and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Heater and Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Collins, all of Victoria.

Mrs. Cyril Shaffer, the former Marjorie Diane Aaronson, was a February bride. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Aaronson, 1752 Armstrong Street, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leon Shaffer, 611 St. Charles Street. —(Chapman Photography.)

St. Alban's Church was setting for the wedding in mid-January of Miss Lois Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Bennett of Victoria, and Jack H. Bath, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bath of Sidney, B.C. Rev. F. W. Hayes, pictured witnessing the marriage signatures, officiated at the ceremony. —(Robin Clarke.)

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Daniel Wallingford Ney were married in Fairfield United Church on the last day of February. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. William E. Scythes and Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Ney, all of Victoria. —(Chevrons Studio.)

Marriage vows were exchanged in mid-March by Irene Jean Eveleigh and Mr. Kenneth Alfred Cawdell. Rev. C. Scott officiated at the ceremony in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. —(Ryan Bros. photo.)

Marriage of Heather Anne, elder daughter of Mrs. A. Kirk, Brentwood, B.C., and Mr. Rodney Winston, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Gustus, 2531 Asquith Street, Victoria, took place in early March.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Local Shop Specializes In Old-Fashioned Jewels

By PENNY SAVER

During the period from 1837 to 1914, commonly known as the Victorian era, England was a very prosperous country. Many of the wealthy families invested their money in priceless jewelry. When their members passed on, estates were often sold and the money divided among descendants.

Some of these descendants came to Canada to retire—which has made it possible for this local shop owner to develop a prosperous business dealing in the buying and selling of pieces of jewelry from old estates.

"When we buy jewelry from these old estates," he says, "we never reset it. You cannot make a new piece of jewelry from an old stone. If you reset it it is neither old or new."

Rings are one of the most popular items sold in this shop. They come in a variety of sizes and shapes and include such genuine stones as agates, rubies, emeralds and sapphires. Prices range upwards from $7.50.

These range from large oval-shaped gold and blue sapphire dinner rings to small heart-shaped opals. Many come in the old style cluster design with a ruby in the centre surrounded by small diamond chips.

Old fashioned tie pins and charms are also available here. Stick pins are made of gold and many have either an emerald or diamond in the designed end. Price of the pins ranges from $3 and charms are priced from 50 cents up.

Interested in jewelry from yesteryears? Then let Penny lead you to shop she was in today. Give her a call at 382-3131.

Colorful fabrics to brighten your home . . .

Next Thursday's the day you should make a point of visiting Standard Furniture . . . or if not Thursday, then Friday or Saturday . . . because on these three days Standard are holding their springtime Chintz Carnival . . . The entire drapery department on the second floor is being given over to the display of an exciting collection of fabrics . . . everything from gay cotton prints for kitchen curtains . . . to those beautiful Sanderson fabrics in co-ordinated prints and plain colors . . . and imported prints from Germany, Switzerland and the U.S. . . . for handsome draperies and slip covers and upholstery . . . We had a preview of some of these materials the other day, and can assure you that this will be a particularly good showing of bright, colorful fabrics of unusual design . . . Some especially interesting designs from Switzerland and Germany . . . exemplifying the Mediterranean look . . . rich colorings in artful combination . . . If you're getting tired of florals, but like the advantages of chintz . . . these will delight you . . . There's sailcloth, dust-proof sateen, union cloth and many other weights and textures . . . all in lovely colors and designs . . . and all very specially priced during the 3-day Chintz Carnival at . . . Standard Furniture, 737 Yates St., EV 2-5111.

Most photographed garment in the Paris collections—by Courreges: A white lace trouser costume for evenings at home. Low slung slim pants . . . jacket covered in front, parted flirtatiously over a bare back. For the dashing type with the figure to carry it off.

Authentic patterns of great charm . . .

If the sight of all the magnificent Crown Derby and other costly things in Sydney Reynolds' windows has led you to believe that here is a shop devoted exclusively to luxury items . . . we're more than happy to disillusion you . . . We hasten to add, however, that you'll find nothing ordinary here . . . Everything, regardless of price, is either beautiful, interesting or exclusive . . . oftentimes all three . . . Take the matter of dinnerweare, for example . . . We saw four delightful patterns this week . . . all inexpensive . . . open stock . . . which have stood the test of time and are much loved on both sides of the Atlantic . . . There's Blue Chelsea . . . sometimes called "Mulberry Sprigs" or "Grandmother's China" . . . perhaps you remember it from your childhood . . . it was a great favorite in English castles and cottages . . . Only $8 a place setting . . . Authentic "Willow Pattern" . . . a household word for almost two centuries . . . is $5.75 a place setting . . . "Blue Peony", an authentic pattern dating from the early 19th century, costs but $3 . . . And if you like le sport, "Tally-ho" at $3.55 a 5-piece setting will please you . . . Very good English hunting prints with a different scene on each dinner plate . . . All these patterns are exclusive to . . . Sydney Reynolds, 801 Government St., EV 3-3931.

A beige-y powder and foundation . . . pink-beige lipstick . . . produce the glowing look that complements the new white and pastel-colored spring clothes so well.

Time for that spring wardrobe! . . .

We stopped off to feast our eyes on the beautiful flowers in Beacon Hill Park this week before going to Miss Frith's . . . where we were greeted with a riot of color and freshness that rivalled what we had just left . . . Such lovely dresses and coats . . . suits and hats . . . in sunny colors that literally sing of springtime . . . And unlike the park's flowers, these may be picked . . . and worn and enjoyed! . . . Honestly, you'd have thought with all the activity that was going on around Miss Frith's before Easter there wouldn't be much left . . . but replenishments are arriving daily and every shipment seems better than the last! . . . There are dresses for every occasion . . . for partying . . . for playing . . . for living in around the clock . . . From luxury fabrics to soft wools and knits and crisp cottons . . . Suits you'll fall in love with the minute you lay eyes on them . . . And the hats! . . . well, if you know your millinery, you'll know they just don't come any smarter or prettier than at Miss Frith's . . . So if you've managed to resist acquiring a new spring wardrobe up till now . . . give yourself a springtime treat and visit . . . Miss Frith Millinery & Fashions, 1617 Douglas St., EV 3-4912.

The clothes of Mainbocher . . . that master designer . . . have an elusive, subtle quality which turns Woman into Lady.

Cassini scores again . . .

Nice scoop for Saba Bros. . . . they're the only shop in town to carry the new Oleg Cassini-designed girdles, pantie girdles and bras, made by Peter Pan . . . and if you're an admirer of Mr. Cassini's subtle line in dresses and suits . . . you should just see what he can do when it comes to the all-important foundations! . . . Now we realize it's pretty hard to rhapsodize over a girdle when there's nobody in it . . . so we'll confine ourselves to telling you these are dainty and feminine . . . fashioned from that wonderful lycra and stretchy lace . . . come in white, black, and a delicious shade of cognac . . . You'll get the full impact when you try one on and see the lovely lines it gives you . . . the rounded derriere . . . the new subtle shape for this season's clothes . . . Artful construction does the trick . . . Long-legged pantie girdles are $17, girdles $15 . . . The uplift bras with deep plunge neckline will delight you too . . . the one called "Room at the Top" is a honey . . . an entirely new concept in bras . . . and almost too pretty to cover up! . . . These new foundations will do something for every woman . . . so let one of the trained corsetieres fit you at . . . Saba Bros Limited, 1130 Douglas St., EV 4-0581.

From Dior: An evening bolero encrusted with blossoms of magenta and green sequins on a latticework of silver and gold jewels. Worn over a slim absinthe green silk sheath.

Every wardrobe needs a knit . . .

We don't suppose there's a province in the whole of Canada that lends itself so perfectly to the year-round wearing of knits than this Beautiful British Columbia of ours . . . and when it comes to really beautiful knits, Wilson's have some superb examples . . . Newest . . . fresh off the boat from Italy . . . are pure silk 2-piece dresses with a sort of diagonal strike knitted in . . . Slim skirt, a wide-ish collared jacket buttoning to the neck with entrancing buttons which look as if they had little chunks of gold stuck all over them . . . In a soft shade of aqua or beige . . . Now here's a dress you could wear with aplomb any time, any place, any season . . . And while the price tag of $125 may seem a reasonably respectable outlay, this dress is cheap at the price . . . It'll never go out of style, and you'll wear it happily for years . . . Another distinguished Italian knit . . . this time in wool . . . is a 3-piece suit in gold and beige . . . embroidered flowers on the cardigan jacket . . . Size 10 . . . The same suit in crushed raspberry and white in size 12. These are priced at $150 . . . and the previous comments apply . . . For versatility, comfort and sheer smartness, a knit suit or dress is practically a "must" . . . W & J Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., EV 3-7177.

B.C. Dogwood Outblooms Party Pins

By Nona Damaske

Damaske

With a United States election in the offing, strong-minded partisans will be sporting symbols of their favorite party.

Maybe we are not as gimmick-minded or perhaps we lack the sharp Madison Avenue approach to important events but I could find no jewelry in Victoria to indicate any political party affiliation.

Daffodil pins bloomed at every turn but it seems that even at the height of an election there is no flood of party jewelry.

However when browsing, if you do not find one thing you find another.

Our beautiful British Columbia dogwood has been used as a jewelry theme for a number of years but in a fascinating gift shop I found a type of dogwood pin that I had never seen before.

The process is porcelain on silk and the light delicate result is exquisite. Finely edged in glistening copper these hand-crafted pins come in three sizes with correctly scaled earrings.

The hand-made leather dogwood, so realistic in appearance has long been a great favorite for the woman who enjoys a pin in perfect harmony with a wool suit or sweater and skirt.

Pick your party . . . golden elephants and donkey pins by Napier of New York, allow the American gal to wear her political heart on her sleeve. Undecided fence sitters get into the act by wearing both emblems.

For the Canadian going abroad, the maple leaf pin is the favorite choice. Two people, perfect strangers, wearing a maple leaf would be sure to speak no matter how many thousands of miles away from Canada.

These leaves are hand-carved in hardwood, machined in burnished gold tone, set with rhinestones and etched in enamel.

Men have not been forgotten in this Canadiana theme. There are some very good looking cuff links with Haida Indian etchings. They are most masculine and simple, but truly a conversation piece. Each small box carries a little card telling the story of the design.

The dogwood, maple leaf and Indian jewelry is a wonderful going-away gift for the traveller. It not only signifies the home base but it shows the fine work of many Canadian craftsmen.

Today's Bride Feted

Parties starred the days of Miss Nancy Dunn prior to her marriage this afternoon.

Miss May Guthrie arranged gifts of linen in a decorated umbrella when she entertained at a shower in the Carnarvon Street home of her parents. The bride-elect and her mother, Mrs. J. A. Dunn, received pink and white carnations en corsage.

Mrs. R. J. Maconachie presided at the tea table, which was centred with daffodils and white hyacinths.

Guests included Mrs. M. C. Guthrie, Mrs. K. C. Moffat, Mrs. G. S. Little, the Misses Joan Moffat, Eve Stocker, Jane Faye, Gerry Drummond, Judy Weir, Lorraine Caywood, Beatrice Nufer and Joan Woolison.

Mrs. W. G. Milne and Mrs. P. N. Burnett gave a shower in the latter's Cranmore Road home. Corsages of freesia were presented to the honor guest and her mother.

Mrs. M. Hoey and Mrs. W. G. Jaggard presided at the refreshment table.

Also attending were Mrs. Guthrie, Mrs. G. Harris, Mrs. E. L. Pitkethley, Mrs. E. W. Mackenzie, Mrs. D. Moor, Mrs. T. C. Hamilton, Mrs. Ruth Stewart, Mrs. N. S. Lockyer, Mrs. R. Clitheroe, the Misses Toni Burnett, Barbara Dunn and Mari Paz Amoros

MY PROVEN METHOD OF "HAIR RETAINING" SCALP MASSAGE
Has Given Unfailing Satisfaction in Victoria for Over 30 Years

Victoria, B.C.
April 3, 1964
Mr. Firth,
715 Fort Street,
Victoria, B.C.
Dear Mr. Firth:
This is just a few lines to express to you my appreciation for the very excellent job you have done towards restoring the vigour of my hair and now even some of the colour. Last fall when you first started your massage my hair was getting to a very poor condition and one side of my head very sore but now following a great deal of patience the whole situation has improved immeasurably. I am indeed grateful for your perseverance. Thank you.
Your sincerely,
Lily.

TODAY'S RECIPE

FRESH LEMON-DATE PIE

One cup fresh dates, 4 lemons, 1 cup sugar, ⅛ cup sifted all-purpose flour, unbaked pastry for double-crust 9-inch pie, ¼ cup water.

Chop dates. Pare lemons, making sure to remove white membrane; slice lemons. Combine sugar and flour. Line 9-inch pie plate with half of the pastry. Sprinkle a layer of sugar mixture on pastry shell, then add a layer of lemon slices and a layer of chopped dates. Repeat layers, ending with lemon slices. Sprinkle with water. Arrange remaining pastry over top. Bake in 400-degree (hot) oven about 40 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

An Unattractive Hairline May Be Improved By Electrolysis

Many women do not know that electrolysis can be used to change an unattractive hairline.

Lowman

Most of them think of it only as a permanent method to get rid of unwanted hair on the arms and legs and face. It is the only method which removes hair permanently.

Sometimes the way a woman's hair grows about her forehead and temples is a real handicap. For instance, she may have an adequate forehead and a well-shaped face, but her hair may grow far down on her forehead.

Her hairline can be lifted by electrolysis. When lifting a low hairline, the operator works on both sides each time so that there is never any lack of symmetry. Sometimes even husbands do not realize what is happening. They just know that their wife is getting better looking.

Some women have hair which grows much further down on one side of the forehead than the other, so that they naturally have a lopsided appearance. Of course with electrolysis the hairline can be made even.

Sometimes the hair grows far down at the temples and these stringy hairs detract from a woman's appearance. This too can be permanently corrected The way in which your hair frames your face can make an unbelievable difference in the way you look.

Sometimes I have noticed that friends and members of my family look prettier at night when their hair is not arranged in the usual manner than they do in the daytime. This certainly indicates that the coiffure they are wearing is not the best for them.

It's a good idea to observe yourself. You may be wearing your hair too full at the sides or you may not have enough height on top.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Framing Your Face Attractively" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 51 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Educator Entertained

Dr. Lucile Lindberg, immediate past president of the Association for Childhood Education, and professor of education in Queen's College, the City University of New York, was entertained recently at a breakfast held in the Sidney Travel Lodge. Seated at the head table with Dr. Lindberg were Mrs. K. Wycherley, president, Provincial Board, A.C.E.; Mrs. John Eltringham, president, Victoria branch, A.C.E.; Miss Ulah Jacobson, primary supervisor, Victoria schools; Miss Mary Saich, primary consultant, Victoria schools; Mrs. George Brand, Mrs. Ivan Flett, Mrs. Enid Webster, legislative chairman, Victoria branch, A.C.E.; Miss Joan Beard, Mrs. Maude Landrum, secretary, Victoria branch; Mrs. Allan Iverson, Mrs. George Hanington, Miss Peggy Bell, Mrs. A. Lineham, Miss Lorna Stuart, Mrs. Mary Ley, Mrs. T. Hutton, Mrs. W. Phillips, and Mrs. J. McLelland. Dr. Lindberg visited Victoria on her return home from the A.C.E. conference in Portland, Ore., and left later for Vancouver, where she was entertained by the Faculty Club. Members from the Victoria branch who attended the conference were Mrs. J. Eltringham, Mrs. Webster, Miss Beard, Mrs. Landrum, Miss Stuart and Miss Saich.

Leaves Sunday

Mrs. Evelyn McFadden leaves by air on Sunday to travel to Ottawa where she will make her new home. Formerly on the staff of the British Columbia Government Employees' Medical Services, Mrs. McFadden has lived in Victoria for the past 16 years. She will take up a new position with the federal civil service.

In Kamloops

Five Victoria women left by car on Friday to travel to Kamloops where they will attend the organizing of Chapter AT of the PEO Sisterhood, to be held in the Blue Room of the Plaza Hotel in that city this evening. This will be the second PEO chapter in the mainland city. They are Mrs. D. B. Turner, provincial president; Mrs. Stuart Davidson, Mrs. Wilfred Johns, provincial past president; Mrs. B. Varcoe, provincial treasurer and Mrs. T. E. Pagdin, one of the organizers of the first Kamloops chapter. They will return to Victoria on Sunday evening.

June Wedding

Mrs. Terence C. Todd, Westmount, Que., has announced the engagement of her daughter, Madelon Cary, to Mr. David Bearce Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bearce Campbell. The marriage has been arranged to take place in June. Miss Todd is the granddaughter of Mrs. William C. Todd of Victoria and of Mr. F. R. Wilgress of Vancouver, B.C.

World Travellers Find Home Conveniences Best

By MARLENE GLASSFORD

Lack of modern conveniences, as we know them in Canada, is one of the outstanding memories of Australia and New Zealand, brought home by Mr. and Mrs. David Aitken.

The couple recently returned to their Newton Street home following an 11-month tour around the world.

"Although Australia has developed rapidly during the past few years," says Mrs. Aitken, "their idea of modern bathroom facilities is merely to have sink and bathtub separate from the toilet."

New Zealand is very similar. In one home where the couple stayed with friends, "we had to walk through three rooms to get from one part of the bathroom to the other."

Because these countries do not have central heating many of their rooms, especially the bathroom, are very cold.

"In some places, there was no hot running water. The bathroom would be so cold, that, by the time the water was heated, all you could do was have a sponge bath."

There is "quite a bit" of class distinction in Australia and New Zealand, the Aitkens observed, but "the people seem to maintain an easy-going nature."

Christmas "down under" is far different from Christmas in Canada. "For one thing, it's summer there," explained Mrs. Aitken.

Everyone leaves on vacation before Christmas or between then and New Year's and much of the time is spent on the beaches.

They rarely serve the traditional turkey dinner because it is too warm. Instead, most meals are made up of cold ham and salads.

Taxes are very high in these countries and "although they can buy butter for as low as 30 cents a pound and much of their medical care is free, it is evened out when they pay their income tax."

Unemployment is almost an unknown thing but wages are low. Often the newspapers run several pages of "help wanted" advertisements a night.

During the tour, Mrs. Aitken was able to visit an old friend in Colombo, Ceylon.

"She lives quite comfortably in a lovely modern home and maintains several servants for an amount of money that would barely support her in Canada."

In Colombo the difference between castes is very marked, the Aitkens say. Many of the lower class people live under nothing more than a thatched roof supported by four posts. They have no furniture except for a raised slab which is used as a bed.

Cities are not divided into residential and slum areas, Mrs. Aitken added. Often the lower class of people live in huts directly behind the modern home of a wealthy family.

Although the Aitkens enjoyed their tour and delighted in seeing far distant places and old friends, both agree that now they are back in Victoria, there is no place like home.

It Was the Young Set's Evening

British Columbia's younger set went formal Friday evening—and loved every minute of it!

The occasion was the post-debutante dance at Government House and the hosts, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes, were as enchanted with the party as their youthful guests!

Receiving guests in the green and white drawing room, Mrs. Pearkes wore a floor-length gown of spring yellow chiffon over silk. Her corsage was a cluster of tiny cerise orchids.

The scene in the ballroom was rich with color as young guests danced in gowns of every shade and texture with the white gowns of debutantes from Victoria and Vancouver setting a distinctive note.

Male guests also added color to the scene for, in addition to dancers in smartly-tailored "tails" and tuxedos there were several officer cadets, dressed in scarlet-coated uniforms.

Three young women from the Philippines drew all eyes.

They were Rosario and Corazon Oira, daughters of the Philippines' consul-general, and Arletta Correa, daughter of that country's trade commissioner. In the style of the Philippines, their exquisitely-beaded gowns were highlighted with graceful butterfly sleeves and panuelos of stiffened organza.

They came from Vancouver and they were escorted by their brothers.

Another interesting guest from Vancouver was Franco Diliganti of the well-known Argentine quintruplet family.

Len Acres' orchestra played music designed for the young-in-heart with many a Paul Jones to keep the party's guests circulating.

Tables were attractively decorated for the buffet supper that added to guests' enjoyment. There were Melton Mowbray pies, salmon, turkey, ham, eye-catching salads and desserts featuring jelly rolls, topped with soft ice cream.

And, although the food was excellent and appreciated, post-supper dances were whirled through with just as much enthusiasm as those that began the evening.

Honored

A basket decorated to represent an airplane held gifts for bride-elect Miss Vivi Petersen recently when Mrs. G. A. Wyatt and Mrs. A. Bell entertained at a shower in the Bell home on Henderson Road. The guest of honor was presented with a corsage of red roses and her mother, Mrs. V. M. Petersen, and Mrs. G. A. Wyatt received pink carnations. Games were played and refreshments served. Invited guests included Mrs. M. Mathison, Mrs. J. Mason, Mrs. D. C. Jenkinson, Mrs. J. W. McArthur, Mrs. J. Kolvig, Mrs. W. Dangerfield, Mrs. A. Else, Mrs. J. Stewart, the Misses Glenys Mee, Lone Petersen, Joan Kelway and Maureen Clark.

Her Way's Paved With 'Miracles'

By PAT DUFOUR

Attractive Mrs. Norman Keene, in Victoria this weekend, looks like an average housewife but her story is very unusual.

She hails from Ottawa where she lives with her husband and two teen-age daughters. And she's in the west as public relations officer for the Moral Re-Armament film production "El Condor" to be shown in Oak Bay Junior High School, Tuesday at 8:30 p.m.

What makes her story unusual is her attitude towards life. It almost has one believing in miracles.

Mrs. Keene joined the Moral Re-Armament movement at the beginning of the last war when she was a student at University of Toronto. It's shaped her life, ever since.

In fact, it's formed the life of her whole family. In 1939 her husband gave up his furniture business to concentrate on moral re-armament work.

From that time their entire income, except for a small inheritance, has come from donations.

Says Mrs. Keene: "One has to test one's convictions. We believe that if we live correctly, things will fall into focus and work out."

She admits that it hasn't always been easy.

"I'm pretty economical. I make all the clothes for my daughters and myself and save wherever I can."

Typical of the Keene "miracles" is the way in which Mrs. Keene made this trip west.

"I felt that I would be needed here to promote our work but I had no money. I thought about it all one night and, days later, I started to get calls and letters from friends, all enclosing cheques towards my expenses."

Mrs. Keene has spent the past two weeks travelling with the cast of "El Condor", who appear with the film.

Her volunteer job is "to arrange publicity, entertainment, billeting and so on."

Before heading west, the play was produced in French-speaking Canada for five months. Indeed, there are six French-Canadians in the cast.

Mrs. Keene says, "They were all fervent separatists but are beginning to change many of their views now."

Also in the group is Cathy Young, niece of Prime Minister Pearson. She and her mother, Mrs. Norman Young, are ardent Moral Re-Armament workers.

While she is in the west, a friend is taking care of Mrs. Keene's home. Her husband is doing volunteer work at the MRA camp, on Mackinac Island in Lake Michigan. It houses 1,000 people and has "the largest television studio in North America."

Right now, this interesting visitor plans to leave Victoria on Sunday. She says: "I can't leave my family too long and money will only go so far."

But, with the Keene record of "miracles," it's perfectly possible that she will still be here when the curtain is rung up!

Salt Spring Notes

Mrs. Guy Cunningham, North End Road, and her sister, Mrs. John Inglis, Beddis Road, and the former's two sons, Ronald and John, have returned to Salt Spring Island after visiting friends at San Bernardino and other California points.

Recent guests at Harbor House Ganges, included Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cromie of Vancouver and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maxwell, West Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Baker pictured with their two sons Douglas and David at their Christie Point Apartment have this to say:

Waterfront living with the advantages of modern apartment living makes Chrsitie Point an ideal location, which is complete with sun patio, and an ever changing waterfowl drama, just outside your living room.

CHRISTIE POINT APARTMENTS, a development of Consolidated Building Corporation, are located on Craigowan Road, off Highway 1A just past Craigflower Bridge. The Rental Office is open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and the phone is EV 5-0644. You too can rent an apartment at Christie Point for as little as $110 a month.

MANAGEMENT—MONTREAL TRUST COMPANY

IS ONE FACE CREAM "JUST AS GOOD" AS ANOTHER?

True, lots of creams are similar in doing a surface job only. But if your need is for a treatment cream that will effectively halt early-aging signs such as crow's feet, little lines, flakiness, then POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM is the answer. This famous cream, now with Allantoin, goes to work in just 10 minutes to repair skin robbed of natural moisture. Allantoin floats off lifeless surface skin cells . . . speeds penetration of Pond's rich moisturized lanolin to thirsty tissues far below. Almost overnight, skin dried out by harsh weather, indoor heat, low-fat diets, regains its softness, smoothness . . . looks young again! Use POND'S DRY SKIN CREAM regularly. In jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold.

9 IN MEMORIAM

HINKSMAN—In loving, everlasting memory of F. C. Hinksman, passed away April 11, 1962.

Memories are treasures no one can steal,
Death leaves a wound no one can heal,
A silent thought brings many a tear,
Of the one missed, and loved so very dear.
"In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same."

—Always remembered and sadly missed by Aunty Mabel, Cousin Jane, England, and Fay.

QUINN — In memory of Francis J. Quinn, who passed away, April 12, 1962.

We do not forget you, nor do we intend,
We think of you often, and will to the end;
Gone and forgotten by some you may be,
But dear to our memory you ever will be.

—Ever remembered by his loving wife and family.

WOOD—In loving memory of my dear husband, J. F. O. Wood, Johnny passed away April 12, 1958. Always thoughtful, always kind Beautiful memories he left behind. —Always remembered by his loving wife Ada.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

Here is a hand that I first ran across around 1935 or '36. It is a rather tricky problem hand. The question is: Can South make his normal three notrump contract against perfect defence?

Declarer can count three club tricks, three diamond tricks, two hearts and a spade provided that he can get them all in.

A moderate amount of study will show that one or maybe two duck plays are necessary. Thus, when spades are played, it is essential that South let East's queen hold the first spade trick in order to shut out West's low spades. If hearts are played, it is necessary to duck the second heart lead so as to shut out East's fourth heart.

It wouldn't take a good bridge player long to see all this. After a while he might even be cajoled into betting that he could make the hand. At that point the trap would be sprung, since perfect defence will hold South to eight tricks.

The play starts out simply. The six of spades is opened and East's queen holds the trick. The five of spades is led back. West takes his ace and sets up his last two spades.

Haven't we been over all this before? Won't South go right over to dummy and lead a diamond in order to establish three diamond tricks?

Hasn't a rather obvious play been overlooked? Any East player worth his salt would surely discard his ace of diamonds on the third spade. At least he would do so when he is looking at all the cards. Now the jack of diamonds becomes an entry to the West hand, and South is set.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

PORKY WILSON HEARD HIS FOLKS SAY UNCLE AMOS WON A BARREL OF MONEY IN THE SWEEPSTAKES, LEANDER!— DO YOU THINK WE'RE REALLY RICH NOW?
DON'T BE SILLY, ALVIN! WHEN GROWN-UPS ARE LOADED WITH MONEY — LIKE HANK FLYMER'S UNCLE PRESCOTT — THEY WEAR OLD CLOTHES AND TALK ABOUT HOW BAD BUSINESS IS!— BUT IF THEY'RE BROKE, THEY GET ALL DOLLED UP AND BRAG ABOUT HOW WELL THEY'RE DOIN'! — FROM THE WAY UNCLE BULGY IS PUTTING ON AIRS, I'D SAY NOTHIN'S CHANGED MUCH!
THAT'S STRAIGHT THINKING, LEANDER!
BILL FREYSE

OUT OUR WAY

SAY! WHAT'S THE COMMOTION OUT THERE?
I'M JUST GIVING THIS LITTLE SNIP A TASTE OF HIS OWN MEDICINE! I CAUGHT HIM SHINING HIS SHOES WITH ONE OF MY BLOUSES, SO I'M GONNA WIPE OFF THE CAR WITH ONE OF HIS SHIRTS!
WELL, IT JIST HAPPENS I SAW YOUR BLOUSE ON THE FLOOR AN' THOUGHT IT WAS A RAG! BUT YOU DON'T HAVE ANY EXCUSE— YOU SNATCHED THAT SHIRT RIGHT OFFA MY BACK! HAND IT OVER!

80 BOATS AND MARINE

JUST THE BEST

Boats are often described as "like new." The only way was to describe this 21' Brandlmayr is "better than new." Her 75 hp Johnson is fitted with an alternator, and gives her over 20 knots. She is well equipped and has an enclosed head, and is just the best little flying bridge cruiser in her class. Look her over at Van Isle this weekend.

SOLID COMFORT

If you fancy leisurely cruising for 5 or 6 people, this is for you. Solid, sound and a good sea boat of the displacement type, her equipment is very complete, including radio-phone, bilge blower, automatic fire protection, large dinghy with outboard and propane stove.

These are just two of the many fine boats we are offering for sale. We have large and small boats—inboard, outboard and sail. Come out and see them this weekend. Steve Dickinson and Geoff Simpson will be here to help you, and will quote you extended payments if required. There is ample free parking on our lot.

UPLANDS SEAFRONTAGE

Situated on over 1½ acres of valuable parklike land, beautifully landscaped and with facilities for an outdoor swimming pool, this stately home offers the best to be found in a traditional home of quality. Few homes were better designed for entertaining on a grand scale and few homes have been better maintained over the years. The impressive entrance hall, the large and attractive living room, large separate dining room, library, the cleverly modernized kitchen with adjoining dinette and family room are all indicative of a truly pleasant adventure in living. There is an artistic open stairway to 5 bedrooms and four bathrooms upstairs. The master bedroom, dressing room and bathroom en suite is probably one of the best examples of this arrangement in Victoria. Another outstanding feature of this home is that EVERY ROOM has a magnificent view. We will be pleased to give you further particulars on request.

151 COUNTRY HOMES AND PROPERTIES

LAKESHORE ESTATE
5 Minutes from City Hall

Complete with two of the oldest sounds in the world: the primeval call of the loon as he quavers a salute to the grey mists of a brand new sunrise, and the pulse-pumping smack of a big fat trout as he "belly-flops" for his breakfast. Here will be found those elements of nature's grace for which, down through the ages, man's heart has thumped.

Over 6 acres of wooded pasture; meadow; sun-dappled orchard and lawn; peace and quiet; 300 feet of beach he can call HIS — and his alone!

The camillias are now in bloom. So are the primulas, primroses, hyacinths. Soon the magnolia, cherry, flowering almond, apple, the lilacs and the roses will add their neckels worth. And the dogwoods too, with blossoms big as saucers! It's a haven for pheasant, quail, finches, humming birds and squirrels. Out front is a wee island where the wild geese, ducks and red wing blackbirds are now nesting.

The lawns are as green and flat as a billiard table and power equipment to keep them is included in the price.

Dignity! Charm! Luxury! and Functional Comfort! all are a part of this older and splendidly renovated home. 4 bedrooms, 2 bathrooms, den, dream kitchen in powder blue and white with ALL the built-in appliances, copper plumbing! Hot water heat! 220 volt wiring! 3 fireplaces! 3-car garage! Living room papered in wedgewood with the white part embossed, and has a carved floral wall to wall carpet knee deep to a short peasant!

Owner to transfer and is anxious for quick sale. To that end the full price of $55,000.00, representing only a fraction of cost, has been fixed.

Please allow me to state that in response to one of our ads in this paper recently, a reader in Saskatchewan phoned, came, bought, and is highly pleased with the property. So whoever you are, wherever you may be, may I suggest that the price of a phone call is tiny indeed, if it confirms the suspicion you now have that this property is truly for you. I'm at the office during the day and my home number is 743-2059. May I hear from you? Before the dogwoods bloom? Please ask for John Roach.

THE CORPORATION OF THE DISTRICT OF OAK BAY
BY-LAW NO. 2466

A By-law to provide for the acquisition of property and the construction of a Recreation Centre and to authorize the borrowing of the estimated cost thereof.
WHEREAS the Municipal Council of The Corporation of the District of Oak Bay deems it desirable and expedient to construct a Recreation Centre;
AND WHEREAS the Council deems it to be necessary to acquire Lots 3 to 45, both inclusive, Section 69, Plan 249, and Lots 1 and 2, Section 69, Plan 3502, Victoria District, the said lots being situate on Marrion Street, Bee Street, Goldsmith Street and Foul Bay Road, to establish a site for the proposed Recreation Centre;
AND WHEREAS the Council has caused preliminary plans and estimates to be prepared by its architect, the said plans being posted on display in the Municipal Hall, Oak Bay, and the specifications deposited in the office of the Municipal Engineer at the Municipal Hall, Oak Bay;
AND WHEREAS it is estimated that it will be necessary to provide a sum not exceeding $1,421,000 for the construction of the proposed Recreation Centre including acquisition of land, furnishings, landscaping, paving, and incidental expenses in connection therewith;
AND WHEREAS the sum of $1,421,000 is the maximum amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-law;
AND WHEREAS it is necessary that the said money to be raised hereunder be raised on the credit of the said Corporation;
AND WHEREAS the existing debenture debt of the said Corporation is $1,817,024 and none of the principal and interest in respect thereto is in arrears;
AND WHEREAS the assessed value for general municipal purposes of the taxable land and improvements within the said Corporation for the current year and the two years immediately preceding the current year is as follows:

1962	$43,020,180
1963	$43,963,150
1964	$45,037,070

AND WHEREAS the approval of the Inspector of Municipalities has been obtained;
THEREFORE the Municipal Council of The Corporation of the District of Oak Bay enacts as follows:
1. The Council shall be and is hereby empowered and authorized to acquire Lots 3 to 45 both inclusive, Section 69, Plan 249 and Lots 1 and 2, Section 69, Plan 3502, Victoria District, the said lots being situate on Marrion Street, Bee Street, Goldsmith Street and Foul Bay Road, and to construct thereon a recreational centre in accordance with the plans and specifications on deposit in the office of the Municipal Engineer at the Municipal Hall, Oak Bay.
2. For the purpose and with the object aforesaid there may be borrowed upon the credit of the said Corporation, a sum not exceeding $1,421,000, and such borrowing shall be secured by the issue of series of debentures bearing interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum (6%) per annum, provided, however, that the last of such series of debentures shall be redeemed not later than twenty years after the date of issue.
3. In each year during the currency of the said debentures, there shall be levied and raised by rate sufficient therefor, over and above all other rates, on all land and improvements subject to taxation for general municipal purposes within the said Corporation at the same time and in the same manner as other rates, a special rate to provide for the repayment of the debt hereby created and the interest thereon.
4. This By-law, before adoption, shall receive the assent of the owner-electors in the manner provided by the "Municipal Act."
5. This By-law shall take effect on the date of its adoption by Council.
6. This By-law may be cited as the "Recreation Centre Construction and Property Acquisition Financing By-law, 1964."
Take notice that the above is a true copy of the proposed by-law upon which the vote of the owner-electors of the Municipality will be taken at the Municipal Hall, 2167 Oak Bay Avenue, Oak Bay, on Saturday, the 25th day of April, 1964 between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m., and an ADVANCED POLL will be opened at the Municipal Hall, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on each of the two days immediately preceding the day of the Poll (April 23rd and 24th), and that E. H. Hart has been appointed Returning Officer for the purpose of taking and recording the vote of owner-electors.
Dated at Oak Bay, this 7th day of April, 1964.
E. H. HART,
Municipal Clerk.
The proposed By-law was introduced and given 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Reading by the Municipal Council of Oak Bay on March 23, 1964, and received the approval of the Inspector of Municipalities on March 31, 1964, but is not effective unless approved by the electors of the Municipality.

Coach House Group Led to Rural Church

The church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, Saanich, will celebrate its 50th anniversary Sunday.

It originated as a Sunday school organized by Mrs. S. Wilkinson, who occupied a dairy farm a few yards away from the present site.

Mrs. Wilkinson held her Sunday school classes in an old coach house at the corner of Obed and Dysart and they grew into services of worship conducted by two laymen with occasional visits by city ministers.

The mission church of St. Jude's was opened on April 12, 1914. The first lay reader was H. H. Smith, now a prominent member of Christ Church Cathedral.

BUILT BY REQUEST

Rev. J. Lloyd Keating, who came here from St. Martin-in-the-Fields, London, England, became attached to the mission church and left a sum of money to build a new church on condition it was named St. Martin-in-the-Fields.

The church was built with volunteer labor and duly dedicated as St. Martin-in-the-Fields in 1926. A tower to house the big bell, brought from St. Jude's, was donated by Mrs. Keating.

Impaired Drivers Fined $300 Each; One Man Jailed

Three persons were each fined $300 and a fourth was sent to jail for 30 days after they were picked up in an impaired condition by police early today.

James Loewen, 225 Mary, who was convicted of impaired driving in 1960, received the jail sentence. He told police who arrested him on Pandora that he thought he was in Duncan.

Douglas Richards, 831 Shamrock, was picked up by city police on Government after he narrowly missed hitting a car.

Peter Barnes, Windsor Auto Court, lost control of his car and ended up in the flower bed in front of 804 Dominion.

Francis Donegani, 3355 Beach Drive, was stopped after his car weaved three times to the wrong side of the road as he drove along Nottingham.

All four lost their driver's licences.

Bad Weather Blamed For Crashes

B.C. motorists are more accident-prone than ever this year.

Provincial safety officials think it's the weather.

Figures for the first quarter of 1964 include a 12 per cent increase in accidents and 19 per cent more injuries than the first three months of last year.

There has been no increase in the number of deaths, however, totalling 73 to the end of March, the same as 1963.

There were 7,200 accidents during the same period, compared to 6,476 last year.

Injuries this year total 3,100, against 2,596 in 1963.

WEATHER INFLUENCE

A Motor Vehicles Branch official said there appears to be a relationship between the weather and the number of accidents.

January, when the biggest increase was recorded, was a particularly hazardous month for drivers, he said.

Better weather in February and March was accompanied by an immediate drop in accidents.

The official said that despite the increase in accidents and injuries, people were not hurt as badly this year.

He said seat belts—compulsory on all new cars for the first time this year—are probably helping to reduce the severity of injuries and to keep the death toll from mounting.

Income Tax Jam Bigger At City HQ

If attendance figures are an indication, Victoria's income tax office is one of the most popular places in town.

From Jan. 2 to the close of business Thursday, 6,692 taxpayers had questions answered personally by the counter staff at the revenue department's offices in the Belmont Building.

A further 3,691 citizens had their questions answered by a telephone team during the same period.

"Since the February and March figures are nearly three times the January ones, it is likely the month of April will be a busy time indeed," a revenue department spokesman said.

This year for the first time, taxpayers who owe taxes can file early and attach cheques post-dated to the April 30 tax deadline.

The staff at the tax office is able to increase the help it can give taxpayers because the actual filed tax returns are processed electronically in Ottawa.

Shriners Charter Ship for Cruise

A five-day charter cruise for Shriners will start the CPR cruise ship Princess Patricia on her second season on the Vancouver-Alaska run May 6.

She is also booked for another 5-day cruise May 11 to Ketchikan.

Regular cruises to Skagway begin May 17, first of 12 regular sailings.

The Princess Patricia has also been chartered for a run to Ketchikan May 26 by the B.C. Medical Association.

City, Firemen Negotiating Promotions

City Hall and Victoria firefighters union officials are in the midst of negotiations on revamping the system of promoting men to senior positions in the fire department, city manager Dennis Young confirmed today.

He was commenting on the absence of an appointment to replace recently-retired deputy fire chief James Robertson.

Mr. Young said this year's working agreement settlement included a provision that the question of senior appointments would be negotiated and, if no agreement is reached by Sept. 1, put to arbitration as a last resort.

The city has several times sought to change the present system which, with the union's strong approval, makes seniority the chief criterion for promotions.

About three years ago, civic officials tried to introduce a new system involving more emphasis on ability and examinations but dropped the issue until a formal training program could be introduced this year.

Archbishop To Conduct Rites For Mrs. Page

Archbishop Harold Sexton will conduct funeral services in Christ Church Cathedral Monday at 11:15 a.m. for Mrs. A. M. Page, who died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Friday night after a fall.

Mrs. Page, 93, was the mother of Canon B. T. Page, rector of St. Barnabas' Anglican Church, and lived at 1601 Begbie.

She fell in an alcove near the entrance to St. Barnabas' Church at Belmont and Begbie and was found there later by a neighbor. She apparently slipped while climbing the stairs to the church.

Canon Page told police he left his mother at tthe residence and wasn't aware she was going over to the church. Mrs. Page was found at 5:10 p.m. and died at 9 p.m.

'TEACH' SETS TORRID PACE —INTO COURT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mark Farnell, 21, an elementary school teacher, was fined $50 Friday for speeding during a 70-mile-an-hour drag race down arterial Kingsway.

Farnell pleaded guilty in Burnaby court. His licence was suspended for six months.

Court was told Farnell and another driver were drag racing at high speeds along the 30-mile-an-hour street. Police caught Farnell's car but the other vehicle outraced the police cruiser.

"I'm rather surprised to find that the teachers in Burnaby are so irresponsible on the highways," said Magistrate Murray Hyde.

"Don't judge all the teachers by me," replied Farnell.

MacARTHUR PLAN FOR STALIN

'End Cold War by Threat To Rearm Germany, Japan'

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur's post-Korean plan to end the cold war involved threatening Soviet dictator Stalin that Germany and Japan would be completely rearmed unless the Red satellite people were granted self-determination, a congressman has disclosed.

Representative William Jennings Bryan Dorn (Dem.—S.C.) said MacArthur told him of this plan to bring Russia into line in an interview in New York. Dorn said he was uncertain of the year, but thought it was 1956.

The gist of MacArthur's plan was the missing part of newspaper accounts this week that projected the general into a swirl of post-humous controversy.

In a 10-year-old interview published Wednesday while MacArthur's body was lying in state in the Capitol Rotunda, Bob Considine of the Hearst Headline Service disclosed the existence of the plan and described how MacArthur tried to convince Dwight D. Eisenhower, then the president-elect, to put it into effect.

But Considine wrote that MacArthur told him, "I don't feel it would be fair to reveal my plan to you. It would be an unfair burden on you as a reporter."

Born said there was no such reluctance when he and two other congressmen visited MacArthur in 1956. John Foster Dulles, who became Eisenhower's secretary of state, was also present.

'THREATEN RUSSIA'

"The plan suggested by MacArthur to president-elect Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles was to threaten Russia with a complete rearmament of Germany and Japan, possibly including nuclear power, unless Stalin agreed to live up to his promise of the self-determination of the peoples of Poland, East Germany and Central Europe."

That description was written by Dorn Monday night and inserted in the Congressional Record, as a minor part of a long eulogy of MacArthur. It escaped notice until Friday, when a reporter interviewed Dorn and was given details. The printed

DORN
. . . Ike inspired

Dorn account pre-dated the publication of the Considine account.

In Mankato, Kan., former representative Wint Smith, one of the two congressmen who accompanied Dorn, said he agreed with Dorn's description except that "I don't remember that MacArthur said he had told Eisenhower those things."

"In fact I'm certain he didn't," Smith said. "MacArthur was talking about what could be done."

Smith said it was his recollection that the interview took place in 1954.

The third congressman, Representative Lawrence K. Smith, a Republican from Wisconsin, died in 1958.

MacArthur's aide, Maj.-Gen. Courtney Whitey, who Dorn said also attended the meeting, declined comment.

The Considine interview and one by Scripps - Howard reporter Jim G. Lucas published this week, also after a lapse of 10 years, both mentioned the general's plans to win the Korean War by using nuclear bombs across the Yalu River in Red China, sowing a five-mile belt of radio-active cobalt along the border, and bringing in Nationalist Chinese troops from Formosa to mop up the Reds.

In the interview about the plan to end the cold war, Dorn said MacArthur emphasized over and over to Eisenhower that Stalin was an old man who might die at any moment, and that Eisenhower should act immediately after taking office.

"Stalin is a realist, and you could threaten him," Dorn quoted MacArthur as telling the president-elect.

Considine's story said MacArthur told Eisenhower "you have the greatest opportunity for good since the birth of Jesus Christ," and that Eisenhower at the end jumped up, his face flushed, and said, "It's magnificent."

But Considine quoted MacArthur as saying the "cool, calculating voice" of Dulles broke in and dissuaded Eisenhower.

Vocational Schools Get Cabinet Okay

The provincial cabinet has given final approval to a new vocational school at North Vancouver and a vocational wing in a Trail school.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said Friday the new facilities, to be provided under the Federal Vocational Schools Assistance Act, will cost $300,000 more than had been provived for when tentative plans were okayed last year.

Separate orders-in-council approved expenditures of $1,473,600 for the new North Vancouver Vocational Secondary School and $230,000 for a vocational addition to Trail's J. Lloyd Crowe Secondary School.

Mr. Peterson said original estimates had been $1,248,680 for the North Vancouver school and $148,000 for the Trail facilities.

He said that as a consequence of the large increase in the Trail addition the school trustees have agreed to recall tenders.

Hellyer Optimistic On Ship Contracts

New Program After July

By PETE LOUDON

New naval ship contracts will be let as soon as possible after July, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer said here today.

He said a study of anti-submarine weapons systems will be completed in July.

"As soon as possible after that we can expect to be back in the ship procurement business," the minister added.

COAST TO SHARE

Mr. Hellyer, here on a one-day visit to defence establishments, said he could see no reason why Victoria and Vancouver shipyards would not share in contracts let at that time.

The minister said he realized that cost factors are higher in west coast yards, but "I am sure you can get your prices in line and share in the business."

He said he could give no definite word on the type of vessels the maritime defence system would require. Additional special studies will be given to a suggested need for vessels for troop transport and supply, he added.

He suggested that such vessels might be combined with vessels suited to carrying helicopters.

FUTURE USE

The study now being conducted by the defence department includes future uses of submarines, surface vessels, aircraft and combinations of all three.

He thought the findings would contribute to defence spending of an estimated $4 billion in the next four years.

At the same time, he said current plans to integrate the three services and streamline military operations could save about $1 billion over a decade.

Mr. Hellyer said there has been a "tremendous response" to the unification plan which was gratifying to the government.

"The integration will streamline effectiveness, reduce reaction time and save on purchases of equipment," he stated.

UNIFORM DISTANT

But the day when all forces will wear one uniform is not yet in sight, he cautioned, despite an earlier report from Ottawa that this would occur in 1965. He said this was corrected in the Commons.

It might come about "sometime" he said, because when the services are integrated under a single command there will be need for cross-postings in the many trades that now overlap.

The minister was unable to give details on how quickly the integration will proceed. First there would be integration of the top headquarters staff at Ottawa.

"The biggest wastage of manpower (if you can call it that) is there," he said.

Asked whether a single service would mean merger of the army base at Chilliwack with the navy base here or the RCAF base at Sea Island, the minister refused to speculate.

"I would think in due course

MAKARIOS CONFERS IN ATHENS

ATHENS (UPI) — Greek Premier George Papandreou conferred for three and a half hours today with Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios and said after the meeting "complete agreement was established" on the Cyprus question.

Makarios flew in this morning to align strategy with the Greek government and discuss possible return of famed Greek Cypriot underground leader Gen. George Grivas to the embattled island.

Makarios said he expected to meet Grivas either later tonight or Sunday.

Greeks Attack In Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Greek-Cypriots today launched a series of attacks against Turkish-Cypriot military positions in what appeared to be a major effort to wipe out Turkish military resistance in Northeast Cyprus.

The number of casualties was not immediately reported. United Nations peace forces rushed to the area but fighting continued and UN officials predicted a major Greek-Cypriot attack on the Nicosia-Kyrenia Highway.

In Nicosia, thousands of Greek-Cypriot students swarmed through the capital streets with banners demanding that British troops leave Cyprus.

Neutral authorities feared a Greek Cypriot attack against the Nicosia-Kyrenia highway would embroil them in direct fighting with the 650 Turkish troops here under a Turco-Greek treaty abrogated last week by President Makarios. The Turkish army guards part of the highway.

STRATEGIC

The highway is particularly strategic because the Turkish Cypriots would like for it to serve as a boundary if they ever win the partition they have demanded. Makarios abrogated the treaty because the Turks refused to return to their barracks from their positions along the highway.

The heaviest Greek Cypriot attack was reported at the Turkish stronghold of St. Hilarion Castle, high in the mountains overlooking Kyrenia—the castle used by Walt Disney as a model for "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Reoprts from the scene said the Greeks were pouring heavy fire up the mountain toward the castle from positions to the north and the south.

Castro Escaped 'Hot Mike' Plot

HALIFAX, N.S. (UPI) — A plot to assassinate Fidel Castro during a television address to the Cuban nation was betrayed in its final hours, three Cuban defectors said Friday night.

Several television actors and technicians planned to electrocute the Cuban leader during a television speech at the University of Havana, March 13, the refugees said. The occasion marked the 1958 students' attack on the presidential palace.

Two leading TV personalities were executed and some 15 technicians and actors, including six women, were jailed after a fellow actor revealed the plan to police, the refugees added.

The three Cubans, former stevedores at Havana harbor, escaped from Cuba via ship recently and now are in immigration detention quarters here.

The refugee, fearing harm to their families in Cuba, agreed to speak only if their names were not used.

They recounted the alleged assassination attempt through an interpreter.

"The technicians were going to hook a high voltage cable to the microphone that Castro would use during his speech. When he grabbed the microphone, they would throw a switch and the current would kill Castro.

"But two days before the speech, police arrested the actors and technicians. There were no regular programs on the TV network (CMQ) for two days, only pictures. An Enrique Santiesteban (described as a TV master of ceremonies) and George Guerrero (a poetry reader) were killed. The others were put in jail.

"Ramon Veloz (described as a singer) was the one who betrayed the plan," the Cubans said.

The three are seeking political asylum in the United States.

Socred Urges 'Five-Party Government'

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit Leader Thompson said today a national government, formed of the best talent from all five party groups, is the only solution to the critical problems now facing the federal administration.

He said in an interview that such a step may also be the only way to save the country from complete political chaos.

Mr. Thompson said a five-party government, replacing the minority Liberal administration, would be made up of men convinced of "the absolute necessity to forget old labels and old formulas" and would rally the nation as it had never been rallied before.

DOCTORS STILL STRIKE

Belgium Hit By Epidemic

BRUSSELS (UPI)—A highly infectious children's disease was reported sweeping eastern Belgium today, as talks between the government and striking doctors appeared on the verge of collapse.

Observers said the skeleton medical staffs organized by the striking doctors would be swamped by even minor epidemics.

Reports from Liege and Luxbourg provinces said the infectious disease, not immediately identified, was reported in a dozen cases. Doctors warned parents not ao allow their children to return to school Monday when the Easter vacation ends.

But in an ominous warning from the government, Premier Theo Lefevre announced "the strike must end before we will re-open negotiations" on possible reconsideration of the nation's new health scheme, against which the doctors are protesting.

Doctors' representatives and government officials were to meet again today at Val Duchess Chateau outside Brussels—but only to discuss ways of reopening negotiations which broke down April 1, precipitating the strike.

Lefevre said angrily that "any normal group" would have stopped its strike and started negotiations at the point reached Friday after a seven-hour talk between the two parties.

"I hope this will not become known as the time of the assassins," Lefevre said as he entered the conference hall to begin the talks.

BRUSSELS — Sources close to the government said here tonight there was "good hope" that agreement would be reached later tonight which would end the strike of Belgium's 12,000 doctors.

ATTACKS PRESS

Lawyer Believes Oswald Innocent

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — New York lawyer Mark Lane, who has conducted his own investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy, Friday night accused the American press, radio and television of waging a deliberate campaign to delude the American people.

Lane, who represented the mother of Lee Harvey Oswald, said he is convinced Oswald had not fired the shots that killed Kennedy in Dallas Nov. 22.

The press campaign had included deliberate falsifications, he said, adding that "most of the overwhelming questions have not been answered by any official source."

The lawyer said he had a statement from the policeman who found a rifle in the building where Oswald was supposed to have fired the shots.

The rifle found there was a German Mauser, yet later official statements say it was an Italian carbine, he said. He said these two weapons are so different it would be difficult to make such a mistake.

A taxi driver who drove Oswald from the scene had been named by police, but Lane said his investigations of Dallas records showed no taxi driver of this name had ever driven a cab in Dallas.

SAYS PHOTOS VARY

Lane stated he had seen six different versions of a photograph showing Oswald holding a rifle and a revolver.

Scratches on the negative showing in the prints proved the six versions were from the same negative, Lane said. But the rifle held by Oswald had been retouched and close examination showed the different retouchers had inserted different type of rifles.

He said Newsweek magazine had obtained a hitherto unpublished and "sensational" statement from Dr. Malcolm Perry of Dallas Hospital, where the president was treated after being shot, in which the doctor altered his original testimony about Kennedy's throat wound.

Perry oiginally stated the wound in the president's throat was made by an entering bullet and later said it was an exit wound, the lawyer declared.

The doctor's statement indicated the change had been forced on him to match the official explanation that Oswald shot Kennedy from behind, Lane said.

NEW SERIES STARTS IN 'TIMES'

'Fathers of Confederation'

It is 100 years ago this year that Canadian leaders got together at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, to discuss the organization of Canada into a nation.

Three years later Confederation came about. The centenary of this event will be celebrated on a grand scale in 1967.

British Columbia, which had been establishing itself independently out on the Pacific Coast, did not join the nation until 1871, and claims roots going back long before.

But the men who met in Charlottetown are classed as "The Fathers of Confederation."

As a mark of respect to their vision in forging the nation, and as a reminder to the younger generation of the work done by those who have gone before, the Times will launch a special feature beginning next Tuesday.

It consists of a gifted artist's drawings of "The Fathers" with biographical descriptions of who they were and the parts they played.

There are 33 men involved. The feature will appear three times a week for the next 11 weeks, which covers the rest of the school term for those who are studying this milestone in Canada's development.

The articles will appear in a form that makes them suitable for students to use them in scrapbooks.

Hatching plans for the new Bank of B.C. is best done under a warm sun, our leader believes.

And what finer incubator than beaches of the Bahamas, where Premier Bennett's eternal confidant—and bank director—Einar Gunderson also lolled this week.

Gunderson

The premier went from the federal-provincial talks at Quebec to the Caribbean, where Mr. Gunderson also was basking.

Mr. Bennett left Nassau earlier this week to stop in Toronto and will stay until after the Stanley Cup playoff game tonight.

He has a decided preference for sun and azure skies to dispel post-sessional weariness, having spent holidays in Palm Springs, Hawaii and Arizona.

Don't sing in your car late at night—it might be misunderstood.

A musical friend of ours was vocalizing to himself as he drove home after midnight, but stopped in the middle of a bar when he heard a low growling noise behind him. The growling came from a police siren and the policeman wanted to see his licence.

As our friend was "unimpaired," he got his licence back with a courteous "Thank you" and "Good night" from the man in blue.

Ten were bought, nine are accounted for—and the RCAF wants the tenth for a National Air Force Day exhibit near Ottawa on June 6.

The Siskin was sold as war surplus in 1946, but there is no record who bought it.

Anyone knowing its whereabouts is asked to contact the staff officer for public relations, RCAF Station, St. Hubert, Quebec, or write to the directorate of public relations at air force headquarters, Ottawa.

Weekend Magazine writer Stephen Franklin, who wrote a 99 per cent true—if colored—tribute to Victoria in the recent all-Canada issue of Holiday magazine, has won us one friend at least.

Holiday publisher James M. White has written Visitors' Bureau commissioner Alan Maclean that he will be here in May for his first Victoria vacation.

Mr. White was here in March to meet local dignitaries and to hand out special leather-bound copies of the historic issue.

He will bring his wife and young son for about three weeks.

As prominent a man as you could find in Pacific Northwest art circles right now is Philip McCracken of Guemes Island, near Anacortes, who has just been named Artist of the Year in Washington State. But this high honor—it has never been bestowed before—has left him a down-to-earth and modest individual.

A special show of his sculpture is now on view at the Art Gallery, Moss Street, along with Governor's Invitational Show from the State of Washington.

Mr. McCracken was due to attend the formal opening of the show last Tuesday evening and receive the lionizing that was his due. But he sent word at the last moment of his inability to be present.

The reason: His goat had produced kids, and the infants needed the artist's tender care.

When University of Victoria student's weekly Martlet reappears in September it will have a new face as well as new faces helping to put it out.

The paper, now printed by letterpress process—like the Times—switches to offset printing in the fall.

The change will allow Martlet to use more cartoons, photos and drawings with less strain on a limited budget.

Last edition for 1963-64 came out Thursday.

Police Recover Niagara Loot

MONTREAL (CP) — Police said today at least $815,600 in bonds and other valuables were recovered in raids that brought the arrest of three men in connection with the robbery of a bank in Niagara Falls, Ont.

Police identified the man arrested Thursday as Henri-Joseph Lizotte, 46, of Montreal and those arrested Friday as Robert Simpson, 43, of Toronto and Joseph Kinisky, 39, of Hamilton, Ont.

The robbery took place at a branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce the weekend of March 22. Niagara Falls police estimated the loot afterwards as about $400,000.

Police said officers here raided an apartment is suburban Pont Viau Friday and recovered about $500,000 in bonds and securities, $9,000 in cash and $56,000 in travellers' cheques. Two occupants of the apartment were arrested.

Authorities said a raid Thursday night resulted in the recovery of $250,600 worth of bonds in a Montreal home. The third man arrested was found there watching television.

Det. Sgt. Donald Harris of the Niagara Falls police said the loot "could well amount to $1,000,000 when we've finished counting."

P. E. Tourville of the Montreal police said the investigation will be carried to the United States where some of the stolen travellers' cheques were cashed.

Bigots Invited To Sue

TORONTO (CP) — The vice-chairman of the Canadian Jewish Congress says those who object to being named publicly as having spread hate literature can take legal action if they want.

Lawyer Sydney Harris named a Toronto printing-firm and 15 individuals Thursday, saying they had been involved in the circulation of anti-Jewish literature.

Most of the people he named reacted indignantly to the charges. Three indicated they were considering suing both Mr. Harris and a newspaper which published their names.

Meanwhile, Justice Minister Favreau said here Friday his department is giving "our most careful consideration" to three separate briefs asking for action against hate literature.

"Any legislation intended to curb and punish such shameful and resentful practices must, at the same time, be worded in such a way that it will not encroach upon or violate either the freedom of thought, of speech, of the press or even of association," he said in an interview.

Engine Trouble Grounds C-124 At Patricia Bay

A huge C-124 U.S. Air Force transport plane was temporarily grounded by engine trouble at Patricia Bay airport this morning.

Operating out of McChord near Tacoma, the plane was on a training mission. After landing here and taking off it developed trouble in its number four engine and returned for repair, crewmen stated.

The plane has been engaged in relief flights to the Alaska earthquake disaster area and is partly loaded with sewer pipe.

Lengthy, Bitter Grind Predicted in Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — Political sources say the government is determined to grit its teeth in anticipation of a long, tough period in the Commons, possibly extending through most of the summer.

An early election, while gaining favor recently among Liberal MPs and some of the cabinet ministers, has been ruled out, informants say.

The Progressive Conservative Opposition, which has debated at length and in detail everything that has come before the House in the last two weeks, is said to be determined to follow the same course for the rest of the parliamentary session.

In the face of these tactics, the Liberal hierarchy is reported to have met to assess the government's course.

Suggestions of an early election were said to have been defeated on the argument that a federal election campaign would so inflame the problem of French-Canada's claim that Quebec secession would be the result.

Few Liberals will agree with the assessment of other Opposition parties that the government would be soundly defeated in a federal election at this time.

NOT AS OPTIMISTIC

But they do not appear to be as optimistic of their immediate chances at the polls as they were earlier in the session.

Among Conservatives the prevalent view is that an early election would produce sufficient gains of seats in Ontario and the Atlantic provinces to return them to power.

Barring some change of mood in the Commons and some arrangement to allocate debating time on legislative proposals, the Conservatives appear prepared to give every measure rough passage.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Residents of Oak Bay and other interested citizens are invited to attend a meeting to be held at Uplands Elementary School at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 16, 1964, to hear proposals and see plans for the development of the 35 acres of land being part of the Lansdowne Campus located within the Municipality of Oak Bay.

Graduation Ceremony at Uvic Will Have Own 'Personality'

By AB KENT

University of Victoria will award twice as many degrees next month as it did last year.

The 1964 class should be around 160, although the final number depends on examinations starting a week from today.

Congregation, preceded by a baccalaureate service in St. Andrew's Cathedral the night before, is set for May 25 at Gordon Head gymnasium.

Convocation speaker will be Mnsgr. Jacques Garneau of Canadian Universities Foundation, whose subject will be Knowledge and Understanding.

He is originally from Laval University, but has represented all Canadian universities via the foundation for a number of years.

NEW SIGNIFICANCE

For the first time, congregation will take on a special significance and character for University of Victoria, which was created only last July 1, folowing 1963 congregation.

Classics professor Dr. Peter Smith, who has been working on the program, said the ritual will be "not greatly distinctive from UBC", but we did want it to have some personality of its own."

This has been achieved largely in the wording used during the ceremony—it is hoped the chancellor will say "admitto te" instead of "I admit you" when he taps candidates with his cap in the medieval rite—and in academic dress, which will be brilliantly colorful.

Ritualistic flavor is handed down through the centuries and a touch of archaism such as the Latin words above will enhance the effect, it is felt.

TRADITIONAL

It is traditional, for instance, for the candidate for convocation to drop to one knee while being admitted.

But conscientious objectors will not be pressed.

It is hoped the lieutenant-governor will perform the first part of the ceremony, the formal installation of Judge J. B. Clearihue as chancellor.

Veteran faculty member Prof. R. T. Wallace, who is dean of administration, and acting president Dr. W. H. Hickman will play a role, but new president Dr. Malcolm Taylor will not be a part as he does not assume office until July 1.

Professor emeritus Jeffree Cunningham will get the first honorary doctor of laws degree and then the candidates for bachelor of arts, bachelor of science and bachelor of education will receive their diplomas.

DISTINCTIVE COLORS

These, too, will be distinctive, in university colors and having text in English rather than latin.

The president, in royal blue and the chancellor in purple-corded silk, will be outstanding in their new academic dress.

For the first time, all members of the board of governors will be in regalia, grey robes with blue and gold trim, except those who have their own academic qualifications and dress.

Candidates will wear standard black robes and mortarboards and have hoods of Aberdeen cut—scarlet for arts, gold for science and blue for education.

HMCS Naden band will play during the program.

TAX-PAID UNDISTRIBUTED INCOME

Mac-Powell to Pay Out $14 Million

Nearly $14 millions in tax-paid undistributed income of MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. will be paid out to shareholders over the next three years as tax-free redeemable preference shares, company chairman Hon. J. V. Clyne announced today.

Mr. Clyne, in a letter to shareholders accompanying the annual report, said that the proposal to distribute $13,705,347—equivalent to about 65 cents per share — would be made at the annual meeting in Vancouver April 28.

If it is approved a stock dividend of one new preference share of $1 par value will be issued for each five ordinary shares to holders of record May 18. The new shares will be redeemed for cash and further preference shares will be issued "as the directors deem expedient" until all the undistributed income has been paid out.

Most the tax-paid income, Mr. Clyne said, originated at the time of the amalgamation between Bloedel, Stewart and Welch and H. R. MacMillan Export Company in 1951.

No alteration in the present rate of dividends on common share is contemplated, the letter stated, and it will remain at the present rate of 25 cents per quarter.

The annual report of Canada's largest forest industry firm showed net earnings for 1963 reached $36,660,068, an increase of $578,259 over 1962, and equivalent to $1.76 per share.

Sales and other income for the year amounted to $349,368,343, an increase of $18,699,300 over the previous year.

About $4 millions of the income increase was a result of additional freight included in offshore customers' billings compared with 1962 while sales by the company for the accounts of other firms rose by $5 millions. The balance of the increase in sales is attributable to gains in sales of MacMillan, Bloedel products.

Mr. Clyne commented that the company looks forward confidently to this year with the outlook for a strong pulp market and good demand for lumber and plywood.

COLLIERIES BID DEFINITE

VANCOUVER (CP)—The newly-formed Weldwood of Canada Ltd. Co. Friday notified Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd., that it will make a formal offer Wednesday to purchase all of that company's outstanding 1,559,000 common shares at $13 a share.

Weldwood was formed out of Western Plywood Company Ltd. and its associated Canadian companies, Western Plywood, Weldwood-Westply Ltd. and Hay and Company. All were Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. Plywood Company and the amalgamation under the new name was announced Thursday.

Weldwood, in its invitation to shareholders of Canadian Collieries, said it would reserve the right to withdraw the offer if fewer than 1,150,000 shares have been delivered by May 29, or to an extended date which cannot go beyond June 30.

In the announcement of the incorporation of Weldwood Thursday, it was stated that it was affected to simplify arrangements for the purchase of the resources of Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd.

Should the deal for control of Canadian Collieries go through it is intended to operate it as a corporate subsidiary of Weldwood and to retain its name, Weldwood spokesmen said.

$400 Million Bond Offer By Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Gordon announced Friday a new government financing program that will include a cash offering of $400,000,000 worth of bonds.

Full details of the program will be announced when the formal offering is made Monday.

The announcement said the proceeds of the offering will be used to redeem $360,000,000 of 4 per cent government bonds maturing May 1, and for general purposes.

The bonds will be offered in four maturities—one year two months, two years and 7½ months, five years and two months, and 26 years. The 26-year maturity will be limited to $75,000,000.

The Bank of Canada has agreed to buy $250,000,000 of the new five-year, two-month bonds in exchange for an equal amount of 3¾ per cent bonds maturing Sept. 1, 1965.

The announcement said this transaction would reduce the amount of the outstanding Sept. 1 maturity to $750,000,000, compared with an original issue of $1,267,000,000.

The financing announced Friday is the second step in a program designed to reduce the size of the 1965 maturity to "more manageable proportions."

Vice-Presidency For Trust Official

Victoria manager of the Royal Trust Company, R. W. (Bob) Phipps, is to be appointed a vice-president of the company for the western region next July 1.

He succeeds R. S. Whyte of Vancouver, who has been transferred to Montreal to fill a new post of vice-president of planning and development. Mr. Phipps will remain in Victoria.

Scholarship Concert Bids Conductor Farewell

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Hans Gruber, formerly and for 15 years musical director and conductor of the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, in relinquishing the position last fall commented that the orchestra, its musicians, their welfare . . . "in fact, Victoria generally," would ever lie close to his heart.

Many, many Victorians would reciprocate this feeling.

Through his dedication to serving the orchestra, his personality, his marriage to a charming and gifted Victoria girl, Hans Gruber became an integral, a colorful and a valued part of the community.

He and his family now will leave the city to take up residence in Toronto.

But on the eve of their departure, Mr. Gruber will be the central figure in an event which will pay homage to his years of service and devotion to music.

On Sunday, April 19, a Hans Gruber scholarship benefit concert will be presented at the Royal Theatre. It will be conducted by Otto-Werner Mueller and will feature an all-request program made up of the most popular numbers performed during the immediate past season.

Gruber . . . with orchestra

For this concert the conductor, concert master Arthur Polson and the entire orchestra personnel are providing their services without fee in order that the maximum amount of proceeds may go into the scholarship fund.

This is a fund that will provide scholarships in Mr. Gruber's name for students entering the new Victoria School of Music.

"Must" is not a tag to be attached to any event without great discrimination, but surely if attendance were ever to be based on obligation as well as inclination this is the occasion.

Every one of us who has enjoyed symphonic concerts over the past 15 years, who has felt pride in the achievements of the orchestra and is delighted with the present development, is under an obligation to Hans Gruber.

Without his talents, devotion and unremitting work on behalf of the orchestra, it is unlikely that we would have attracted so major a musical personality as Mr. Mueller to the city; or that establishment of a music school would have advanced beyond the dream; or that top orchestral musicians would be contracting to become resident players.

So, Mr. and Mrs. Victoria Music Lovers, Sunday, April 19, will be your opportunity to express your appreciation, while at the same time making contribution to the school of music.

Weds Victoria singer June Milburn.

All this and heaven—in the form of an outstanding program conducted by Mr. Mueller—as well.

The program incidentally, in its most requested number, Handel's Concert Grosso, will highlight the solo playing of concert master Arthur Polson, Hans Siegrist, the new first cellist from Montreal; and leader of the second violins, Elfreda Sewell.

And seated in the audience, having come from Toronto for the occasion, Mr. Gruber will have an opportunity to hear in perspective, the results of his 15 years in Victoria.

He came to this city as a very young man, in his early twenties, warmly recommended by Sir Ernest Macmillan, after serving as assistant conductor to the University of Toronto orchestra.

Every aspect must have been particularly strange and unfamiliar to a young man who only a few years before had first set foot in Canada from his native Europe.

But it was not long before he had made this city and its people his own.

In 1953 he married June, elder daughter of the musically active Milburn family, and thereafter continually encouraged her in the development of her attractive mezzo soprano voice.

Their four Victoria-born children are a further bond with a city that regrets to see them leave but is grateful for the heritage he leaves behind.

There are not too many ways of showing appreciation for such service as Mr. Gruber has given this community but if by this time next week, a "sold out" sign is on the symphony box office at Eaton's, Mr. Gruber himself would desire no more from those who will always be his fellow citizens.

'BOBINO' ENDS SEASON

Bastion Theatre Moves To New Location Soon

As the current season moves toward a close, there is little in the way of vacation time ahead for Bastion Theatre's Peter Mannering and Wolfgang Baba.

The production of the children's musical comedy, Bobino, is being held over at the Princess and Chambers Streets studio theatre for one or two more Saturday afternoon presentations.

But when it closes and goes to the Albernis for nine performances, the old church will end its seven months' theatrical career for good.

The building has been sold and Mr. Mannering will transfer his activities to the Duck Block at 1318 Broad Street on April 26. Here, next fall, the school sessions at least will continue with productions being undertaken solely on a tour basis, unless arrangements can be made for use of the ballroom in the building.

Tonight in Port Alberni, Shaw's comedy, Candida, will be given a final performance.

In the meantime, Mr. Mannering has been busy auditioning actors for Shakespeare's Richard III which he will direct for the University of Victoria Shakespeare Festival.

Rehearsals for this start May 1 with opening night set as July 16. Preliminary work has included the designing by Mr. Mannering of a complete set of costumes, script conferences and discussions on incidental music with Uvic's Dr. C. L. Lambertson.

Wolfgang Baba, actor, assistant director for many Bastion Theatre productions, master builder of sets and properties, has already started work in the prop department of the festival.

He will assist Mr. Mannering, direct construction work in connection with converting the Lansdowne auditorium for the festival, and in addition will appear in a principal part in The Alchemist, which, with Richard and Midsummer Night's Dream, will form the festival program.

Festival Tunes Up For Monday Start

An event in which, literally, thousands will participate, takes off for a 10-day run, Monday morning at 9.

Spreading itself over six centres and scrutinized by a panel of eight experts, the Greater Victoria Music Festival is an important pacer and standard-setter in the student and adult musical life of the city.

This year, based on availability of visiting adjudicators, the first week of the festival is principally devoted to school choral, instrumental and dance classes.

In addition, strings, brass, and woodwind solo and small ensemble classes are scheduled.

The first phase concludes Friday night with the official opening and schools honor performance, to be held at Central Junior High School.

Deputy Provincial Secretary L. J. Wallace will perform the opening ceremony and the program will consist of performances selected by the adjudicators from the week's classes.

Junior and adult vocal solo, choral and speech classes, piano, organ and accordion sessions will occupy the second week, Monday through Friday, with the honor performance concert for piano and vocal classes and the major competitions for Victoria City Medallion and Rose Bowl on Friday night, April 24.

There are altogether four special evening events, the other two being the dance honor performance next Wednesday at Central Junior and the speech arts finale April 23 at Christ Church Memorial Hall.

Membership cards at $3 admit the holder to all four special events as well as to all other day and evening sessions.

Monday at Central Junior, there will be dance classes adjudicated by Miss Alice Gates of Washington State University, during the morning and afternoon. In the evening school orchestra and bands will be adjudicated by Vilem Sokol and Walter C. Welke, also of Washington.

At Cridge Memorial Hall (Church of Our Lord, Blanshard and Humboldt), brass and woodwind solos and duets will occupy all-day sessions, and at St. Andrew's Hall it will be a day of school orchestras and string ensembles.

Sessions begin at 9 a.m., 1:30 and 7 p.m.

NEIGHBORLY NUZZLE between Esquimo gal (Ann McLay) and Lancastrian friend (Bill Howard) is viewed with approval by Nichi and Kicha during a rehearsal of the St. Matthias' Little Theatre comedy, Friends and Neighbors, which opens April 20 for a week's run at St. Matthias' Hall.

MIKADO REVIVED

An Old Favorite Gets a New Look

Abandoning the traditional style of Gilbert and Sullivan productions, stage director Tony Nicholson has adapted the idiom of the Japanese Kubuki theatre for the production of The Mikado by Victoria Operatic Society.

This unusual version will be presented at Oak Bay Junior High School for four nights, April 28 to May 1.

Musical direction is by Captain James M. Gayfer. Gwen Glew, assistant musical director, has trained the chorus.

In principal roles are Erika Kurth as Yum-Yum, Harry Elsdon as Nanki-Poo, Eleanor Duff as Katisha, Norman Tyrell as Ko-Ko, and Bert Mansfield as the Mikado.

Supporting this cast in secondry roles are Janet Senior, Gwenedd Hughes and newcomers Robert King and Barry Grimshaw.

Tickets will go on sale at Eaton's April 20.

Leafs and Wings Start Cup Final At 5 p.m., CBC

Ed Sullivan Introduces Moscow Circus Sunday at 8 P.M. on Channels 6, 2, 7, 12

By RON SUDLOW

Stanley Cup playoff hockey between Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs will share the spotlight this weekend with the Moscow State Circus.

First game of the finals for Lord Stanley's $48 mug will take place tonight at 5 on Maple Leaf Garden ice. Game will be telecast in its entirety on Channels 6 and 2.

Other games this week will be Tuesday at 5 p.m. from Detroit and Thursday, also at 5 p.m., from Toronto.

Acts of the American touring version of the Moscow State Circus will comprise the entire Ed Sullivan Show Sunday at 8 p.m. on Channels 6, 2, 7 and 12.

This marks the second Sullivan program this season devoted entirely to the acts of the Moscow State Circus which is composed of 7,000 performers who tour the Soviet Union and other parts of Asia, Europe and the Americas.

On October 27, 1963, Sullivan presented the London company, taped at Wembly Stadium with totally different acts.

Featured on the program, taped in Minneapolis in November, will be the world-renowned clown, Oleg Popov.

Other acts include boxing bears, Cossack horsemen, gymnasts, wire walkers and teeter board tumblers.

Sunday at 1 p.m. on Channels 7 and 12 a telecast will cover the final four holes of the 28th Masters golf tournament from Augusta, Ga.

Medal play started Thursday with a field of 100 of the best professionals and amateurs in the world tackling the par-72, 6,980-yard course.

Winner will get $20,000 and the coveted Masters green jacket.

In case of a tie or rain-out, the final round of the tournament will be telecast Monday starting at 2 p.m. on the same channels.

There are two sides to every coin and CBC's 20/20 offers a look at Canadian humorist Eric Nicol as he is seen by himself and others Sunday at 3:30 p.m. on Channel 2.

Voicing their views on Nicol will be Torchy Anderson who hired him to write a daily column for the Vancouver Province; Times publisher Stuart Keate and Vancouver magistrate Lew Bewley who has known Nicol since their days at UBC.

Other highlights this weekend, in order of their appearance:

TONIGHT

7:15: Channels 6, 2: Juliette's guests are flautist Moe Koffman and singer Dorothy Harpell.

7:30: Channel 4: Getting together for tonight's Hootenanny are Bob Gibson, the Brothers Four, Stan Rubin and his Tigertown Five, operatic soprano Elaine Malbin and funnyman Charlie Manna.

8:30: Channel 4: Lawrence Welk salutes Oscar-winning tunes and those nominated for this year's awards.

Channel 7: Milton Berle stars in the Defenders drama "Die Laughing." A comedian attempts suicide and his wife has him committed to a mental institution.

9:30: Channel 4: Host of tonight's variety show from Hollywood Palace is Donald O'Connor. He will introduce comedians Jerry Van Dyke, Jack E. Leonard, songstress Fran Jeffries and impressionist Rich Little.

Channel 7: Phil Silvers becomes a surly with a fringe on top when he starts to think young and adds a toupee to his wardrobe.

10:00: Channel 2: Showcase offers songs by Eleanor Collins, accompanied by the Bobby Hales orchestra.

Also guesting will be comedian Shelley Berman.

SUNDAY

12:00: Channel 4: The documentary "1964" examines the role of the United States in the future of Western Man. Cameras illustrate strengths by focusing on technological advances and look at weaknesses such as unemployment, slums and old people's homes.

1:00: Channels 7, 12: Telecast of the final four holes of the Masters golf tournament.

2:30: Channels 7, 12: CBS Sports Spectacular takes a look at gymnastics and filmed highlights of the national Cutting Horse Championships, held in January at Ft. Worth, Texas.

3:30: Channel 2: 20/20 takes a look at humorist Eric Nicol.

4:30: Channel 5: Washington, D.C.'s Cherry Blossom Festival is a feature of Sunday.

5:00: Channel 8: Secretary of State Maurice Lamontagne discusses biculturalism on Scope. This program was postponed from last week.

6:00: Channel 5: Robin Hood will romp again through Sherwood Forest with his merry men for those of you who missed the NBC Children's Theatre version aired February 15.

Channel 8: Walt Disney uses film clips to trace the story of Hurricane Hannah.

6:30: Channel 2: Mike wants to get married but can't afford an apartment so he suggests that he and Sally live with his family on My Three Sons.

8:00: Channels 6, 2, 7, 12: Ed Sullivan introduces the acts of the Moscow State Circus.

9:00: Channels 6, 2, 5: Hoss orders a surprise package from a Chinese trading company and it turns out to be a beautiful woman labeled "wife" on this week's Bonanza.

Channels 7, 12: Celebrity Game debuts and panelists try to decide if women should ever be forced to pay alimony and if men should wear toupees. Guesting will be Morey Amsterdam, Arlene Dahl, Betty Hutton, Lee Marvin and Tommy Sands. Host is Carl Reiner.

9:30: Channels 7, 2: Made in America is also a new panel game where panelists attempt to guess the identity of millionaire guests. Hans Conreid hosts.

10:00: Channel 2: Lister Sinclair narrates a Horizon program titled "This Was a Man" dealing with the aspects of nature and human nature that influenced and inspired Shakespeare. Off-camera voices read some of his sonnets and excerpts from his plays.

Channel 5: Carny, starring fan dancer Sally Rand, will examine the American carnival business.

11:00: Channel 12: Temple Houston, a circuit-riding attorney in the Old West is seen for the first time on KVOS-TV.

FIVE HOPEFULS for Favorite Male Performer award in 1964 TV Guide Awards—Richard Chamberlain with bowl; and clockwise, Raymond Burr, David Janssen, Danny Kaye and Dick Van Dyke—will be present to await verdict of fifth annual viewer popularity poll on Bob Hope Show Friday at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 5. Hope's guests will be Tony Randall, Martha Raye and Jack Jones.

TUESDAY:

Doctor Kildare Scheduled For Ben Casey Operation

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — At last, Ben Casey and Dr. Kildare are co-starring in a television show.

Ordinarily that would be impossible because of network rivalry. However, the Dr. Kildare who appears on Ben's show is Lew Ayres.

Ayres was the first Kildare in a movie series which started in 1938. He made more than 10 of those films and also did a radio series based on the young doctor.

The story has since been converted into a popular television series with Richard Chamberlain playing the title role.

Ayres was hired by Casey's producers to play a role far removed from that of his old Kildare days. He portrays a hospital patient on the verge of death. That's a switch.

"It's a very interesting role," Ayres said. "The part has nothing to do with my being a doctor."

Ayres was never in the Kildare television series. He wonders if he would fit into the show, considering his identification with the movie character.

"There's been talk about my doing one of the shows," he said. "It's kind of a delicate situation. I wouldn't want to just breeze in there and do just anything. I think it (the part) would have to be well constructed to accommodate a double image."

Whatever role he played on a Kildare, it would be in the shaddow of Ayres' movie medic of the same name.

Lew was directed in his Casey episode by that series' star, Vince Edwards, who has been directing some of his own shows recently.

"I did one of them before," Casey said. "That was about two months ago. I'm going to do six episodes this year. I think you get more fulfilment that way. You've got to create your own concept of the show."

Some actors who also have directed themselves in a show complain that it's a difficult double chore. Vince doesn't think so.

"I know this thing down cold," Vince said. "It's no problem, just block it out (arrange the scene), walk through it (actors go through their paces) and shoot it.

Oscar Show Half Taped Beforehand

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Monday is the night for the annual Academy Awards, and only about half the actors nominated for moviedom's big prize will be in Santa Monica Civil Auditorium when the program begins. Most of the favorites apparently will be among the missing.

But come what may, Dick Dunlap will be prepared. This is his fourth year of directing the big bash for television, and he has 12 cameras ready to catch the action.

"We'll start the show with a helicopter shot, coming in over the ocean right up to the auditorium as the cars are driving up," he said. "It should be effective. We'll have to pre-tape it at six because there won't be enough light an hour later."

TAPES ACTRESSES

Other parts of the show will be pre-taped due to the number of no-shows. Dunlap went to England recently to shoot some of the nominees who won't attend: Patrica Neal, who is eight months pregnant, and Rachel Roberts, wife of another nominee, Rex Harrison.

"I taped three of the supporting actress nominees because they aren't familiar to most televison viewers," he added. They include Diane Cilento and Margaret Rutherford, who are making films in England, and Joyce Redman, who is in a play.

Nominees who have made acceptances are: Sidney Poitier, Richard Harris, Leslie Caron, Shirley Maclaine, Natalie Wood, Nick Adams, Bobby Darin, Lilia Skala and Edith Evans.

Producer George Sidney has lined up a case of presenters that will help fill the stellar gap: Julie Andrews, Steve McQueen, Edward G. Robinson, Frank Sinatra, Ann Baxter, Donna Reed, as well as all of last year's winners—Ann Bancroft, Gregory Peck, Patty Duke and Ed Begley.

Oscars Awarded Monday

Bob Hope Presents TV Guide Awards Friday at 8:30 P.M.

Smoking and Health Again Explored On CBS Reports, Wednesday at 7:30

Highlighting week night television fare will be two shows honoring some of your favorite actors and actresses.

The 36th Acamedy Awards Presentations will be seen Monday at 7 p.m. on Channels 2, 4 and 6 and Bob Hope will present TV Guide popularity awards Friday at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 5.

Hosting the Oscar presentations Monday will be Jack Lemmon. Some of the celebrities presenting awards will be Julie Andrews, Anne Baxter, Rita Hayworth, Rock Hudson, Shirley Jones, Steve McQueen, Sidney Poitier, Donna Reed, Edward G. Robinson and Frank Sinatra.

Nominated in major categories are: Best film, "America, America," "Cleopatra," "How the West Was Won," "Lilies of the Field," and "Tom Jones."

Best Actress: Leslie Caron ("The L-Shaped Room"), Shirley MacLaine ("Irma La Douce"), Patricia Neal ("Hud"), Rachel Roberts ("The Sporting Life") and Natalie Wood ("Love With the Proper Stranger").

Best Actor: Albert Finney ("Tom Jones"), Richard Harris ("The Sporting Life"), Rex Harrison ("Cleopatra"), Paul Newman ("Hud") and Sidney Poitier ("Lillies of the Field").

Singing tunes nominated for Oscars will be Andy Williams, Debbie Reynolds, James Darren, Harve Presnell and Katyna Ranieri.

Moviegoers wil take a back seat to TV fans Friday night when 15 minutes of Bob Hope's show will be devoted to honor winners of TV Guide's popularity poll conducted annually among Canadian and U.S. readers.

Among personalities nominated are Shirley Booth, Raymond Burr, Richard Chamberlain, Patty Duke, David Janssen, Mary Tyler Moore, Danny Kaye, Irene Ryan, Inger Stevens and Dick Van Dyke.

Tony Randall, Martha Raye and Jack Jones will join host Hope for a 45-minute comedy-variety portion.

The social, political and economic conflicts generated by the U.S. Surgeon General's report on smoking and health are probed in CBS Reports: "Cigarettes: A 'Collision of Interests," Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 7.

The collision of interests explored is the potential conflict between America's physical well-being on the one hand and its economic health on the other.

The broadcast focuses upon the proposed action by the U.S. government, now that a presidential commission has officially identified smoking as a "health hazard."

Other highlights of week night watching, in order of appearance:

DEBACLE BEGAN IN 1953

Soviet Farming Tottering Under Farm-Boy K's Lash

By RICHARD F. NEWCOMB
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In one of the great ironies of our time, Khrushchev the farm boy may go down in history as the man who ruined Soviet farming.

It wasn't only the great fiasco of the Virgin Lands. It was that in insisting on the Virgin Lands scheme, Khrushchev severely distorted farm production throughout the rest of the Soviet Union. Now his ignominy has been completed with the forced admission that Communist farmers must turn to capitalism. Not only to feed the Communists this year and more years to come, but capitalist methods must be copied if the Communist world is ever to feed itself.

The debacle began in 1953. Against the advice of experts, Khrushchev ordered a vast area of Siberia and Kazakhstan — nearly 100 million acres — turned to the plow. Khrushchev saw waving grain stretching over hundreds of miles of steppes, providing enough to feed the Soviet millions and make the U.S.S.R. a powerful world trader.

By 1956, production had soared to 23.8 million tons of grain. Then it began to fall. By 1958 it was down to 15 million tons, by 1962 it was only eight million. Then came a terrible winter and the great drought of 1963. Last month, Agriculture Minister Ivan Volochenko admitted what the world had long suspected. Huge areas of the Virgin Lands are turning into a dust bowl.

"Wind and water erosion is inflicting tremendous damage on agriculture," he told 6,000 farm leaders summoned to Moscow for the latest crisis meeting. More than 10 million acres are already affected in Siberia and Kazakhstan, and nearly 20 million acres will have to be "shallow-plowed" this year, to keep them from blowing away.

FIRED FOUR

In the last four years Khrushchev has fired four farm czars in Kazakhstan, but even that couldn't save the Virgin Lands scheme. Last month it was officially buried.

But that is only part of the story. While Khrushchev concentrated on the Virgin Lands, more than 8 million acres of land in the Ukraine was taken out of grain. This was land that produced four times as much grain per acre as the Virgin Lands ever did.

Now this area cannot even raise vegetables, or if it does they never get to market. Last fall at Volgograd (once Stalingrad), Khrushchev ridiculed local cabbages, said they were so small he could put them in his pocket. Not far away, citizens rioted. They could not buy tomatoes, eggplant or peppers in Odessa, though bumper crops were rotting in the fields outside the city.

In White Russia and the Baltic states, Khrushchev ordered the farmers to stop growing clover, alfalfa and timothy, and get busy on corn, peas, beans and sugar beets. An American expert, visiting the farmers around Leningrad, reported they had "all gone to pieces." Soviet farming was 100 years behind the United States, he said.

There was a cigarette shortage in Moscow last fall. Tobacco (imported) was lying in the ports while rail cars were transporting vegetables. But vegetables were rotting in the cars on the outskirts of Moscow, and 25,000 persons turned out on a holiday to rescue what they could.

The old custom of free bread in restaurants has been abolished, and it is now a crime to feed bread to animals. People were warned to save every possible kilogram of potatoes, vegetables and fruit.

The Soviet Union then entered a new business—exporting gold by the ton to pay for millions of tons of food. Something is wrong with the Soviet system of agriculture. Production is not growing fast enough to keep up with the population.

FIELD, FACTORY

The breakdown is complete, from the fields all the way back to the factories. The peasants shirk the state farms, because they make out better working their small private plots. Khrushchev alternately woos them and threatens them, promising a better life for more work, or punishment for less. In the last five years, production has steadily fallen.

As the grain rots in the field, the machinery to save it stands idle. It is either broken or there is no one to drive it. The factories made new machines instead of spare parts. But in Kazakhstan last fall they stopped the trains and begged the passengers to get out and help with the harvest. Recruiting parties went as far as the Crimea, a thousand miles away, looking for workers. Pravda said it was necessary to send in 100,000 machine operators. On one state farm, only 17 operators could be found for 77 combines. The rains came, and the grain rotted. Even grain already cut lay on the ground and spoiled; no trucks to move it. It was disaster, and the weather was only part of it.

NEW PANACEA

Khrushchev's latest panacea is fertilizer and pesticides. He proposed to spend $50 billion on this in the next seven years. The peasants still waste what little fertilizer they have.

The future looks grim. Plowing last fall for this spring's wheat was far behind schedule, and it was another bad winter for the young wheat in the ground.

Canada looks forward to feeding the Communist world for years to come. Mitchell Sharp, the trade minister, says the Communist bloc will be "permanent importers" of grain on a substantial scale.

Interest Costs Borne By Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government will shoulder a difference in interest costs involved in United States payment of $274,800,000 for the Columbia River project to British Columbia Oct. 1.

External Affairs Minister Martin, after giving that information to Colin Cameron (NDP—Nanaimo - Cowichan - the Islands) in a series of questions, agreed Friday to provide a report on just what this will cost. The details were not settled.

PAY FOR DAMS

But he insisted that this federal responsibility is a normal part of foreign exchange transactions.

Under the Columbia power and flood - control project, B.C. is paying expenses for three storage dams and collecting all the revenues. An agreement stipulates that the federal government will not bear any of the project cost.

The federal financial cost was questioned as the external affairs committee ended its first week of study of the project.

Mr. Cameron said he was not objecting because the Canadian government will bear part of the interest burden in accepting U.S. funds and then paying the money to B.C. But he wanted the procedure set out clearly.

ATTACKED AT VANCOUVER MEETING

'Blind in Fear of CNIB'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Blind businessman Robert Birch said Thursday hundreds of blind persons live in fear of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

He was speaking at a public meeting of 600, attended mainly by blind people, to protest an amendment to the provincial blind act.

The amendment makes non-approved appeals for funds for the blind illegal, but its critics say it could also interfere with the freedom of blind individuals, by allowing a three-man board to control their economic lives.

All appeals to help the blind must be approved by the board and blind people interpret this to mean they must get the board's approval before they can sell anything, including their homes.

About 100 persons stood up when Mr. Birch asked blind people in the audience to stand if what he said about fear of the CNIB was true.

Mr. Birch, who sells artificial flowers, said the act is discriminatory and could cost him his business.

The act was passed at the last session of the legislature at the request of the Canadian Counsel of the Blind, an organization affiliated with the CNIB.

Social Credit MLA Bert Price of Vancouver-Burrard defended the act but drew only hoots and catcalls.

there would be some consolidation," he said.

But he thought this would require mature judgment by "professionals."

Mr. Hellyer, a 40-year-old ex-private, doesn't class himself in this category. He said his best advantage in his post is the fact that he has no preconceived notions about defence matters. The fact that he served in the ranks doesn't play "too important" a part in his approach to service reform, he said.

STILL RECRUIT

The minister said the three services will continue recruiting now and in the future despite the unification plans although there will be some reduction in the forces.

"The total intake may be altered but we'll keep taking people in," he said.

Mr. Hellyer said his visit today was to be taken up with two addresses to groups of officers and senior non-coms of the three services here.

"I want to share with them some of the background thinking (with respect to his defence white paper) so they'll know more of the considerations than it is possible to put in a formal document."

The meetings were to be out-of-bounds to press and public.

He was met at the naval air station by Rear Admiral W. M. Landymore and delegations of army and air force officers. The minister was to return to Vancouver today.

His only comment on non-military matters dealt with the separatist movement in Quebec.

"It is a problem of keeping the country together. But I am sure it can be resolved with patience and understanding," he said.

ONTARIO BORN

The defence minister, born near Waterford, Ont., on a small farm, studied aeuronautical engineering, was a home builder and served in the RCAF but was transferred to the artillery when the RCAF no longer needed pilot trainees. After the war he entered the ladies' wear business.

He was elected MP for Toronto Davenport in 1949 when he was 25 and earned a cabinet post at 33.

Married, with three children, his spare time interests include gardening and music.

PUBLICITY COSTS

Advertising and publicity costs in Sweden totalled $225,000,000 in 1961, or 1.9 per cent of the net national product.

Proposed Quebec Pension Aids Low-Income Groups

By VIC WILCZUR
United Press International

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Wage earners in the low-income groups stand to benefit more from Quebec's proposed pension plan than the Canada pension plan, Premier Jean Lesage said, as he outlined details Friday.

Unlike the federal plan, workers earning less than $1,000 a year in Quebec will not have to contribute to the pension scheme. It is estimated that seven per cent of Quebec's 5,400,000 citizens earn less than $1,000 a year.

While most of them are farmers, they all will be eligible to collect their universal old-age pension.

Contributions to the Quebec plan will be set at four per cent compared to two per cent for the federal plan (until 1979 when it will be higher). The Quebec plan will bring a higher remuneration than the federal one, namely 25 per cent instead of 20 per cent.

Under the Quebec plan the province's 1,800,000 salaried and self-employed workers will have to contribute to the pension fund while under the federal scheme, support will be optional for self-employed workers.

The target date for implementation of the plan is Jan. 1, 1966. The pension fund on that date is set at $125 million and actuarial figures set it at $8 billion by 1996.

Contributions will be based on salary after the first $1,000 up to a limit of $6,000, and will stop there.

There is no deduction under the federal plan. Everyone must pay up to a maximum salary of $4,500.

The four per cent contribution rate will be shared by employees and employer.

Thus a worker earning $6,000 a year—with $1,000 deducted—will mean a contribution of $200 a year. Even if a worker earns $50,000 a year, the four per cent contribution rate will only be taken from the maximum $6,000 figure.

Under the Quebec plan, employees who continue working after the age of 65 won't have to contribute after that age limit while they will have to keep doing so under the federal scheme.

100 Helping Fund Canvass

Nearly 100 canvassers set out from Nanaimo city hall today to cover school district 68 in aid of Alberni and West Coast Disaster Fund.

At the same time, Mayor Pete Maffeo announced a council contribution of $2,500 to start the local fund.

And meanwhile in Victoria, Ald. Robert Baird, chairman of the local fund campaign committee, said $25,000 is sought from residents through voluntary contributions matching the $25,000 voted by council.

He said it may be hard to determine how much Victoria residents send in aid because no record is being kept of donations made through the chartered banks.

DISPLACED PERSONS

Mayor Maffeo, co-ordinator of the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities campaign for disaster relief, said the biggest problem in the Albernis now is keeping roofs over the heads of displaced persons.

The community has shown its "stout hearts" in living under crowded conditions, he said.

He turned over to 90 school girls and boys — Order of De Molay and Job's Daughters — the task of fund-collecting in the school district.

$250,000 TARGET

Island municipalities are aiming at $250,000 for disaster relief.

Qualicum Beach council voted $750 and Qualicum school district 69 will try to raise another $4,000.

The Indian fishing village of Hot Springs Cove, almost wiped off the beach by tidal waves, requests volunteer carpenters and laborers to aid in rehabilitation of the community.

Central Junior Secondary School has collected $63 of a $100 goal; Seventh Day Adventists have given $400, and other local groups are rallying behind the fund.

'Credit Unions Must Dump Sacred Cows'

RED DEER (CP) — Basic fundamentals of the credit union movement must be re-examined and some "sacred cows" discarded if credit unions are to survive, A. R. Glen of Nanaimo, president of the National Association of Canadian Credit Unions, said Friday.

He told the Credit Union League of Alberta annual meeting that credit unions are facing fierce competition from other financial institutions which are providing many services that had been exclusive to credit unions.

Mr. Glen suggested credit unions place more emphasis on deposits and less on shares. Cheque handling services also should be stressed and more emphasis should be placed on long-term loans.

He said there was a need for an increase in personal services and more emphasis on mortgages.

He said costs of doing business show the need for streamlining services. It must mechanize, increase services or even amalgamate in order to survive.

SOOKE TEACHER WOULD HONOR LEADER OF 1864 EXPEDITION

Art Exhibition Proposed for Gold Rush Anniversary

By HUMPHRY DAVY

SOOKE — An art teacher here wants to organize an art exhibition to mark the 100th anniversary of the Robert Brown expedition which led to the discovery of gold on the Leach River, 15 miles north of Sooke.

Mrs. Bea Barnett said she will see if she can organize such a show for this summer.

It would feature paintings of Sooke and district, especially of the Sooke River, first explored by Brown's party in 1864, she said.

The discovery of gold on the Leach did much to boost the prosperity of Victoria.

An art teacher at Prince Albert, Saskatchewan for 20 years, Mrs. Barnett came to Sooke four years ago. She takes an active part in community affairs.

"There's a big interest in art in this district," she said. "Some of our artists are well known in Victoria. We usually hold an exhibition once a year."

Mrs. Barnett also teaches copper work, metal etching, fabric painting and other crafts.

Sooke may have to consider expanding its library facilities within the next two years due to a steady increase of readers, according to Mrs. Maude Adams, librarian.

Since the library was started in September 1963, the institution has loaned out about 1,500 books a month.

Membership now exceeds 500, she said.

"Each week we get new members," she said. "The way things are going, the present accommodations will be too small in two years."

The library is in one room, and is open 15 hours a week. It forms part of the Vancouver Island Regional Library.

Mrs. Adams said the district has a bookmobile service, but most residents seem to prefer the library.

Mrs. Adams said many children from their own school libraries which she described as "well equipped to take care of the needs of young people."

Work has started on construction of four additional classrooms and administrative offices at the Edward Milne High School.

The $78,000 project will be completed this fall.

The present administrative offices are in old army buildings.

Meanwhile, the Parent-Teacher Council with the help of businesses and industry, has done much to improve and landscape the school grounds.

Victoria Plant Safety Winner

The plywood division of B.C. Forest Products, Ltd., in Victoria has won a five-year cumulative safety award presented by the Forests Products Safety Conference, now in session at the Empress Hotel.

The plywood division showed only 2.70 accidents per million man-hours in its operations here. B.C. Forest Products' Cowichan veneer division won the 1963 safety award for veneer plants with no accidents.

The awards were presented at the annual banquet of the Forest Products Safety Conference Friday night.

The Burnaby operation of Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. (formerly Sidney Roofing Ltd.) received a special award for no accidents in both division classes and overall cumulative sections.

OTHER AWARDS

Other awards for Island operations went to MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., Port Alberni, for sawmill over 750,000 man-hours, frequency rate of 1.20.

Tahsis Co., Port Alberni, sawmill under 250,000 man-hours, no accidents.

Western Forest Industries, Cowichan Lake, shingle mill class, frequency rate of 13.89.

MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., Somass shingle mill, frequency rate of 13.89.

The Tahsis Co. and Northwest Cedar Products Ltd., Port Alberni, also received special awards for zero frequency in the sawmill and pole yard divisions in 1963.

The report of the safety award judges showed there were no disabling accidents during the year's operation.

Bert Curtis, assistant director of the UBC extension department, addressed 300 delegates attending the Firest Products Safety Conference Friday.

He said there is no problem in the world which cannot be solved by learning and listed six key points supervisors should consider when teaching workers how to do their job safely—perception, communication, knowledge of results, getting response, transferring information and remembering.

Mr. Curtis complimented the forest products industry on their success in reducing job accidents but said it still had "a long way to go."

1,000 TO GET DOOR-TO-DOOR MAIL SERVICE

Regular mail delivery at home will start next month for about 1,000 households in the Glen Lake-Esquimalt Lagoon area.

Jeep-type mailmobiles will be used for the deliveries, says Victoria postmaster Allan Davies.

Daily delivery of letters, parcels, and any special delivery mail will start before the end of May, he says.

Lagoon and Glen Lake sub-post offices will be replaced by full post office services, and about 15 letter-drop boxes will be installed in the area.

Vocational Instructors Win Raises

The provincial government has approved raises totalling some $200,000 for staffs of five regional vocational schools.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said Friday the new salary scales were decided upon on the basis of an extensive study by the education department and the Civil Service Commission.

Mr. Peterson said the increases, provided by cabinet order-in-council, range from $40 to $100 a month, with the biggest increments for senior instructors.

They bring salaries of instructors to between $470 and $750 a month, depending on category and experience. Principals will earn between $800 and $900 a month — compared with the previous $730 to $850 —depending on the size of school.

Mr. Peterson said the increases "took into consideration salaries at public schools and the vocational institute in Vancouver, as well as four briefs from interested associations."

The new salary scales, retroactive to April 1, affect staffs at schools in Nanaimo, Burnaby, Prince George, Nelson and Kelowna. They cover all but clerical and janitorial employees.

ANSWERS 'VAGUE' ON ANTI-JEWISH ACTIVITY

Small Cog in Hate Pamphlet Wheel 'Giving Up for Now'

By RAY SINCLAIR

A Sooke high school boy named by the Canadian Jewish Congress as a distributor of hate literature has told the Times he gave it up three months ago.

The Congress named 15 Canadians in the continent-wide movement, linked through the mails by outpourings of rabid anti-Semitic pamphlets.

When I met the ex-leader of a Sooke group, he said:

"I was just a small cog in the wheel.

"I've given it up for now. I'll wait until I'm 21 and take it from there."

A 17-year-old, he's fair, handsome and not unpopular with his fellow students at Belmont High School.

He is shy, doesn't have a girl friend, and with better-than-average marks, has never failed a grade.

Six months ago he was approached in the downtown area and was asked, during a conversation, whether he was "against communism."

He said: "I was given an address, and sent a magazine.

"Then I got a letter saying that if I was interested in anti-communism I should form a group."

This was in mid-November.

He interested "a few guys"; then came the "bad press," in Toronto.

"I was told not to do anything that would get any bad publicity . . . it was doing us more harm than good."

The pamphlets he was to distribute came first from the U.S., then from Ontario and Quebec. At first it was all anti-communist.

"The Jewish part was different," he said. "They contacted me. They must have got my address. I don't know what the connection is.

"The strictly anti-communist stuff was more John Birch kind of literature."

A mysterious Colonel Fry, he said, appears to be one of the head people behind the anti-Jewish activity.

"The last I heard, he was in Vancouver trying to meet group leaders."

Mail addressed to the juvenile group leader was usually personal, not form letters.

What about contact with his "superiors?"

"I have asked them outright questions," he said.

"They're always very vague. I've never had an answer."

The link-up then is almost entirely through the mail. The juvenile knows of "several" Victoria groups, of which he says the 'Victoria Patriots' is the biggest.

The Times recently called on this group to come forward after a brief correspondence with it. There was no word.

The young Sooke leader used to meet members of other groups in private homes, he said.

What is the aim of the subversion?

"A national political party, when there's enough support from members."

The main platform is anti-communism, because "it's the one that gets most support so naturally they push it most."

In economics, he said, they support Social Credit policy."

The party, he said, is against integration of Negroes, and the "power seeking" of Jews. If ever in power in the country, the party would investigate all Jews to determine which had "made their money by devious means."

He had tried some concentrated campaigning at school.

"When it came to acting on it, very few would act," he said. "Some were interested—you could see it."

The campaigning led to discovery when a student handed a pamphlet to a master.

The group was disciplined and disbanded.

"I wrote and said I couldn't lead a group any more. I wanted to stay at school. They said they respected my wish to be educated."

The pamphlets and the personal letters have stopped.

The Belmont High School group is defunct.

Arthur Mayse

Remember a movie hit of a couple of years ago called 'Auntie Mame'? Well, we enjoyed it too, but while I watched its enchantingly disorganized lead character flit from one confusion to the next, a small memory came tapping.

Aunt Mame reminded me of someone.

I failed to solve the puzzle, though, and forgot about it until one day this week when Win and I waited at Pat Bay as a Viscount from Seattle unloaded.

The passengers, young and old, male and female, alighted without fuss or disorder from their winged ark.

"They aren't on board," Win said. "I can't understand it!"

At this moment, a minor explosion seemed to occur within the Viscount. A tall and lovely lady materialized in the doorway. Bumped from behind by another of the same, she stumbled forward onto the landing stage with smart hat slightly awry. After a delay, later explained as due to a lost shoe, a third handsome matron joined them.

They descended to Canadian blacktop, where they ignored the customs and immigration gate. With waves, smiles and a dulcet "Hoo-hoo!" they veered toward us, a trio of undeclared entrants.

At this point—while a stewardess hurried to head Win's three California sisters off and we flapped them toward the immigration portal—the answer which had escaped me in that movie arrived.

Here, in three separate charming but perpetually disorganized packages, was the very prototype of Auntie Mame!

* * *

We waited nervously for her—them, I mean—to run the customs gauntlet.

"Seeing them," I said, "reminds me of the time we were driving somewhere and you smelled smoke."

"Yes," Win said, trying to peer around the men in blue, "and we stopped and the girls got out and started shaking their fur jackets. Only it was your hat."

"Which one parked the cigarette in it?" I asked.

"Mildred. Or maybe it was Hazel . . . Oh, here comes Gladys!"

I reached for a suitcase, pecked a cheek, then got out of the way while sister welcomed sister.

A blonde voice spoke from slightly below my ear: "Pardon me, but I believe that's my suitcase."

"Sorry," I said, "it belongs to this lady. She just cleared it through customs."

"It's still my case, the blonde insisted. "Look. The check stub matches!"

By this time we were sharing the handle in a polite tug-of-war.

Our audience included three nuns and a small boy going "zooom" with a toy aircraft, also a guy seven feet tall and an axe-handle across the shoulders, who was scowling at me.

Win, back turned, was greeting sister number two. Number one was now in discussion with an airline official who kept passing his hand through his hair in a distracted manner.

The man mountain was edging in and the small boy had twice banged me with the plane, which had a sharp point, when sister number three escaped a bemused inspector.

She said, blue-rinsed and California swish, "But that's not Gladys' suitcase!"

Gladys returned. "Why," she told me, "you've got the wrong case. That's mine, with the customs people." And to the blonde, "The strangest thing . . . I was able to lock your case with my key. I did have to strain a little."

"Well I hope your's unlocks it," said the victim plaintively as they stepped into the excisemen's den for another go-round, "because I lost my key a year ago."

That was several days past. Some other little contretemps have occurred since then, but I'm out of space, and still pretty shaky.

As I write this, Auntie Mame in her three components is airborne again, winging happily toward California.

There, through a slight telephonic shemozzle three eager husbands are preparing to meet the wrong flight.

By LESLIE MILLIN

Crime nearly pays.

I cheated on the Jaycees Teen-age Safe Driving Roadeo and almost got away with it.

Not that it did much good.

Eighteen legitimate teen-age safe drivers stood by shaking their heads as I cheated my way through the car-handling course to an 83 per cent score and a disqualification.

Run on the wet parking lot of the Esquimalt Sports Centre this morning, the roadeo puts a lot of emphasis on smooth driving, precise handling and courtesy.

It's designed for large family sedans, without power brakes or steering.

Included are a serpentine course, a parallel parking test, a smooth stopping test, and a fiendish little exam testing a driver's ability to put a wheel just where he wants it.

Around this circuit — intended for 17-foot cars with 110-inch wheelbases and 40-foot running circles — went the press car, which is 12 feet long, has a 90-inch wheelbase and a 24-foot turning circle.

And it was a struggle, even with that much illegal advantage.

No officials were killed, but my driving confidence was seriously wounded.

On a parallel parking test, the closest my car got to the curb was seven inches.

ON SHORT SIDE

On the stopping-smoothly-at-a-line test, my car was eight inches short.

Going forward through the serpentine was no problem—but in reverse the car got confused and went out the wrong exit.

And—curiously enough—the car's wheels seemed to know where to go forward, but on backing up they knocked over a whole line of little markers.

It was all the car's fault, of course.

The driver lost points only for disobeying tthe rules at almost every turn.

Well, when the whole sordid mess was over the judge added up the score sheet and awarded a mark of 83 per cent.

The 18 other drivers tried not to snicker too hard.

And just as I was thinking ahead—to the provincial finals in Burnaby in June, and the nationals in Toronto—they disqualified me.

I flunked the physical.

I'm not a teen-ager.

CHAIRMAN of National Parole Board George Street, will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting of Vancouver Island John Howard Society, April 20 at 8 p.m., in St. John Ambulance Auditorium. The meeting is open to the public.

BYLAW CHANGES URGED

Greater Victoria school board will hold a special meeting Monday to deal with modifications to its upcoming three-year building program outlined in referendum No. 6.

The bylaw, after weeks of fine-tooth consideration by the education department, was returned to school board officials Friday.

School trustees agreed not to comment on the bylaw until the board as a whole had had an opportunity to review the suggested amendments.

The total amount was also withheld until the borrowing bylaw is put into its final form.

Delays, partly occasioned by the volume of similar bylaws from other districts being processed by the education department, will mean a much later ratepayer vote.

Earliest date for voting on the referendum in the Greater Victoria municipalities could hardly be before mid-May.

Referendum No. 5, now nearly expired, was for about $5,000,000. Only two major projects under that authority remain to be done.

They will still leave a shortage of classroom facilities in this area next fall.

Uvic Board Ready To Battle Ottawa On Ocean Institute

By AB KENT

University of Victoria development board will take "strong action" to try to hold the federal government to its original plans for an oceanographic institute on Gordon Head campus.

The promise came today from chairman Harold B. Elworthy, a member of Uvic board of governors, when confronted with a student council statement expressing shock that the government had reversed its intentions of last fall.

The Alma Mater Society asked the board of governors to take "strong action on the matter." It assured the board that student leaders would support it in "whatever action is taken to assure that the oceanography institute is built on the University of Victoria campus."

'GET TO BOTTOM'

The $2,000,000 research installation was to rise on the new campus as an adjunct to other university development and cooperate in teaching and research in its laboratories and the university library.

Mr. Elworthy said officials would try to "get to the bottom and find out why the change."

The federal government already owns property adjoining the campus and a tentative quarter of the university property had been earmarked for research development.

Notice of the change in federal plans was given Thursday by Mines Minister William Benidickson, who said two other Victoria waterfront locations for the institute were being considered.

INCONVENIENT

He explained it would be inconvenient for the centre to rise on the campus when a research vessel, also due for construction, would be moored at some distance from Gordon Head.

Board of governors chairman Judge J. B. Clearihue, Uvic chancellor, said, "We can only make representations to the federal government, we can't tell them what to do."

He said he was concerned by the new situation and pledged his board's support to any other representations that may be made on behalf of students.

The AMS statement said students disagree with Mr. Benidickson's explanation, pointing out the contribution that Uvic could make would outweigh any inconvenience.

"The loss of the institute is a serious blow to the growth and development of the university. The students feel most strongly that having the institute on the university campus would be of mutual benefit to the university and the institute," the student statement said.

Mr. Benidickson and Victoria MP David Groos are both asked for a further explanation.

$375,000 IN CONTRACTS

Big Loss Feared On Water Piping

A prolonged strike in the "big three" shipyards could bring Victoria Machinery Depot losses of $375,000 on water piping alone.

The monthly meeting of Greater Vancouver Water District was told Friday night that laying of pipes for an increased water supply to the Pitt River-Pitt Meadows-Maple Ridge areas is being delayed by the nine-week strike.

The GVWD has a $100,000 contract with VMD for the pipes, 1,000 feet of which are supposed to be delivered by June.

VMD president Harold Husband said today the yard has the steel for the pipes, and could deliver the 1,000 feet within two weeks of returning to work.

MAY LOSE CONTRACT

However, he said, there is the danger that the contract may be taken away if the strike continues.

"One contract has been cancelled already—by Edmonton," he said.

They had a $95,000 contract with VMD for pipes.

"We were low bidders on contracts in Calgary, for $90,000 worth of pipes, and Burnaby, for $90,000 worth," Mr. Husband said.

"We didn't get them because of the strike."

He said: "These contracts represent a very serious loss to the city, and in money gone out of the city."

Representatives of the 22 striking unions are scheduled to meet in Victoria Tuesday at 10 a.m. to discuss a top-secret proposal by Deputy Labor Minister William Sands.

BLANSHARD-ROSE IMPROVEMENTS SLATED

New Artery Challenges Douglas St.

By JOHN MIKA

Appearance of Arenaway is canging and more is to come later this year that will transform the Blanshard - Rose Street route into a major artery rivalling Douglas Street.

Workmen Friday were clearing away debris from a demolished house on the northwest side — kitty-corner from the arena — while trucks and graders spread fill on top of the high rocky area north of the arena.

The fill is for development of a 180-car parking lot surrounding the arena building which will be in use at next month's Jaycee fair.

But city action in purchasing and tearing down the house—part of a block-long bottleneck in Blanshard Street—is even more significant because it signals the start of the last lap in making Blanshard a major traffic route.

Negotiations will begin soon for acquisition of a narrow strip along Blanshard, between the arena and the one-way terminal at Queens.

Plans call for tearing out the Arenaway centre strip and widening Blanshard at that point to handle six lanes of traffic.

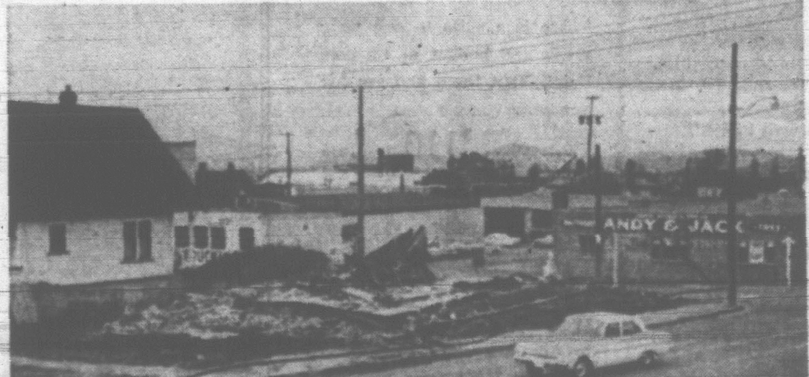
At the other end, a curving extension of Blanshard will be pushed through north of Hillside to merge with Rose Street immediately south of S. J. Willis Junior High School. Rose Street will be widened at that point to take six lanes too.

This will enable the city to send three lanes of traffic northbound on Blanshard all the way from the Law Courts Building to the city limits at Tolmie, using the widened Rose Street at the north end.

Thre lanes of southbound traffic will go from Tolmie to the Law Courts using Rose-Blanshard.

The plan will leave an island of buildings splitting the north and southbound lanes, between Market and Queens, which will require one-way for this distance.

Cost of the plan, included in this year's budget, is expected to be upwards of $120,000 but a considerable portion will come from government funds.



DEMOLITION of old house at north end of Arenaway will provide space for Arena parking and signal start of final drive to make Blanshard major north-south traffic route with six lanes. (Times Photo).

The marriage of Miss Vivi Mandrup Petersen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Volmer Mandrup Petersen, to Mr. Thomas Andew Wyatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Wyatt, is to take place on Monday, May 11, at 6 p.m., in Grace Lutheran Church with Rev. W. A. Williams officiating. (Mr. Wyatt's photo by Chapman Photography.)

Parties for Recent Bride

A series of parties honored Mrs. George Piercey, the former Lynne Geoghegan, prior to her recent marriage.

Gifts were in a decorated basket when Mrs. J. Comeau and her mother, Mrs. R. E. Bradshaw entertained at a surprise shower in their Old Esquimalt Road home. Corsages were presented to the bride and her mother, Mrs. E. Geoghegan.

Also invited were Mrs. A. Cameron, Mrs. E. De Costa, Miss V. Ross, Mrs. R. R. Bradshaw, Mrs. F. Mallory, Mrs. G. Bell, Mrs. F. Wood, Mrs. J. Wright, Mrs. B. Geoghegan, Mrs. H. Ross and Miss P. Taylor.

Bingo and refreshments rounded out the evening.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Bruce Geoghegan arranged gifts in a pink wishing well when she gave a shower in her Kamloops Avenue home. Yellow carnations and freesia were presented to the honor guest and a pink and white corsage to her mother.

A pink and green shower cake centred the refreshment table. Games were played.

Guests included Mrs. D. Dakers, Mrs. Martindale, Mrs. E. Martin, Mrs. R. Bradshaw, Mrs. Comeau, Mrs. G. Gandy, Miss B. Gandy, Mrs. W. Adye, Mrs. R. Lange, Mrs. F. Barron, Mrs. M. Wright, Mrs. K. Carr, Miss M. Carr and Miss S. Martin.

Following the wedding rehearsal, bride's parents entertained the bridal party in their home on Old Esquimalt Road.

Joining the hosts and the bridal couple were Mr. and Mrs. J. Comeau, Mr. and Mrs. T. West, Dal Wright and Wes Braham.

Dance Social

Old time and modern music will be played at a dance social, to be held in the Sons of Norway Hall, 1110 Hillside Avenue, tonight. Affair is open to members and friends.

Veterans Need Pocket Books

A plea for western and mystery pocket books was made when the Women's Auxiliary to the Veterans' Hospital met with Mrs. H. F. Jarvis presiding. Books are needed for the hospital's library.

It was reported that 600 books, including paperbacks, had been distributed during the past month.

Mrs. H. Finbow announced $114.15 spent on patients' comforts that included greeting cards, cigarettes and seven birthday presents.

Other reports showed that 260 patients had been visited during the past month. It was decided to hold two birthday parties on April 25, one in the pavilion and one in medical 1 ward. Entertainment will feature young talent.

It was also announced that members will attend a service in the veterans' chapel on Sunday, May 10.

Mrs. E. L. Bedford was welcomed as a new member.

THE CORPORATION OF THE DISTRICT OF OAK BAY
BY-LAW NO. 2466

A By-law to provide for the acquisition of property and the construction of a Recreation Centre and to authorise the borrowing of the estimated cost thereof.

WHEREAS the Municipal Council of The Corporation of the District of Oak Bay deems it desirable and expedient to construct a Recreation Centre;

AND WHEREAS the Council deems it to be necessary to acquire Lots 3 to 45, both inclusive, Section 69, Plan 249, and Lots 1 and 2, Section 69, Plan 3502, Victoria District, the said lots being situate on Marrion Street, Bee Street, Goldsmith Street and Foul Bay Road, to establish a site for the proposed Recreation Centre;

AND WHEREAS the Council has caused preliminary plans and estimates to be prepared by its architect, the said plans being posted on display in the Municipal Hall, Oak Bay, and the specifications deposited in the office of the Municipal Engineer at the Municipal Hall, Oak Bay;

AND WHEREAS it is estimated that it will be necessary to provide a sum not exceeding $1,421,000 for the construction of the proposed Recreation Centre including acquisition of land, furnishings, landscaping, paving, and incidental expenses in connection therewith;

AND WHEREAS the sum of $1,421,000 is the maximum amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-law;

AND WHEREAS it is necessary that the said money to be raised hereunder be raised on the credit of the said Corporation;

AND WHEREAS the existing debenture debt of the said Corporation is $1,817,024 and, none of the principal and interest in respect thereto is in arrears;

AND WHEREAS the assessed value for general municipal purposes of the taxable land and improvements within the said Corporation for the current year and the two years immediately preceding the current year is as follows:

1962	$43,020,180
1963	$43,963,150
1964	$45,037,070

AND WHEREAS the approval of the Inspector of Municipalities has been obtained;

THEREFORE the Municipal Council of The Corporation of the District of Oak Bay enacts as follows:

1. The Council shall be and is hereby empowered and authorized to acquire Lots 3 to 45 both inclusive, Section 69, Plan 249 and Lots 1 and 2, Section 69, Plan 3502, Victoria District, the said lots being situate on Marrion Street, Bee Street, Goldsmith Street and Foul Bay Road, and to construct thereon a recreational centre in accordance with the plans and specifications on deposit in the office of the Municipal Engineer at the Municipal Hall, Oak Bay.

2. For the purpose and with the object aforesaid there may be borrowed upon the credit of the said Corporation, a sum not exceeding $1,421,000, and such borrowing shall be secured by the issue of series of debentures bearing interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum (6%) per annum, provided, however, that the last of such series of debentures shall be redeemed not later than twenty years after the date of issue.

3. In each year during the currency of the said debentures, there shall be levied and raised by rate sufficient therefor, over and above all other rates, on all land and improvements subject to taxation for general municipal purposes within the said Corporation at the same time and in the same manner as other rates, a special rate to provide for the repayment of the debt hereby created and the interest thereon.

4. This By-law, before adoption, shall receive the assent of the owner-electors in the manner provided by the "Municipal Act."

5. This By-law shall take effect on the date of its adoption by Council.

6. This By-law may be cited as the "Recreation Centre Construction and Property Acquisition Financing By-law, 1964."

Take notice that the above is a true copy of the proposed by-law upon which the vote of the owner-electors of the Municipality will be taken at the Municipal Hall, 2167 Oak Bay Avenue, Oak Bay on Saturday, the 25th day of April, 1964, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m., and an ADVANCED POLL will be opened at the Municipal Hall, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on each of the two days immediately preceding the day of the Poll (April 23rd and 24th), and that E. H. Hart has been appointed Returning Officer for the purpose of taking and recording the vote of owner electors.

Dated at Oak Bay, this 7th day of April, 1964.

E. H. HART,
Municipal Clerk

The proposed By-law was introduced and given 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Reading by the Municipal Council of Oak Bay on March 25, 1964, and received the approval of the Inspector of Municipalities on March 31, 1964, but is not effective unless approved by the electors of the Municipality.

Seamen's Church Sets 100th Birthday Party

OSLO (AP) — The seaman's home away from home—the Norwegian seamen's church—is 100 years old this year.

The centenary will be celebrated in Norway and in the 32 ports all over the globe where the churches are located.

High point of the anniversary year will be the opening of the King Olav Chapel in the new European oil port 25 miles from Rotterdam, the Netherlands, Sept. 11.

Dutch ship-owners and industrial leaders provided 65 per cent of the cost.

"We have to move with the ships, build new stations where the traffic has moved on," said a spokesman for the private organization running the churches.

Since the Second World War, 17 new churches have been built, in ports which did not have one before.

The Lutheran churches serve the 64,000 men operating Norway's huge merchant fleet of about 2,300 ships. But seamen of all nationalities are welcome.

The churches proivde recreational facilities and organize sightseeing tours, sports events and parties. Newspapers from home are flown in, and every ship arriving in port is visited by a pastor.

Impaired Drivers Fined $300 Each; One Man Jailed

Three persons were each fined $300 and a fourth was sent to jail for 30 days after they were picked up in an impaired condition by police early today.

James Loewen, 225 Mary, who was convicted of impaired driving in 1960, received the jail sentence. He told police who arrested him on Pandora that he thought he was in Duncan.

Douglas Richards, 831 Shamrock, was picked up by city police on Government after he narrowly missed hitting a car. Peter Barnes, Windsor Auto Court, lost control of his car and ended up in the flower bed in front of 804 Dominion.

Francis Donegani, 3355 Beach Drive, was stopped after his car weaved three times to the wrong side of the road as he drove along Nottingham.

All four lost their driver's licences.

Bad Weather Blamed For Crashes

B.C. motorists are more accident-prone than ever this year.

Provincial safety officials think it's the weather.

Figures for the first quarter of 1964 include a 12 per cent increase in accidents and 19 per cent more injuries than the first three months of last year.

There has been no increase in the number of deaths, however, totalling 73 to the end of March, the same as 1963.

There were 7,200 accidents during the same period, compared to 6,476 last year.

Injuries this year total 3,100, against 2,596 in 1963.

WEATHER INFLUENCE

A Motor Vehicles Branch official said there appears to be a relationship between the weather and the number of accidents.

January, when the biggest increase was recorded, was a particularly hazardous month for drivers, he said.

Better weather in February and March was accompanied by an immediate drop in accidents.

The official said that despite the increase in accidents and injuries, people were not hurt as badly this year.

He said seat belts—compulsory on all new cars for the first time this year—are probably helping to reduce the severity of injuries and to keep the death toll from mounting.

Income Tax Jam Bigger At City HQ

If attendance figures are an indication, Victoria's income tax office is one of the most popular places in town.

From Jan. 2 to the close of business Thursday, 6,692 taxpayers had questions answered personally by the counter staff at the revenue department's offices in the Belmont Building.

A further 3,691 citizens had their questions answered by a telephone team during the same period.

BUSY TIME AHEAD

"Since the February and March figures are nearly three times the January ones, it is likely the month of April will be a busy time indeed," a revenue department spokesman said.

This year for the first time, taxpayers who owe taxes can file early and attach cheques post-dated to the April 30 tax deadline.

The staff at the tax office is able to increase the help it can give taxpayers because the actual filed tax returns are processed electronically in Ottawa.

Shriners Charter Ship for Cruise

A five-day charter cruise for Shriners will start the CPR cruise ship Princess Patricia on her second season on the Vancouver-Alaska run May 6.

She is also booked for another 5-day cruise May 11 to Ketchikan.

Regular cruises to Skagway begin May 17, first of 12 regular sailings.

The Princess Patricia has also been chartered for a run to Ketchikan May 26 by the B.C. Medical Association.

City, Firemen Negotiating Promotions

City Hall and Victoria firefighters union officials are in the midst of negotiations on revamping the system of promoting men to senior positions in the fire department, city manager Dennis Young confirmed today.

He was commenting on the absence of an appointment to replace recently-retired deputy fire chief James Robertson.

Mr. Young said this year's working agreement settlement included a provision that the question of senior appointments would be negotiated and, if no agreement is reached by Sept. 1, put to arbitration as a last resort.

The city has several times sought to change the present system which, with the union's strong approval, makes seniority the chief criterion for promotions.

About three years ago, civic officials tried to introduce a new system involving more emphasis on ability and examinations but dropped the issue until a formal training program could be introduced this year.

Archbishop To Conduct Rites For Mrs. Page

Archbishop Harold Sexton will conduct funeral services in Christ Church Cathedral Monday at 11:15 a.m. for Mrs. A. M. Page, who died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Friday night after a fall.

Mrs. Page, 93, was the mother of Canon B. T. Page, rector of St. Barnabas' Anglican Church, and lived at 1601 Begbie.

She fell in an alcove near the entrance to St. Barnabas' Church at Belmont and Begbie and was found there later by a neighbor. She apparently slipped while climbing the stairs to the church.

Canon Page told police he left his mother at tthe residence and wasn't aware she was going over to the church. Mrs. Page was found at 5:10 p.m. and died at 9 p.m.

'TEACH' SETS TORRID PACE —INTO COURT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mark Farnell, 21, an elementary school teacher, was fined $50 Friday for speeding during a 70-mile-an-hour drag race down arterial Kingsway.

Farnell pleaded guilty in Burnaby court. His licence was suspended for six months.

Court was told Farnell and another driver were drag racing at high speeds along the 30-mile-an-hour street. Police caught Farnell's car but the other vehicle outraced the police cruiser.

"I'm rather surprised to find that the teachers in Burnaby are so irresponsible on the highways," said Magistrate Murray Hyde.

"Don't judge all the teachers by me," replied Farnell.

MacARTHUR PLAN FOR STALIN

'End Cold War by Threat To Rearm Germany, Japan'

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur's post-Korean plan to end the cold war involved threatening Soviet dictator Stalin that Germany and Japan would be completely rearmed unless the Red satellite people were granted self-determination, a congressman has disclosed.

Representative William Jennings Bryan Dorn (Dem.—S.C.) said MacArthur told him of this plan to bring Russia into line in an interview in New York. Dorn said he was uncertain of the year, but thought it was 1956.

The gist of MacArthur's plan was the missing part of newspaper accounts this week that projected the general into a swirl of post-humous controversy.

In a 10-year-old interview published Wednesday while MacArthur's body was lying in state in the Capitol Rotunda, Bob Considine of the Hearst Headline Service disclosed the existence of the plan and described how MacArthur tried to convince Dwight D. Eisenhower, then the president-elect, to put it into effect.

But Considine wrote that MacArthur told him, "I don't feel it would be fair to reveal my plan to you. It would be an unfair burden on you as a reporter."

Born said there was no such reluctance when he and two other congressmen visited MacArthur in 1956. John Foster Dulles, who became Eisenhower's secretary of state, was also present.

'THREATEN RUSSIA'

"The plan suggested by MacArthur to president-elect Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles was to threaten Russia with a complete rearmament of Germany and Japan, possibly including nuclear power, unless Stalin agreed to live up to his promise of the self-determination of the peoples of Poland, East Germany and Central Europe."

That description was written by Dorn Monday night and inserted in the Congressional Record, as a minor part of a long eulogy of MacArthur. It escaped notice until Friday, when a reporter interviewed Dorn and was given details. The printed Dorn account pre-dated the publication of the Considine account.

DORN
. . . Ike inspired

In Mankato, Kan., former representative Wint Smith, one of the two congressmen who accompanied Dorn, said he agreed with Dorn's description except that "I don't remember that MacArthur said he had told Eisenhower those things."

"In fact I'm certain he didn't," Smith said. "MacArthur was talking about what could be done."

Smith said it was his recollection that the interview took place in 1954.

The third congressman, Representative Lawrence K. Smith, a Republican from Wisconsin, died in 1958.

MacArthur's aide, Maj.-Gen. Courtney Whitey, who Dorn said also attended the meeting, declined comment.

The Considine interview and one by Scripps-Howard reporter Jim G. Lucas published this week, also after a lapse of 10 years, both mentioned the general's plans to win the Korean War by using nuclear bombs across the Yalu River in Red China, sowing a five-mile belt of radio-active cobalt along the border, and bringing in Nationalist Chinese troops from Formosa to mop up the Reds.

In the interview about the plan to end the cold war, Dorn said MacArthur emphasized over and over to Eisenhower that Stalin was an old man who might die at any moment, and that Eisenhower should act immediately after taking office.

"Stalin is a realist, and you could threaten him," Dorn quoted MacArthur as telling the president-elect.

Considine's story said MacArthur told Eisenhower "you have the greatest opportunity for good since the birth of Jesus Christ," and that Eisenhower at the end jumped up, his face flushed, and said, "It's magnificent."

But Considine quoted MacArthur as saying the "cool, calculating voice" of Dulles broke in and dissuaded Eisenhower.

Vocational Schools Get Cabinet Okay

The provincial cabinet has given final approval to a new vocational school at North Vancouver and a vocational wing in a Trail school.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said Friday the new facilities, to be provided under the Federal Vocational Schools Assistance Act, will cost $300,000 more than had been provived for when tentative plans were okayed last year.

Separate orders-in-council approved expenditures of $1,473,600 for the new North Vancouver Vocational Secondary School and $230,000 for a vocational addition to Trail's J. Lloyd Crowe Secondary School.

Mr. Peterson said original estimates had been $1,248,680 for the North Vancouver school and $148,000 for the Trail facilities.

He said that as a consequence of the large increase in the Trail addition the school trustees have agreed to recall tenders.

ISLAND DIGEST

NANAIMO DRIVE

100 Helping Fund Canvass

Nearly 100 canvassers set out from Nanaimo city hall today to cover school district 68 in aid of Alberni and West Coast Disaster Fund.

At the same time, Mayor Pete Maffeo announced a council contribution of $2,500 to start the local fund.

And meanwhile in Victoria, Ald. Robert Baird, chairman of the local fund campaign committee, said $25,000 is sought from residents through voluntary contributions matching the $25,000 voted by council.

He said it may be hard to determine how much Victoria residents send in aid because no record is being kept of donations made through the chartered banks.

DISPLACED PERSONS

Mayor Maffeo, co-ordinator of the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities campaign for disaster relief, said the biggest problem in the Albernis now is keeping roofs over the heads of displaced persons.

The community has shown its "stout hearts" in living under crowded conditions, he said.

He turned over to 90 school girls and boys — Order of De Molay and Job's Daughters — the task of fund-collecting in the school district.

$250,000 TARGET

Island municipalities are aiming at $250,000 for disaster relief.

Qualicum Beach council voted $750 and Qualicum school district 69 will try to raise another $4,000.

The Indian fishing village of Hot Springs Cove, almost wiped off the beach by tidal waves, requests volunteer carpenters and laborers to aid in rehabilitation of the community.

Central Junior Secondary School has collected $63 of a $100 goal; Seventh Day Adventists have given $400, and other local groups are rallying behind the fund.

'Credit Unions Must Dump Sacred Cows'

RED DEER (CP) — Basic fundamentals of the credit union movement must be re-examined and some "sacred cows" discarded if credit unions are to survive, A. R. Glen of Nanaimo, president of the National Association of Canadian Credit Unions, said Friday.

He told the Credit Union League of Alberta annual meeting that credit unions are facing fierce competition from other financial institutions which are providing many services that had been exclusive to credit unions.

Mr. Glen suggested credit unions place more emphasis on deposits and less on shares. Cheque handling services also should be stressed and more emphasis should be placed on long-term loans.

He said there was a need for an increase in personal services and more emphasis on mortgages.

He said costs of doing business show the need for streamlining services. It must mechanize, increase services or even amalgamate in order to survive.

SOOKE TEACHER WOULD HONOR LEADER OF 1864 EXPEDITION

Art Exhibition Proposed for Gold Rush Anniversary

By HUMPHRY DAVY

SOOKE — An art teacher here wants to organize an art exhibition to mark the 100th anniversary of the Robert Brown expedition which led to the discovery of gold on the Leech River, 15 miles north of Sooke.

Mrs. Bea Barnett said she will see if she can organize such a show for this summer.

It would feature paintings of Sooke and district, especially of the Sooke River, first explored by Brown's party in 1864, she said.

The discovery of gold on the Leech did much to boost the prosperity of Victoria.

An art teacher at Prince Albert, Saskatchewan for 20 years, Mrs. Barnett came to Sooke four years ago. She takes an active part in community affairs.

"There's a big interest in art in this district," she said. "Some of our artists are well known in Victoria. We usually hold an exhibition once a year."

Mrs. Barnett also teaches copper work, metal etching, fabric painting and other crafts.

Sooke may have to consider expanding its library facilities within the next two years due to a steady increase of readers, according to Mrs. Maude Adams, librarian.

Since the library was started in September 1963, the institution has loaned out about 1,500 books a month.

Membership now exceeds 500, she said.

"Each week we get new members," she said. "The way things are going, the present accommodations will be too small in two years."

The library is in one room, and is open 15 hours a week. It forms part of the Vancouver Island Regional Library.

Mrs. Adams said the district has a bookmobile service, but most residents seem to prefer the library.

Mrs. Adams said many chil- from their own school libraries which she described as "well equipped to take care of the needs of young people."

Work has started on construction of four additional classrooms and administrative offies at the Edward Milne High School.

The $78,000 project will be completed this fall.

The present administrative offices are in old army buildings.

Meanwhile, the Parent-Teacher Council with the help of businesses and industry, has done much to improve and landscape the school grounds.

Victoria Plant Safety Winner

The plywood division of B.C. Forest Products, Ltd., in Victoria has won a five-year cumulative safety award presented by the Forests Products Safety Conference, now in session at the Empress Hotel.

The plywood division showed only 2.70 accidents per million man-hours in its operations here. B.C. Forest Products' Cowichan veneer division won the 1963 safety award for veneer plants with no accidents.

The awards were presented at the annual banquet of the Forest Products Safety Conference Friday night.

The Burnaby operation of Macmillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. (formerly Sidney Roofing Ltd.) received a special award for no accidents in both division classes and overall cumulative sections.

OTHER AWARDS

Other awards for Island operations went to MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., Port Alberni, for sawmill over 750,000 man-hours, frequency rate of 1.20.

Tahsis Co., Port Alberni, sawmill under 250,000 man-hours, no accidents.

Western Forest Industries, Cowichan Lake, shingle mill class, frequency rate of 13.89.

MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., Somass shingle mill, frequency rate of 13.89.

The Tahsis Co. and Northwest Cedar Products Ltd., Port Alberni, also received special awards for zero frequency in the sawmill and pole yard divisions in 1963.

The report of the safety award judges showed there were no disabling accidents during the year's operation.

Bert Curtis, assistant director of the UBC extension department, addressed 300 delegates attending the Firest Products Safety Conference Friday.

He said there is no problem in the world which cannot be solved by learning and listed six key points supervisors should consider when teaching workers how to do their job safely—perception, communication, knowledge of results, getting response, transferring information and remembering.

Mr. Curtis complimented the forest products industry on their success in reducing job accidents but said it still had "a long way to go."

1,000 TO GET DOOR-TO-DOOR MAIL SERVICE

Regular mail delivery at home will start next month for about 1,000 households in the Glen Lake-Esquimalt Lagoon area.

Jeep-type mailmobiles will be used for the deliveries, says Victoria postmaster Allan Davies.

Daily delivery of letters, parcels, and any special delivery mail will start before the end of May, he says.

Lagoon and Glen Lake sub-post offices will be replaced by full post office services, and about 15 letter-drop boxes will be installed in the area.

Vocational Instructors Win Raises

The provincial government has approved raises totalling some $200,000 for staffs of five regional vocational schools.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said Friday the new salary scales were decided upon on the basis of an extensive study by the education department and the Civil Service Commission.

Mr. Peterson said the increases, provided by cabinet order-in-council, range from $40 to $100 a month, with the biggest increments for senior instructors.

They bring salaries of instructors to between $470 and $750 a month, depending on category and experience. Principals will earn between $800 and $900 a month — compared with the previous $730 to $850 —depending on the size of school.

Mr. Peterson said the increases "took into consideration salaries at public schools and the vocational institute in Vancouver, as well as four briefs from interested associations."

The new salary scales, retroactive to April 1, affect staffs at schools in Nanaimo, Burnaby, Prince George, Nelson and Kelowna. They cover all but clerical and janitorial employees.

CHARGING PALMER FIRES SUB-PAR 69 IN MASTERS

HELLYER OPTIMISTIC

New Naval Ship Contracts Soon

By PETE LOUDON

New naval ship contracts will be let as soon as possible after July, Defence Minister Paul Hellyer said here today.

He said a study of anti-submarine weapons systems will be completed in July.

"As soon as possible after that we can expect to be back in the ship procurement business," the minister added.

COAST TO SHARE

Mr. Hellyer, here on a one-day visit to defence establishments, said he could see no reason why Victoria and Vancouver shipyards would not share in contracts let at that time.

The minister said he realized that cost factors are higher in west coast yards, but "I am sure you can get your prices in line and share in the business."

He said he could give no definite word on the type of vessels the maritime defence system would require. Additional special studies will be given to a suggested need for vessels for troop transport and supply, he added.

He suggested that such vessels might be combined with vessels suited to carrying helicopters.

FUTURE USE

The study now being conducted by the defence department includes future uses of submarines, surface vessels, aircraft and combinations of all three.

He thought the findings would contribute to defence spending of an estimated $4 billion in the next four years.

At the same time, he said current plans to integrate the three services and streamline military operations could save about $1 billion over a decade.

Mr. Hellyer said there has been a "tremendous response" to the unification plan which was gratifying to the government.

"The integration will streamline effectiveness, reduce reaction time and save on purchases of equipment," he stated.

But the day when all forces will wear one uniform is not yet in sight, he cautioned, despite an earlier report from Ottawa that this would occur in 1965. He said this was corrected in the Commons.

It might come about "sometime" he said, because when the services are integrated under a single command there will be need for cross-postings in the many trades that now overlap.

The minister was unable to give details on how quickly the integration will proceed. First there would be integration of the top headquarters staff at Ottawa.

"The biggest wastage of manpower (if you can call it that) is there," he said.

Asked whether a single service would mean merger of the army base at Chilliwack with the navy base here or the RCAF base at Sea Island, the minister refused to speculate.

"I would think in due course

SCOTLAND WINS 1-0

GLASGOW (AP)—Scotland defeated England 1-0 in an international soccer match at Glasgow's Hampden Park Stadium today before a crowd of 134,000.

Alan Gilzean, Scotland's centre-forward, scored the winning goal in the 72nd minute.

The win gave Scotland a share with England in the British championship title. It also ended a six-game winning streak by England.

The game was played in drizzling rain.

The Scots completed three wins in a row over England—the first time they have done this since 1884.

Greeks Attack In Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Greek-Cypriots today launched a series of attacks against Turkish-Cypriot military positions in what appeared to be a major effort to wipe out Turkish military resistance in Northeast Cyprus.

The number of casualties was not immediately reported. United Nations peace forces rushed to the area but fighting continued and UN officials predicted a major Greek-Cypriot attack on the Nicosia-Kyrenia Highway.

In Nicosia, thousands of Greek-Cypriot students swarmed through the capital streets with banners demanding that British troops leave Cyprus.

Neutral authorities feared a Greek Cypriot attack against the Nicosia-Kyrenia highway would embroil them in direct fighting with the 650 Turkish troops here under a Turco-Greek treaty abrogated last week by President Makarios. The Turkish army guards part of the highway.

STRATEGIC

The highway is particularly strategic because the Turkish Cypriots would like for it to serve as a boundary if they ever win the partition they have demanded. Makarios abrogated the treaty because the Turks refused to return to their barracks from their positions along the highway.

The heaviest Greek Cypriot attack was reported at the Turkish stronghold of St. Hilarion Castle, high in the mountains overlooking Kyrenia—the castle used by Walt Disney as a model for "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Reoprts from the scene said the Greeks were pouring heavy fire up the mountain toward the castle from positions to the north and the south.

Soviet Swimmers Defeat British

BLACKPOOL, England (UPI) — Russian swimmers, for many years the also-rans of international swimming, served notice today they "have arrived" by beating Britain, 109 points to 94, in their two-day international meet which featured five world records.

The Russians led 3-2 on world marks, each country setting one today.

Prisoners Riot

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—More than 300 prisoners rioted today in the Dade County jail, smashing windows, flooding some cells and corridors and hurling debris to the jail yard below. A dozen ringleaders were dragged, kicking and screaming, out of cells and placed in solitary confinement.

Briton Sets Mark

HURLINGHAM, England (AP)—Mel Batty, 24-year-old English electrician, bettered the world record for the 10-mile run today with a time of 47 minutes, 26.8 seconds. His clocking clipped 20.2 seconds off the listed world mark set by Basil Heatley, also of England, in 1961.

FROBISHER BAY, Baffin Island (UPI)—Seven search planes today scanned the rugged hills and snowswept valleys northwest of here in a bid to locate a Norseman aircraft and its pilot missing since Thursday.

'HOT MIKE'

Castro Escaped Plot

HALIFAX, N.S. (UPI) — A plot to assassinate Fidel Castro during a television address to the Cuban nation was betrayed in its final hours, three Cuban defectors said Friday night.

Several television actors and technicians planned to electrocute the Cuban leader during a television speech at the University of Havana, March 13, the refugees said. The occasion marked the 1958 students' attack on the presidential palace.

Two leading TV personalities were executed and some 15 technicians and actors, including six women, were jailed after a fellow actor revealed the plan to police, the refugees added.

The three Cubans, former stevedores at Havana harbor, escaped from Cuba via ship recently and now are in immigration detention quarters here.

The refugees, fearing harm to their families in Cuba, agreed to speak only if their names were not used.

They recounted the alleged assassination attempt through an interpreter.

"The technicians were going to hook a high voltage cable to the microphone that Castro would use during his speech. When he grabbed the

Lawyer Believes Oswald Innocent

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — New York lawyer Mark Lane, who has conducted his own investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy, Friday night accused the American press, radio and television of waging a deliberate campaign to delude the American people.

Lane, who represented the mother of Lee Harvey Oswald, said he is convinced Oswald had not fired the shots that killed Kennedy in Dallas Nov. 22.

The lawyer said he had a statement from the policeman who found a rifle in the building where Oswald was supposed to have fired the shots.

The rifle found there was a German Mauser, yet later official statements say it was an Italian carbine, he said. He said these two weapons are so different it would be difficult to make such a mistake.

A taxi driver who drove Oswald from the scene had been named by police, but Lane said his investigations of Dallas records showed no taxi driver of this name had ever driven a cab in Dallas.

Lane stated he had seen six different versions of a photograph showing Oswald holding a rifle and a revolver.

Scratches on the negative showing in the prints proved the six versions were from the same negative, Lane said. But the rifle held by Oswald had been retouched and close examination showed the different retouchers had inserted different type of rifles.

He said Newsweek magazine had obtained a hitherto unpublished and "sensational" statement from Dr. Malcolm Perry of Dallas Hospital, where the president was treated after being shot, in which the doctor altered his original testimony about Kennedy's throat wound.

Perry originally stated the wound in the president's throat was made by an entering bullet and later said it was an exit wound, the lawyer declared.

The doctor's statement indicated the change had been forced on him to match the official explanation that Oswald shot Kennedy from behind, Lane said.

10 Under Par For 54 Holes

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Miracle man Arnold Palmer exploded three straight birdies like thunderclaps for a three-under-par 69 today and threatened to make a runaway of the 28th Masters golf tournament. He had a 54-hole score of 206.

Closest player to the charger from Latrobe, Pa., with the final round scheduled Sunday, was Dave Marr, a young pro from New Rochelle, N.Y., six strokes back.

Palmer was 10 under par for the 54 holes.

Englisman Peter Butler, who rallied with a 69, was seven shots away as were Gary Player of south Africa, through 50 holes and Johnny Pott, through 52.

HOGAN HAS 67

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus, his big game wild and unwieldy, shot a third-round 71 for 215 and was tied at that figure with Ben Hogan, who at 51 recaptured some of the mastery of the old days in firing the tournament's best score—a 67.

Palmer, seeking to become the first man ever to win four masters titles, now needs a 68 Sunday to tie the record 274 set by Hogan in 1953.

Golf observers had predicted that it might be years before Hogan's great performance was challenged.

Hogan's rounds were 70-69-66-69. Arnold's rounds have been 69-68-69.

Epidemic Strikes Belgium

BRUSSELS (UPI)—A highly infectious children's disease was reported sweeping eastern Belgium today, as talks between the government and striking doctors appeared on the verge of collapse.

Observers said the skeleton medical staffs organized by the striking doctors would be swamped by even minor epidemics.

Reports from Liege and Luxbourg provinces said the infectious disease, not immediately identified, was reported in a dozen cases. Doctors warned parents not ao allow their children to return to school Monday when the Easter vacation ends.

But in an ominous warning from the government, Premier Theo Lefevre announced "the strike must end before we will re-open negotiations" on possi-

Socred Urges 'Five-Party Government'

OTTAWA (CP)—Social Credit Leader Thompson said today a national government, formed of the best talent from all five party groups, is the only solution to the critical problems now facing the federal administration.

He said in an interview that such a step may also be the only way to save the country from complete political chaos.

Mr. Thompson said a five-party government, replacing the minority Liberal administration, would be made up of men convinced of "the absolute necessity to forget old labels and old formulas" and would rally the nation as it had never been rallied before.

MAKARIOS CONFERS IN ATHENS

ATHENS (UPI) — Greek Premier George Papandreou conferred for three and a half hours today with Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios and said after the meeting "complete agreement was established" on the Cyprus question.

Makarios flew in this morning to align strategy with the Greek government and discuss possible return of famed Greek Cypriot underground leader Gen. George Grivas to the embattled island.

Makarios said he expected to meet Grivas either later tonight or Sunday.

BRASILIA (AP) — Congress today elected Gen. Humberto Castello Branco president of Brazil.

Castello Branco will serve until Jan. 31, 1966, when a full-term president is expected to be elected.

NEW SERIES STARTS IN 'TIMES'

'Fathers of Confederation'

It is 100 years ago this year that Canadian leaders got together at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, to discuss the organization of Canada into a nation.

Three years later Confederation came about. The centenary of this event will be celebrated on a grand scale in 1967.

British Columbia, which had been establishing itself independently out on the Pacific Coast, did not join the nation until 1871, and claims roots going back long before.

But the men who met in Charlottetown are classed as "The Fathers of Confederation."

As a mark of respect to their vision in forging the nation, and as a reminder to the younger generation of the work done by those who have gone before, the Times will launch a special feature beginning next Tuesday.

It consists of a gifted artist's drawings of "The Fathers" with biographical descriptions of who they were and the parts they played.

There are 33 men involved. The feature will appear three times a week for the next 11 weeks, which covers the rest of the school term for those who are studying this milestone in Canada's development.

The articles will appear in a form that makes them suitable for students to use them in scrapbooks.

THE CORPORATION OF THE DISTRICT OF OAK BAY BY-LAW NO. 2466

A By-law to provide for the acquisition of property and the construction of a Recreation Centre and to authorize the borrowing of the estimated cost thereof.

WHEREAS the Municipal Council of The Corporation of the District of Oak Bay deems it desirable and expedient to construct a Recreation Centre;

AND WHEREAS the Council deems it to be necessary to acquire Lots 3 to 45, both inclusive Section 69, Plan 249, and Lots 1 and 2, Section 69, Plan 3502, Victoria District, the said lots being situate on Marrion Street, Bee Street, Goldsmith Street and Foul Bay Road, to establish a site for the proposed Recreation Centre;

AND WHEREAS the Council has caused preliminary plans and estimates to be prepared by its architect, the said plans being posted on display in the Municipal Hall, Oak Bay, and the specifications deposited in the office of the Municipal Engineer at the Municipal Hall, Oak Bay;

AND WHEREAS it is estimated that it will be necessary to provide a sum not exceeding $1,421,000 for the construction of the proposed Recreation Centre including acquisition of land, furnishings, landscaping, paving, and incidental expenses in connection therewith:

AND WHEREAS the sum of $1,421,000 is the maximum amount of the debt intended to be created by this By-law;

AND WHEREAS it is necessary that the said money to be raised hereunder be raised on the credit of the said Corporation;

AND WHEREAS the existing debenture debt of the said Corporation is $1,817,024 and none of the principal and interest in respect thereto is in arrears;

AND WHEREAS the assessed value for general municipal purposes of the taxable land and improvements within the said Corporation for the current year and the two years immediately preceding the current year is as follows:

1962	$43,020,180
1963	$43,963,150
1964	$45,637,070

AND WHEREAS the approval of the Inspector of Municipalities has been obtained;

THEREFORE the Municipal Council of The Corporation of the District of Oak Bay enacts as follows:

1. The Council shall be and is hereby empowered and authorized to acquire Lots 3 to 45 both inclusive, Section 69, Plan 249 and Lots 1 and 2, Section 69, Plan 3502, Victoria District, the said lots being situate on Marrion Street, Bee Street, Goldsmith Street and Foul Bay Road, and to construct thereon a recreational centre in accordance with the plans and specifications on deposit in the office of the Municipal Engineer at the Municipal Hall, Oak Bay.
2. For the purpose and with the object aforesaid there may be borrowed upon the credit of the said Corporation, a sum not exceeding $1,421,000, and such borrowing shall be secured by the issue of series of debentures bearing interest at a rate not exceeding six per centum (6%) per annum, provided, however, that the last of such series of debentures shall be redeemed not later than twenty years after the date of issue.
3. In each year during the currency of the said debentures, there shall be levied and raised by rate sufficient therefor, over and above all other rates, on all land and improvements subject to taxation for general municipal purposes within the said Corporation at the same time and in the same manner as other rates, a special rate to provide for the repayment of the debt hereby created and the interest thereon.
4. This By-law, before adoption, shall receive the assent of the owner-electors in the manner provided by the "Municipal Act."
5. This By-law shall take effect on the date of its adoption by Council.
6. This By-law may be cited as the "Recreation Centre Construction and Property Acquisition Financing By-law, 1964."

Take notice that the above is a true copy of the proposed by-law upon which the vote of the owner-electors of the Municipality will be taken at the Municipal Hall, 2167 Oak Bay Avenue, Oak Bay, on Saturday, the 25th day of April, 1964, between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 8:00 p.m., and an ADVANCED POLL will be opened at the Municipal Hall, between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 5:00 p.m. on each of the two days immediately preceding the day of the Poll (April 23rd and 24th), and that E. H. Hart has been appointed Returning Officer for the purpose of taking and recording the vote of owner electors.

Dated at Oak Bay, this 7th day of April, 1964.

E. H. HART,
Municipal Clerk

The proposed By-law was introduced and given 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Reading by the Municipal Council of Oak Bay on March 25, 1964, and received the approval of the Inspector of Municipalities on March 31, 1964, but is not effective unless approved by the electors of the Municipality.

Coach House Group Led to Rural Church

The church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, Saanich, will celebrate its 50th anniversary Sunday.

It originated as a Sunday school organized by Mrs. S. Wilkinson, who occupied a dairy farm a few yards away from the present site.

Mrs. Wilkinson held her Sunday school classes in an old coach house at the corner of Obed and Dysart and they grew into services of worship conducted by two laymen with occasional visits by city ministers.

The mission church of St. Jude's was opened on April 12, 1914. The first lay reader was H. H. Smith, now a prominent member of Christ Church Cathedral.

BUILT BY BEQUEST

Rev. J. Lloyd Keating, who came here from St. Martin-in-the-Fields, London, England, became attached to the mission church and left a sum of money to build a new church on condition it was named St. Martin-in-the-Fields.

The church was built with volunteer labor and duly dedicated as St. Martin-in-the-Fields in 1926. A tower to house the big bell, brought from St. Jude's, was donated by Mrs. Keating.

Impaired Drivers Fined $300 Each; One Man Jailed

Three persons were each fined $300 and a fourth was sent to jail for 30 days after they were picked up in an impaired condition by police early today.

James Loewen, 225 Mary, who was convicted of impaired driving in 1960, received the jail sentence. He told police who arrested him on Pandora that he thought he was in Duncan.

Douglas Richards, 831 Shamrock, was picked up by city police on Government after he narrowly missed hitting a car.

Peter Barnes, Windsor Auto Court, lost control of his car and ended up in the flower bed in front of 804 Dominion.

Francis Donegani, 3355 Beach Drive, was stopped after his car weaved three times to the wrong side of the road as he drove along Nottingham.

All four lost their driver's licences.

TENDERS

Tenders are invited for dismantling salvaging and removal of one 100,000 gallon wood stave tank and 24 ft. timber tower. Tenders to be received by April 25th. Applicants or tenderers may contact for appointment to view, Mrs. A. Hamilton, Secretary Brentwood Waterworks District. GR 4-1604.

SEALED TENDERS INVITED

Bad Weather Blamed For Crashes

B.C. motorists are more accident-prone than ever this year.

Provincial safety officials think it's the weather.

Figures for the first quarter of 1964 include a 12 per cent increase in accidents and 19 per cent more injuries than the first three months of last year.

There has been no increase in the number of deaths, however, totalling 73 to the end of March, the same as 1963.

There were 7,200 accidents during the same period, compared to 6,476 last year.

Injuries this year total 3,100, against 2,596 in 1963.

WEATHER INFLUENCE

A Motor Vehicles Branch official said there appears to be a relationship between the weather and the number of accidents.

January, when the biggest increase was recorded, was a particularly hazardous month for drivers, he said.

Better weather in February and March was accompanied by an immediate drop in accidents.

The official said that despite the increase in accidents and injuries, people were not hurt as badly this year.

He said seat belts—compulsory on all new cars for the first time this year—are probably helping to reduce the severity of injuries and to keep the death toll from mounting.

Archbishop To Conduct Rites For Mrs. Page

Archbishop Harold Sexton will conduct funeral services in Christ Church Cathedral Monday at 11:15 a.m. for Mrs. A. M. Page, who died in Royal Jubilee Hospital Friday night after a fall.

Mrs. Page, 93, was the mother of Canon B. T. Page, rector of St. Barnabas' Anglican Church, and lived at 1601 Begbie.

She fell in an alcove near the entrance to St. Barnabas' Church at Belmont and Begbie and was found there later by a neighbor. She apparently slipped while climbing the stairs to the church.

Canon Page told police he left his mother at the residence and wasn't aware she was going over to the church. Mrs. Page was found at 5:10 p.m. and died at 9 p.m.

Doctors' representatives and government officials were to meet again today at Val Duchess Chateau outside Brussels—but only to discuss ways of reopening negotiations which broke down April 1, precipitating the strike.

Lefevre said angrily that "any normal group" would have stopped its strike and started negotiations at the point reached Friday after a seven-hour talk between the two parties.

"I hope this will not become known as the time of the assassins," Lefevre said as he entered the conference hall to begin the talks.

microphone, they would throw a switch and the current would kill Castro.

"But two days before the speech, police arrested the actors and technicians. There were no regular programs on the TV network (CMQ) for two days, only pictures. And Enrique Santiesteban (described as a TV master of ceremonies) and George Guerrero (a poetry reader) were killed. The others were put in jail.

"Ramon Veloz (described as a singer) was the one who betrayed the plan," the Cubans said.

The three are seeking political asylum in the United States.
